LADIES DETERMINED ON EARLY AMENDMENT

Suffragettes By the Hundreds in Washington

WANT CONSTITUTION CHANGED

Soon to Launch Fight for Amendment to Federal Constitution That Wil Enfranchise Women —Men's Club.

Washington, Nov. 29.—With the announced intention of starting speedly on its way an amendment to the Federal constitution that will enfranchise women, suffragists by the hundreds arrived here today to attend the 45th convention of the National American Woman's Suffrage Association. The woman's right to such an amendment is to be urged upon Congress with vigorous determination say the suffrage leaders. They also assert they will attempt to obtain during their week's stay here an expression from President Wilson which might be regarded as the Democratic party's policy on the woman suffrage question.

Hotel lobbies buzzed tonight with discussion by groups of delegates on the questions which will come before the convention when it begins its sessions Monday. Arrival and certification of delegates, meetings of the official board and of the executive committees and a luncheon by the National College Equal Suffrage League, at which Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, president of the National association; Miss Jane Addams and other prominent leaders spoke, were features of today's preliminary programme. Enthusiasm will be kept alive over Sunday by a mass meeting tomorrow at which Dr. Shaw, Miss Addams and State Senator Helen Ring Robinson, of Colorado, will be speakers.

The executive committee at a meeting tonight took up for consideration two important matters which will come before the convention. One was the proposal to adopt a new constitution for the association in accordance with the recommendation of the constitutional revision committee. The other was as to the founding of a business corporation, capitalized at $50,000, to be known as the National Suffrage Publishing Company, which would have charge of the printing of suffrage literature both for the National and for affiliated and other suffrage associations.

The purpose of the proposed new constitution is to place the organization on a fixed financial basis with a budget to be presented each year to the convention for approval and assessments made on affiliated organizations.

At the college women's meeting, Miss Addams declared that the recently acquired franchise in Illinois already has been given the women of that State great influence in needed reform.

A "Men's League for Woman Suffrage" whose main object is to work for the suffrage amendment, has been organized here with Dr. Harvey W. Wiley as president.

AFTER DESPERADO.

Gun Fight Underground—Two More Dead.

Bingham, Utah., Nov. 29.—In a fight under ground with only the flash of rifles breaking the darkness, Ralph Lopez, Mexican desperado, added possibly two more names to his list of killed late today when he drove a posse of deputy sheriffs from the Utah Apex Mine.

On November 21st Lopez killed the chief of police of Gingham, two deputies and a fellow countryman. He shouted from the depths of his stronghold tonight: "It will cost many more lives before you get me."

Lopez shot Deputies Douglas Hulzey and Tom Mandrich, who at a late hour tonight still lay where they fell. A half dozen deputies penetrated 900 feet into the mine this afternoon to light a smudge to smoke the desperado out. As soon as Hulzey struck a match he was shot by Lopez. In the exchanges that followed Mandrich fell and then the deputies retreated. Several deputies who had gone ahead of the smudging party were cut off by the desperado who is now between them and the outlet.

CRACKSMEN ROB BANK AT ELLENBORO, N. C.

Secure $3,000 and Make Successful Get-Away.

Charlotte, N. C., Nov. 29.—Cracksmen last night blew the safe of the Bank of Ellenboro and secured $3,000 in currency. The loss was covered by burglary insurance.

Nine charges of explosives were applied before the cracksmen succeeded in securing the cash.

It is believed there were three or four members of the party of robbers, but so far no clue to their identity has been found.

A number of the townspeople were awakened by the explosion. Mr. Green, who lives near the bank, rushed out but was forced back to his home by the robbers.

Bloodhounds were secured and put on the trail, but it was hard to follow. The trail led towards the South Carolina line.

CHARLOTTE MAN FOUND WITH HEAD CRUSHED.

Whispered Name Before Dying—Arrests Follow.

Charlotte, N. C., Nov. 29.—Contractor B. B. Carter, was found in his room at 308 West Sixth street at 7 o'clock tonight, his skull chopped to pieces with a carpenter's adze. Rushed to a hospital dying, he whispered a name to a physician, who reported to the police. John McQuary, Nick Johnson, James Griggs and Brady McNelis are held without bail.

END EXTRA SESSION

Longest in History of Congress Adjourned Yesterday

Begin Regular Session of Congress Monday—Democratic Leaders Urge Speedy Passage of Currency Legislation.

Washington, November 29.—The longest continuous extraordinary session in the history of Congress practically ended tonight and the regular session will begin at noon next Monday.

Democratic leaders, acting in concert with President Wilson, would not permit an actual finish to be written to the special session, although the House adjourned finally. The Senate will meet again at 10 o'clock Monday, and adjournment will not formally come until a few minutes before the time for the regular session to convene.

Two great projects have held the attention of Congress and the country throughout the unprecedented work of the year. One of these, revision of the tariff, crystalized into law in September. The other, currency reform, still is the chief subject of legislative interest, and will remain so until disposed of in the regular session.

The special session, opening a month after the Democratic forces took complete control of the government, began with a re-organization of party leadership in the Senate which overthrow precedent and brought the so-called progressive forces into control. Throughout the contests on tariff and currency, the session has been marked by solidification of the Democratic ranks.

Demand of the Democratic leaders that the currency bill be passed at once brings the extra session to a stirring close. Day and night sessions of the Democratic currency conference have marked the last week and day and night sessions of the Senate are promised for the new session until currency legislation is concluded.

Although President Wilson urged the Congress just closing to hold itself to the two chief projects, tariff and currency, several other matters of general importance have been considered. One important legislative act was the so-called Newlands law for mediation and conciliation in labor disputes. Under this enactment Federal arbitrators were able to avert the threatened strike of trainmen on Eastern railroads last Summer which threatened to tie-up American commerce.

The abolishment of the United States Commerce Court also was accomplished through an amendment to the deficiency appropriation bill. Another appropriation bill (rider) took out of the classified civil service most of the deputy United States marshals and deputy collectors of internal revenue. Exemption of labor unions from prosecution under the anti-trust laws, so far as certain funds were concerned, also was accomplished.

Many legislative acts aside from the re-adjustment of import duties were embraced in the tariff bill.

Most important of these was the section providing for the levying of an income tax. Other provisions included the prohibition against the importation of feathers of birds, a special rebate on goods brought in American ships, an act designed to encourage American shipbuilding and to strengthen the American merchant marine.

The long fight over the proposed tax on cotton futures, to prevent "cotton gambling," failed in the final developments prior to the passage of the tariff bill. The cotton tax subject was also thoroughly discussed, however, and the advocates of it came to such an understanding that it is expected a measure to regulate trading in futures will be passed before the new session ends.

Many other bills which underwent preliminary preparation in the committee rooms will be pushed to conclusion in the new Congress. These include the "seaman's servitude bill," which passed the Senate; the Hetch-Hetchy bill to grant San Francisco water supply rights in that valley, which passed the House, and is to be voted on by the Senate December 6th, and the Alaskan Railroad bill, which the Senate has agreed to take up in December.

The investigating activities of the special session were confined chiefly to the probing of lobbying activities and to the inquiry into causes and conduct of the strike in the West Virginia coal fields. The special committees that conducted these investigations have not completed their work, and will not report until early next year.

Ft. Williams, Ont. Nov. 29.—The tug Arbutus returned today after a search along the coast of the Manitou Islands for the missing steamer Leifield. A piece of topmast was found floating near Eagle Harbor, but there were no marks by which it might be identified. The Liefield carried a crew of 14.

ENGINEER WEEPS WHEN TRAIN KILLS CHILD.

Lenoir, N. C., Nov. 29.—The 18 months' old child of B. N. Annan, while playing on the track of the railroad near the residence of its parents at Sawmills, a flag station ten miles from Lenoir, was instantly killed by a passenger train, whose engineer saw the little one too late to stop. The body was fearfully mangled and the spectacle was so sorrowful to the engineer that he burst into tears as he looked upon the fragments of the corpse.

ALL DAY WRANGLE OVER CURRENCY

Slow Progress Made by the Democratic Conference

PRACTICALLY NO CHANGE

Delay All Consideration of Number of Regional Reserve Banks—Floor Programme to be Arranged Later.

Washington, Nov. 29.—Subjected to an all day wrangle in the conference of Democratic Senators today, the administration currency bill progressed slowly in its preparation for final consideration on the floor of the Senate.

Practically no change was made in the administration draft of the bill as presented by Senator Owen, and the five administration Senators of the Banking and Currency committee during the day, but for several hours the conference discussed a technical interpretation of the provision of the bill relating to the retiring of the new currency to be issued. Senator Reed, of Missouri, criticised the wording of the section.

The Democratic programme for day and night sessions of the Senate until the bill is disposed of probably will be delayed until the conference concludes its work next Tuesday or Wednesday. The principle upon which the committee split, the public ownership and government control of the proposed regional reserve banks, was not brought before the conference and the administration plan for regional banks capitalized by enforced subscriptions of the banks and controlled by bank-selected directors was endorsed. It was provided, however, that the Federal reserve board should have the power to remove all directors of the regional banks.

The conference passed over the provision of the bill fixing the number of regional banks.

At the instance of the conference, Democrats of the Currency committee are framing a guarantee of bank deposits provision, which may be written into the bill.

Whether the conference would adopt a binding resolution to put all of the Democrats behind the Owen bill as a party measure, arose today, but the leaders did not hurry to force an issue upon it. Several Democrats have taken the position that while they favored the bill generally, they desired to be free to vote for any amendments.

Adopt an Amendment.

The conference referred back to the Democrats of the Banking committee the section of the bill relating to the retirement of Federal reserve notes and a new proposition was suggested for the refunding of the 2 per cent bonds on which the present currency is based. The plan would

AN ELABORATE BILL

To Restrict Cold Storage of Food and Penalize Corners

All Firms Must Give Government Daily Report of All Meats, Vegetables, and Other Perishables on Hand.

Washington, Nov. 29.—An elaborated anti-high cost of living bill not only to restrict cold storage of food but to penalize agreements for storage, pooling, division of territory, interference with competition or other restraint of trade in foodstuffs, was introduced today by Representative McKellar, of Tennessee.

The new bill, which will be urged immediately before the House Commerce committee, would make the maximum period of storage on beef or its products seven months; veal two months; pork four months; sheep or goats four months; lamb or kids three months; poultry and game three months; fish two months; eggs three months to six months, with provision for labeling all over three months old after inspection; butter three months.

The bill proposed that cold storage articles must be labeled with the dates of production, killing, packing or manufacturing and period of storage. It would bar thawing out cold storage products, would have regulations issued by the Department of Agriculture and provide other precautions.

Representative McKellar has recently conferred frequently with Attorney General McReynolds on the cost of living problem and is understood to have furnished some information which Department of Justice agents now are investigating in their pursuit of an alleged cold storage combination. It was generally inferred at the capital that his new bill has the approval of the attorney general.

The bill also provides that packers of meat, poultry, butter and eggs and all cold storage concerns must furnish to the government daily statements of goods on hand, shipments, receipts and deliveries in violation of which heavy penalties may be imposed.

Representative Fowler, of Illinois, is collecting data to present to the Judiciary committee when it takes up a long contemplated investigation of an alleged beef trust. He intends to ask the committee to investigate particularly whether meats kept in cold storage are treated with chemicals.

PORT OF TAMPICO MAY HAVE FALLEN

Report to That Effect Current in Mexico City

VILLA ATTACKS FEDERALS

Washington Confident That Financial Blockade of Huerta Government is working to Desired End. Train Blown Up.

Mexico City, Nov. 29.—San Luis Potosi, the largest town between the capital and Monterey, and the most important railroad center in Central Mexico, appears to be the objective point of those rebels who recently began concentrating south of Saltillo. Reports indicate that more than 6,000 rebels have concentrated at Victoria, and that Gen. Rubio Navarrette, the Federal commander, who intended to re-capture Victoria, is in a difficult situation north of that town.

There is an unconfirmed report that Navarrette's force has been cut to pieces, although according to War Department advices, he has re-taken Victoria.

Another troop train was blown up near San Luis Potosi yesterday. Private advices indicate the presence of 1,000 rebels within striking distance of that city. A passenger who arrived here today from San Luis Potosi told a story of the wiping out of a military escort of 50 men on a train bound from Tampico to San Luis Potosi, four days ago. He said that the train on which he was riding ran into a cut guarded by rebels. Machine guns on both sides concentrated their fire on the train. When the engagement was over, every soldier on board the train had been killed and 45 passengers wounded.

Some reports here say Tampico has been taken, but in best informed circles they are discredited, although it is known that the rebel circle is slowly tightening about that port.

Saltillo and Monterey continue isolated and reports from other parts of the country indicate successful rebel activity.

Facing the Federals.

El Paso, Texas, Nov. 29.—The vanguard of Gen. Francisco Villa's rebel forces which left Juarez on Friday night, is reported tonight at Los Medanos, about 35 miles north of a column of Federal forces which have been at Villa Ahumada since the battle of Tierra Blanca.

Gen. Villa will leave for the south in a day or two with the remainder of the rebel forces now in Juarez.

Federal officials in El Paso report that Gen. Pascual Orozco with 5,000 Federal troops is moving northward from Chihuahua to attack Villa's vanguard.

Huerta Loosing Out.

Washington, Nov. 29.—Under pressure of Constitutionalist armies in the north, advancing on Chihuahua, the most important military defense that now stands between the Mexican capital and the border, and the menacing activities of the Zapatistas to the south, the situation of the Huerta government in Mexico City was believed by officials here tonight, to be more critical than usual.

Efforts of General Huerta to obtain funds for the payment of accrued interest on National railroad bonds were regarded as demonstrating the deterrent effect upon foreign capital of the attitude of the American government towards speculators who would risk their money at this stage in the great National tragedy.

Mexico City, according to advices here, is almost isolated from the northern half of Mexico. State Department reports show that while rail communication is still open between Laredo and Monterey, mail and telegraph matter cannot get southward beyond the latter point except to Sa-

GOVERNOR CRAIG TO HOT SPRINGS FOR TREATMENT

Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 29.—Upon leaving Raleigh Sunday morning for Hot Springs, Ark., for treatment for rheumatism, Governor Craig turns over the office of Governor to Lieutenant Governor E. L. Daughtridge.

Governor Craig will be absent two weeks from Raleigh, and Mr. Daughtridge, who is a farmer of Rocky Mount, will be in charge.

OUTLINES

The extraordinary session of Congress adjourned last night. The regular session will open for business Monday morning.

The football game between the Army and Navy, played on the Polo grounds yesterday, was the finale for the season. 42,000 people saw the game.

A bill has been introduced limiting the cold storage people and in connection also ruling out all combines in storage and prices on storage goods.

After an all day wrangle over the currency bill, very little advancement was made by the Democratic Senators in conference over it. The conference may last well into next week.

The conditions in Mexico are about the same. Washington is confident that the financial boycott brought to bear upon Huerta and his government is being felt.

New York markets: Wheat easy No. 2 red 98 1-8 to 1.00; No. 1 Northern Duluth 96 1-2. Corn firm 85. Flour quiet. Rosin easy. Turpentine quiet. Money on call nominal, no loans. Spot cotton quiet; middling uplands 13.40; middling gulf 13.65; no sales.

RADICAL CHANGES IN CONVICT POLICY

Declared for By State Prison Board Yesterday

TO AVERT IMPENDING DEFICIT

Board Called Together in Special Session—Convicts to be Withdrawn From Statesville Air Line. Fewer on Farm.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 29.—Called here in special session today on account of serious developments as to the financial condition of the institution, the board of directors of the North Carolina State's prison declared for a radical change in the policy of the management to avert an impending deficit of large proportions and for sweeping changes in the distribution and employment of the convicts.

The meeting was called because the State Treasurer had discovered that a defect in the act providing for the construction of the Statesville Air Line, Statesville to Mt. Airy, relieves the State Treasurer from crediting the State's prison with cash face value for certificates of stock in the Statesville Air Line for convict labor. Up to the time the defect was discovered in the act a few days ago, something like $65,000 in cash had been credited out of the State Treasury to the prison for Statesville Air Line stock. When the discovery was made all this back credit was charged against the prison again and the prison authorities notified that no more credits could be allowed and that this construction work must be done by the prison without any credit benefit from the State, the prison to hold the stock for whatever it could realize out of it in future.

Deficit Already.

This charge against the prison of the Statesville Air Line stock leaves the prison with a deficit of $18,508 at this time and a prospect and practical assurance, if the present policy is maintained, of a deficit of not less than probably $40,000 December 1st, 1914. The prison assets for the next year, including cash credits for convict labor in railroad construction through certificates of stock and all outstanding solvent redits, is $181,097, while the estimated expenses of the prison are $202,459.

New Policy Declared.

On account of these conditions, the directors declared through resolutions adopted, the following policy:

That the superintendent is directed to curtail operations at the State farm for the next year to 100 able bodied convicts, together with the infirm population of the prison, only crops that this force can cultivate to be planted, this cutting the crops from

TO SUCCEED MARBLE

Believed That Glenn Will Be Appointed

Selection of I. C. Commissioners Most Important Patronage Job Yet for Wilson—Kluttz May Get Big Job.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Washington, D. C., Nov. 29.—Democratic and Republican Senators alike believe that in selecting men for the Inter-State Commerce Commission to fill at least two vacancies, and three, should Commissioner Clements be not given another term, President Wilson has one of the most responsible jobs which he has had to contend with. It is certainly the most important patronage job.

Because of the great importance attached to these appointments Senators have let it be known that they propose to scrutinize most carefully the record of each and every man selected for a place on the commission. It can be stated positively that no nomination which the President sends to the Senate will be confirmed until a thorough investigation has been made of the record of the man so selected.

Already protests have been entered against Former Governor Robert B. Glenn and others mentioned for the commission. These protests, however, will not assume a concrete form until the nominations are sent in.

Glenn to Succeed Marble.

Commissioner Clements, it is believed, will be re-appointed; a New England man will be selected to succeed Judge Prouty, and Governor Glenn will be nominated to succeed Commissioner Marble.

E. L. Auman was confirmed as postmaster at Ashboro by the Senate this afternoon. Had this action not been taken, the President would have been forced to have sent in the nomination again as under the rule all nominations unconfirmed at the end of any session of Congress die with the Congress.

Beasley Not a Quitter.

It is believed R. F. Beasley will attempt to take the cause of George Beasley who wants to be postmaster at Monroe to the President. Secretary Daniels is a strong supporter of Beasley and may aid him in the fight "higher up." Such action would count for nothing more than to allow the Republican incumbent to draw salary

SOLDIER BOYS SOUND TAPS OVER NAVY TEAM

42,000 Football Fans See Sturdy Lads Nail Colors to Navy Goal Posts—President and Many of Cabinet Members in the Grand Stand, and Divide Time Between Two Crowds Hard Fought Game Results in Score of 22 to 9.

New York, Nov. 29.—Forty-two thousand persons saw the Navy go down in defeat this afternoon before the Army eleven on the Polo grounds. No greater throng has ever seen an Army-Navy game.

The multitude which crowded the stands included President Wilson, the secretaries of war and of the navy, other cabinet officers, Senators, Congressmen and the flower of the military and naval service. Every seat was occupied and many more persons would have been there had space to seat them been available.

Set in an oval of humanity was the re-made gridiron, protected from the rain till this afternoon by a 12-inch blanket of straw. To the south on the side line was the Army stand, to the north sat the Navy with the field between, raked by a cross-fire of cheering.

President Wilson and his party followed precedent in dividing their time at the game between the contenders. The President was a few minutes late and the game did not start till he had taken his seat in an upper grand stand box almost directly over the Army stand. When the first half ended he was escorted by Secretary of War Garrison and Secretary Daniels to the Navy side.

Rain threatened during the first three periods of the game and in the last quarter a drizzle began.

The Conquering Heroes.

As the Army battalions marched upon the field, headed by the Cadet band, the crowd cheered. Down the side lines marched the band, the battalions of grey and gold following in columns of four. Around the field they marched, then followed the band the length of the field down the center, 50 abreast, turning by fours, reforming in long lines and halting before the south stand. As they marked time, the navy eleven ran on the field. Another cheer went up. The Cadet band quickened its tune to a jig, and the lines of gray broke and ran for the stand.

Meantime a flourish of bugles announced the approach of the naval battalions. It was nearing time for the game and they marched straight down the center of the field. Across the shoulder of each man's long blue overcoat gleamed a bold band; from each man's hand waved a gold pennant. When they made the stand the blue was almost hidden by a moving forest of golden standards and streamers.

The Army eleven scurried out on the field. A great shout went up. Across the field, the Blue and Gold cheered the Army; and the Army with the blare of many bugles and the roar of many voices, gave back a greeting to the Navy. Blue coated and gray garbed cheer leaders, swinging megaphones, darted out to the side lines and took their stand before each battalion. Then came the tumult of rival cheers and songs drowning the torrent of applause from mere civilians as the elevens took their places.

A field goal by the Navy in the first quarter set the streamers of gold snapping wildly. In the second period when the Army tied the score by scoring a field goal, the Army stand went wild.

Wild Delight.

But the greatest delirium was saved for the Army touchdown in the same period. Six hundred West Pointers rose to their feet as one man, tossed their caps on high, unloosed their voices in wild hurrahs and forgot to give their college yells in their delight.

At the end of the game, the Army celebrated with the usual rush to the colors. From the stand they stormed the field and danced in a great circle over the gridiron. The circle widened till a line of gray clad men surrounded the field. In the center were planted the army colors.

As the crowds surged out on the field two stalwart youths in gray overcoats climbed to the top of the Navy's goal post and nailed the Army colors there.

President Wilson, who had waited for the last act of the encounter, saw them. He turned to Secretary Daniels: "That was worthy of a sailor," the President said. And Secretary Daniels agreed with him.

Hard Fought Game.

The Army football game furnished a spectacular and confusing finale to the Eastern football season of 1913 by defeating the Navy eleven at the Polo grounds today by a score of 22 to 9.

Completely outplayed during the opening period, the cadets swept the sailors off their feet in the second half by a combination of brilliant individual and open team play that quickly rolled up and overwhelmed lead.

With victory in sight for the first time in four years, the West Point team scored rapidly and finished the game with a total that has not been exceeded by either academy in ten years.

Despite the annihilation of the Navy's hope of a fourth consecutive victory over the Army the game was fought out desperately until the closing moment.

From a technical football standpoint the playing of neither team was above the usual calibre of the annual inter-academy gridiron struggle. Much of the work of coaches went for naught when the battle reached its height and there was the usual man-to-man struggle, with team work more or less forgotten.

From the standpoint of persons, however, the game and its setting lost nothing of its thrilling grip and the 42,000 spectators present gasped and cheered by turns at the kaleidoscopic playing. The use of the forward pass repeatedly by the Cadets opened up the play to a far greater extent than the more conservative line attack and runs of the Middies, thus furnishing the spectators many brilliant football pictures. It was in the execution of this play that the Army advantage lay and the final score demonstrates how successfully it was worked.

Played Straight Game.

In the opening quarter the two elevens played the usual Eastern game, with the attack directed principally at the line and outside tackle. At this period the advantage lay entirely with the Middies, who used their weight and speed for consistent gains. Near their own goal line the Army held firmly and Brown, the Middies' right guard, was called back to the Cadets' 20-yard line, whence he kicked a placement goal. In the second period he duplicated the feat after Hodgson dropped one of Nichols' punts and Gilchrist recovered.

The Army got into action in this quarter also, with a field goal and touchdown. Early in the period the soldiers gained the ball on the Navy's 10-yard line as a result of a blocked punt from Nicholls. The West Point backs could make no impression on the Navy line and Woodruff, who replaced Jouett for the occasion, kicked an easy goal from placement on the Navy's 25-yard line. Just before the quarter ended Prichard caught one of Nicholls' high punts at mid-field and raced 15 yards. Then three times in succession Prichard hurled a forward pass. The first two were uncompleted, but the third shot squarely into the hands of Merrillat, the Army right end who ran run across the Middies' goal line. The score at the end of the first half remained 9 to 6 in favor of the soldiers, for McEwan failed to kick the goal from touchdown.

The Navy added another goal from placement in the third period when Nicholls, by clever running back of Jouett's punt, placed the ball on the Army's 25-yard line. Checked by the soldiers' defense Brown scored his third goal from placement standing on the 30-yard mark.

Points Nine All.

With the points nine all the Cadets opened another brilliant attack. Morrillat, with little or no interference, ran from the Army's 45-yard line to the Middies' one-yard mark before he was tackled from the rear by Gilchrist. Two line plunges with Capt. Hoge carrying the ball, scored the second touchdown and McEwan kicked the goal, making the score Army 16; Navy 9.

Not satisfied with this lead the Cadets set out to revenge themselves for their defeats of recent years and succeeded in adding another touchdown. Immediately after the opening of the final period Capt. Hoge caught one of Nicholls' low punts on the Army's 45-yard line and ran unaided to the Middies' 20-yard mark. On the next line-up Hoge tore through the fast weakening sailors' line for eight yards. Again Prichard elected to try for a forward pass, and again it was Merrillat who caught the flying spheroid behind the Navy goal line for the third touchdown of the game. The punt out was a failure, leaving the final score, Army 22; Navy 9.

During the 60 minutes of play the Navy eleven failed to show the consistent advancing power that had brought them seven victories by big scores in the eight preliminary games of the season. While the Army did not, as a team, diagnose the attack successfully, the desperate charging and tackling of the Cadets upset the interference and brought down the runner with little or no gain. Nicholls, who played under the handicap of running the team and the ball, repeatedly was out-punted by Jouett. The Army ends excelled in covering punts.

Forward Pass Responsible.

It was distance gained by exchange of kicks and in running back punts that usually put the army in a position for a score. Once within the scoring zone, the Cadets relied mainly on the forward pass and the records show that they tried 12 during the game. Three were completed and two resulted in touchdowns. A fourth was intercepted and eight were uncompleted. The Middies tried six forward passed, one being intercepted and five grounded.

Although the attack and defense of the two teams lacked the cohesiveness seen in some of the preceding games of the Eastern season, there was no lack of individual brilliancy and daring play. Brown in kicking three placement goals in three tries from an average distance of 24 2-3 yards, gained a place in the 1913 football hall of fame as did Prichard and Merrillat for their operation of the forward pass. Nicholls, the Middy quarterback, shouldered a heavy burden of play and responsibility and came through the contest with much credit. Markoe and Merrillat more than held their own with the famous Navy ends, Ingram and Gilchrist, while Wynn and McEwan did yeoman work in the Army line.

Laud Michigan Coach.

In the Navy back field, McReavy paired honors with Nicholls, while Prichard and Jouett were effective, both on the offense and defense in the Army backfield. Coach "Hurry Up" Yost, of Michigan, who spent several days at West Point this week, is also mentioned by Army men in their songs of victory tonight. The line-up:

SUIT FILED TO DISSOLVE AMERICAN CAN COMPANY.

Tin Can Trust to be Brought Before Bar of Justice.

Baltimore, Nov. 29.—Suit was filed here today to dissolve the American Can Company, the so-called tin can trust, which the Department of Justice alleges controls a large percentage of business of the United States in tin cans, containers and packages of tin. The American Sheet & Tin Plate Company was made a defendant because of an agreement it is alleged to have with the American company to sell it tin cans at a preferential rate.

The government alleges practices in restraint of trade, agreements by absorbed concerns not to re-enter the field, contracts by consumers to buy from the "trust" exclusively and arbitrary fixing of prices.

Attorney General McReynolds asked in the bill for a separation into units of different ownership to insure the restoration of competition.

The government's bill declares that the alleged conspiracy was entered into in 1901. J. Hobart Moore, Daniel G. Reid, Fred S. Wheeler, Henry W. Phelps, William T. Graham and George G. McMurty are named as active in its formation.

The American Can Company, the principal defendant, was incorporated in New Jersey with a capital of $88,000,000 and within a few months the government charges, obtained control of about 100 theretofore independent tin can manufacturing plants.

In addition to the American Can Company and the American Sheet and Tin Plate Company, the Sanitary Can Company, the Missouri Can Company, Martin Wagner Company, Boston Wharf Company, Maxiams Machine Company, Freeman Duncan Transfer & Realty Company and the Hawaiian Pineapple Company are named as defendants.

Among the plants acquired by the American Can Company in 1901 were: Hasker & Marcus Manufacturing Company, Richmond, Va.; J. M. Rude Manufacturing Company, Covington, Ky.; Great Western Can Company and Louisville Can Company, Louisville, Ky.; Hunt Stamping Works, Kansas City, Mo.; J. H. Pocock Can Company, Frederick Westerback and A. Geisel Manufacturing Company, St. Louis. In addition the American company acquired eight plants in California, on each in Colorado, Maine, Indiana, Oregon, Washington and Wisconsin; 15 in Illinois, three in Iowa, 21 in Maryland, three in Massachusetts, 13 in New York, three in Ohio and three in Pennsylvania.

President Wheeler, of the American Can Company, said his company "was not disturbed by the action of the government."

"Neither in its origin, nor in the conduct of its business has monopoly or restraint of trade been attempted," he said. "No 'unfair competition' has been resorted to. There have been no agreements or understandings as to prices."

The American Can Company, known in Wall Street as a Reid-Moore concern, was organized under the laws of New Jersey in 1901, as a consolidation of several large factories in various parts of the country. Daniel G. Reid and W. H. Moore, who are interested in many other corporations including the United States Steel Corporation, were its chief promoters.

RECEPTION TO OFFICERS.

King Emmanuel and His Queen Honor Americans.

Rome, Nov. 29.—Hearing that it was the desire of the officers of the American battleship fleet now visiting Italian waters to pay their respects to him, King Victor Emmanuel invited the naval commanders to the Quirinal tonight. Queen Helena gave a dinner, after the reception to Mrs. Thomas Nelson Page, wife of the American ambassador, in honor of the fleet's officers and the members of the United States embassy staff.

Ambassador Page made the presentation. The King received Rear Admiral Cameron McR. Winslow, commander of the first division of the Atlantic fleet; Rear Admiral Frank E. Beatty, commander of the fourth division; Captain William J. Maxwell, commanding the battleship Florida; Captain Roy C. Smith, commanding the battleship Arkansas; Lieutenant Commander P. Jessop, of the Arkansas; Commander Frank Lyon, of the battleship Kansas; Lieutenant Commander Arthur B. Keating, of the Arkansas; Lieutenant William Norris, of the Florida; Lieutenant John Downes, Jr., aide on the staff of Rear Admiral Beatty; Lieutenant William W. Gailbraith, of the Connecticut, and Lieutenant Rufus F. Zogbarn, of the Arkansas.

TRAIN CREW KILLED.

Four Meet Death When Trains Collide in Virginia

Roanoke, Va., Nov. 29.—An entire train crew of four was instantly killed this morning at 11:55 in a head-on collision of east-bound freight No. 468 and local freight No. 33, west-bound on the Virginian Railway, at Keever, 67 miles east of Roanoke, and a brakeman on the west-bound train was seriously injured.

According to reports received from the Virginian officials, the wreck was due to the fact that the engineer on the east-found freight, after receiving orders at Alta Vista to meet No. 33 at Keever, ran by his meeting point by nearly 2,000 feet.

It was on the east-bound train that all of the crew was killed. The men on the other train were saved by jumping. The dead are James Linkous, engineer, of Victoria, Va.; R. M. Weatherford, fireman, Roanoke; Henry S. Cooper, conductor, Victoria, and D. R. McFarland brakeman, Roanoke. Injured, C. J. Damascus, brakeman, Roanoke.

NEWSPAPER MAN WEDS.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Burgaw, N. C., Nov. 29.—Mr. J. J. Moore, of the Pender Chronicle, sprang a surprise on his friends when he hied him away to Kent church last Sunday, with Miss Flosale Myers, and there had the knot tied by Rev. P. L. Clark that made them husband and wife. Miss Myers is a daughter of Mr. J. M. Myers, who is engaged in the timber business and has lived here for several years.

Western Conference Pledges Aid to Ministerial Students—Resolution Asks That Conference be Held Earlier.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Charlotte, N. C., Nov. 29.—The call of the 22nd question was completed during the session of the Western North Carolina Conference today and the characters of al the preachers were passed. The conference pledged $1,800 to aid 18 young men who are preparing for the ministry to secure collegiate education.

The last of the six lay delegates elected to the General Conference was Frank M. Weaver, of Asheville, and the alternate lay delegates were F. E. Durfee, of Hendersonville; J. L. Rogers, of Franklin, and J. W. Harriss, of High Point.

An elder in the Methodist Protestant church, Rev. T. J. Ogburn, was received into the Conference.

The six clerical delegates elected to the General Conference were Plato T. Durham, Gilbert T. Rowe, J. H. Weaver, H. K. Boyer, Lee T. Mann and T. F. Marr. The alternate clerical delegates elected were H. M. Blair, E. L. Bain and C. W. Byrd.

A resolution was adopted requesting the College of Bishops to hold this conference earlier in order that the preachers may be with their congregations on Thanksgiving day and secure an offering for the Children's Home. An afternoon session was held during which several important reports were submitted and adopted.

The anniversary of the conference board of missions was held this evening and Rev. Walter G. Borchers, a missionary to Brazil, and Rev. E. H. Rawlings, educational secretary of the board of missions of the church, were the speakers.

Touching Scene.

The most impressive and touching scene witnessed on the floor of the present session ofthe conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, was that of this morning when just after the names of two members of the conference had been referred to the committee on conference relations for the superannuate relation the announcement was made that neither of these preachers had been serving charges which had enabled them to save money with which to provide for their needs when retired from the active work of the ministry.

Attention was called also to the fact that preachers when retired from the active work do not receive anything from the fund provided for the support of conference claimants the first year after they retire. In view of this fact, the need of the ten preachers in question was presented and the conference was asked to contribute a collection to be divided between them. The collection amounted to $157.42.

Bishop McCoy, speaking of the time when a preacher must retire from active service, said that not one preacher in fifty receives salary sufficiently large during the active years of his ministry to enable him to provide for the needs of old age.

THE PENDER MONUMENT.

Erected at Burgaw by Citizens Working All Night—Controversy.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Burgaw, N. C., Nov. 29.—The fact that the Confederate monument has been erected has not settled the troubled waters, which its erection in the street has occasioned; as the opponents of the location are still at work in their efforts to have it removed and located at some other point. As it was persistently rumored that the opposition was trying to get another restraining order, about 50 or 75 of the citizens of the town volunteered their services on Wednesday night and turned in with a will and worked all night that night, and by 7 o'clock Thursday morning the monument was up.

Regarding Mr. A. E. Burton's communication in The Star Friday, your correspondent pleads guilty to his charge, and begs to add that he not only attempted to correct the errors appearing in the article, but that he did so, as Mr. Burton admitted that he had no correction to make. The corrections were necessary in order that the gentlemen concerned might be set right. This correspondent has endeavored, in all he has written on this subject, to merely give facts, without any coloring, and he proposes to continue along this line.

ENGINE DRAWS 70 CARS.

Empty Refrigerators Going to Florida Over the A. C. L.

Fayetteville, N. C., Nov. 29.—The Observer this afternoon says: "There passed through the city this morning over the A. C. L., an engine pulling seventy empty refrigerator fruit cars to Florida, and it is likely that within the next twenty-four twice as many more will pass through. Within two weeks they will pass again, going to the Northern markets loaded with fruit and vegetables. This gives some idea of the immense business done in the South in the way of supplying the United States with the products of the soil."

OFFICERS ARE ELECTED.

By Pender Chapter United Daughters of the Confederacy.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Burgaw, N. C., Nov. 29.—Pender chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy held a special meeting this afternoon and elected the following officers for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. Rachel W. Carroll; first vice president, Mrs. John R. Bannerman; second vice president, Mrs. W. G. McCullen; recording secretary, Mrs. H. Overstreet; corresponding secretary, Mrs. W. B. McNeill; treasurer, Mrs. E. T. Pullen; register, Mrs. I. W. Herring.

TROPHY IS OFFERED.

First Battleship Sinking Enemy's Vessel in Next War.

Boston, Nov. 29.—A trophy to be given to the armed vessel of the United States navy which shall first capture or sink a ship of the enemy in the next war, is among the prizes for excellence in gunnery just announced by the Sons of the Revolution of Massachusetts. Other prizes are to be awarded annually to the field artillery corps of the State volunteer militia, the coast artillery corps, the marine corps and the battleships of the navy.

Secretary Daniels, of the Navy, has given the plan his approval.

FOOTBALL YESTERDAY.

Tigers Won From the High School Eleven at Hilton Park.

The High School football eleven was defeated at Hilton Park yesterday afternoon by the Tigers by a score of 13 to 6. In justice to the High School team, the champion High School team of the State, it should be stated that not all the star players of the eleven were in the game yesterday.

The features of the game yesterday for the Tigers were the end runs of Brickley and the broken field running of Jones, Cutler and Davis. Johnson, Rhodes and Hall did the best work for the High School. The officials of the game were: Shaw, referee; Davis, umpire; Wagner, timekeeper; Wells, head linesman.

Noted Y. M. C. A. Worker Will Make Addresses—Mass Meeting.

Mr. E. T. Colton, secretary of the Y. M. C. A. Committee on Foreign Work, of New York, will address a mass meeting of men this afternoon at 5 o'clock at the Y. M. C. A. Mr. Colton is well known not only in this county but also in Canada and is a speaker of much force. All the men of the city are cordially invited to hear him. The Y. M. C. A. orchestra will furnish special music for the occasion.

This morning at 11 o'clock Mr. Colton will deliver an address to the congregation at the First Baptist church. Tonight at 7:30 o'clock he will speak at St. Andrew's Presbyterian church.

New Officers Elected.

Officers for the ensuing term were elected at the regular meeting Friday night of George Washington Council, Jr., O. U. A. M., as follows: Councilor, E. H. Toler; Vice Councilor, Chas. H. West; Chaplain, W. A. Sue; Treasurer, W. W. Galloway; Financial Secretary, H. W. Howell; Assistant Financial Secretary, E. J. Grimsley; Recording Secretary, C. H. Huband; Assistant Recording Secretary, C. L. Spooner; Conductor, A. E. Eagles; Inside Sentinel, W. T. Mintz; Outside Sentinel, Allan Moore; Trustees, F. A. Lord, E. H. Toler, J. W. Little; Representative, H. W. Howell.

Attachment Issued.

Attachment proceedings were instituted in Justice Harriss' court yesterday by M. W. Divine, trading and doing business as M. W. Divine & Co., against J. A. Rowe, manager of The Clarendon Hotel, for $196.92, alleged to be due for material furnished the defendant. The papers were placed in the hands of the sheriff to be served. The hearing is set for December 30th.

BLEASE ATTACKS WILSON.

South Carolina Governor Takes Fling at President.

Spartanburg, S. C., Nov. 29.—Governor Cole Blease, speaking at Anderson today in behalf of his candidacy for the United States Senate, against Senator E. D. Smith, attacked President Wilson, declaring he had never been a Wilson man and said that but for a split in the Republican party Wilson would never have been elected.

He declared that President Wilson would not be re-elected unless he changed the policy of his administration which allows negroes to "boss" white men and white women in the government service in Washington. The attack on the President was enthusiastically cheered.

The race between Governor Blease and Senator Smith will be run next Summer.

SIDNEY LESLIE WINS.

Amateur Cross Country Race Over Six-Mile Course.

New York, Nov. 29.—From a field of 32 starters, Sidney L. Leslie, of the Long Island A. C. Metropolitan junior champion, won the National senior cross country championship of the amateur athletic union over the six-mile course at Van Cortland park today, his time being 34:42. Gaston Strobino, of South Paterson, N. J., was second.

Team honors went to the New York Athletic Club, with 26 points; Long Island A. C. was second with 48.

Nine Suits Filed.

Against American Sugar Refining Co. In New Orleans.

New Orleans, Nov. 29.—Nine suits asking $8,167,481 damages under the Sherman law, were filed here today against the American Sugar Refining Co., and Jackson T. Witherspoon, local manager, by independent planters, refineries and dealers.

Petitioners allege the American company manipulated the sugar market to the detriment, hammering down the prices of raw sugar to an abnormal level. The suits are identical with that filed several days ago by Wogan Bros., limited.

The petitioners in today's suits are Wilbert's Myrtle Grove Planting & Manufacturing Co., H. Shelby Sanders, Baton Rouge, La.; Vaufrey Sugar Planting & Manufacturing Co., limited, New Orleans; Marie Olive Subville Patout, St. Mary Parish; Lula S. Hickox, widow of H. Shelby Sanders; Mrs. Rilma Sanders Caldwell and Dr. J. L. Caldwell, Charlotte, N. C.; La Frouy J. Burgieres and Marie O. Suberville, St. Mary Parish; Mrs. Leila Hickox, widow of Charles Hickox, New York; Oak Bluff Planting & Manufacturing Co., limited, St. Mary Parish; R. L. Brown and Oscar Zenor, Receivers Burgieres Planting Co.

ADJOURN TRIAL.

Eleven Men Selected to Serve in Craig Jury.

Shelbyville, Ind., Nov. 29.—Failure to obtain a jury up to the noon recess today caused Judge Blair to adjourn the trial of Dr. William A. Craig for the murder of Dr. Helene Knabe, until 9 o'clock Monday morning.

Eleven men had been accepted tentatively.

Dr. Craig's attorneys made it clear they would not admit to the jury any man who was convinced that Dr. Knabe was murdered. Counsel for the State indicated they would not accept any juror prejudiced against circumstantial evidence.

The first witness will be the physician who examined the woman's body soon after it was found in her apartment in Indianapolis on October 24th, 1911.

MIS-USE OF MAILS.

Two Norfolk Men Are Arrested by U. S. Marshal.

Norfolk, Va., Nov. 29.—Samuel L. Harris, president, and J. G. Thalaker, secretary and treasurer of the Capital Security Company, with home offices in Norfolk, were arrested today upon indictments found against them in Fargo, N. D., charging use of the United States mails to defraud. The indictments are based on the conduct of a money investing business carried on in many States. The defendants gave bond in the sum of $2,000 each for their appearance on Tuesday next, before United States Commissioner Stephenson.

The arrests were made by the United States marshal at the instance of special postoffice inspectors.

The defendants deny the charges and declare they are conducting a perfectly legitimate business.

The investment plan of the Capital Security Company is explained to have been on the order of a building and loan association which particular scheme, it is alleged, is not based on a sound financial policy, and cannot be honestly worked out along lines represented to investors.

Washington, Nov. 29.—Refreshed by a vacation in Arizona, Vice President Marshall returned to Washington tonight ready for the severe grind of the opening weeks of the new session of Congress.

When You Think of Buying a Homesite

WINOCA TERRACE

IS THE PLACE! — WHY?

BECAUSE it is beautifully situated on a high, well-drained hill, healthily cool and delightful.

BECAUSE it is in the City, has all the advantages that Wilmington has accumulated for its people during its existence, and on which nearly $50,000.00 has been spent within the past two years.

BECAUSE it is within easy walking distance of business, and on the double track car line.

BECAUSE it is impossible to get a lot of the size and beauty of WINOCA lots elsewhere in the city, for five times the price of a WINOCA lot.

BECAUSE WINOCA is now in its infancy, the first houses, good homes, are being built, and today's price is the lowest this property will ever sell for. Values will rise steadily, and a lot bought at WINOCA NOW is a splendid purchase, even from a strictly investment point of view.

BECAUSE the owners of WINOCA are progressive and up-to-date in their business, offer attractive purchasing methods, and materially aid the would-be purchaser of a WINOCA lot.

BECAUSE the Personnel of those who have already purchased at WINOCA TERRACE is unexcelled, and the additional aid of each of these owners assures the success of this section.

BECAUSE with the property "restrictions" it will be one of Wilmington's most beautiful residential sections and BECAUSE, being a person of good judgment I must accept these reasons and know that it is to my personal advantage to buy TODAY, while the price is exceedingly low and the terms easy.

IT IS THE PLEASURE OF J. G. WRIGHT & SON 124 PRINCESS STREET

NOVEL TRADES DAY

To Be Held at Lumberton Next Wednesday

Good Progress Made Gathering Cotton.—Pleased With New Train. Party Coming to Sound. Other Notes.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Lumberton, N. C., Nov. 29.—As a result of the fine weather which has prevailed during the past two weeks, good progress has been made in gathering the cotton which for a while looked as though much of it would rot in the fields, and yet we are told there are some fields where no picking has been done at all.

Several farmers say that the nearer they get through picking, the shorter their crops seem to get. Some of the merchants are already advising—and wisely, too—their customers to plant less cotton next year and plant tobacco. There is little doubt, it seems, but that Lumberton will be a tobacco market next season, and it is pointed out that with a good tobacco crop, the farmers who are behind now might go far towards catching up.

New Train Great Convenience.

The new train which goes on the Seaboard tomorrow is going to be a great convenience for this section. Lumberton people can spend three, five or eight hours in Wilmington, eating breakfast and supper at home. People from St. Pauls and other points along the V. & C. S. can take train No. 14 leaving here at 9:48 A. M. and return here at 8:07, catching the 8:20 train on the V. & C. S. If the R. & C. will run a train out of Marion at 6 A. M., arriving here at 7:40, that would give the people along that line the opportunity of spending eight hours in Wilmington and returning home early same night, provided a train is put on to leave here on arrival of the train from Wilmington. By moving the schedule of the Rowland-Alma train up just a few minutes on the first trip in the morning, people in that section can spend eight hours in Wilmington and return home by or before 10 o'clock. People along the R. & C. desiring to spend two or three hours in Lumberton could come up on an early train and return at 10:20. These changes would increase travel on all the roads and it is to be hoped the different managements will make these changes. Beginning tomorrow afternoon trains will arrive here from Wilmington at 5:52 and 8:07 P. M. and 7:15 A. M. Trains for Wilmington will pass here at 7:50 and 9:48 A. M. and 9:47 P. M. Never before has this section enjoyed such train service as this will be. The new trains, Nos. 23 and 24, will handle express instead of Trains 19 and 20, as at present. Trains 23 and 24 will do the local work between Hamlet and Wilmington, while 13 and 14 will be on the fast train order, stopping only at important stations. Train 14 will make four stops between here and Navassa. No. 13 will stop five times between here and Hamlet.

Nut to be Cracked.

Here is a problem we will confess we are too thick-headed to solve: If ten people desire to go to Wilmington each one can buy a ticket for $1.70. Parties of ten or more can buy a party ticket at rate of two cents per mile, which would be $1.36 each, but the party rate to Wilmington is $1.85 each, or 15 cents more than single fare. The railroad people solve the question by saying that 50 cents extra is charged on party tickets, the extra 50 cents going to the bridges. What proportion of the regular $1.70 goes to bridges?

Thanksgiving Quiet.

Thanksgiving passed off here like Sunday with some while others did not seem to know the difference. Most of the business places were closed and services were held in some of the churches. The cotton mill shut down but the oil mill and planing mills did not stop as they were too badly crowded with work to take the time off.

We will venture the assertion that the train from Wilmington which leaves here at 7:18 has not left here a morning this week without one or more passengers boarding it without tickets because they could not be waited on. One man has to sell tickets, check baggage and handle train orders, and, of course, these orders have right of way over everything else. If there are many passengers to be served some of them are going without tickets. The Seaboard has good men here, but it is an undeniable fact that the service for the early morning train is rotten. Your correspondent has heard the question asked several times this week why the ticket office was opened at all if passengers were not to be furnished with tickets. But everyone doesn't understand.

Move Into New Home.

Capt. J. P. Russell and family moved early this week into their elegant new home at Eighht and Walnut streets. Capt. Russell's new home, a modern two-story building with all the latest conveniences, is one of the nicest and most conveniently arranged in town. The plans for the new building were drawn by Capt. Russell's son, Mr. J. M. Russell, who superintended the erection of the building of which he may be proud.

The sidewalk in front of the Robesonian office, C. B. Redmond's grocery, Western Union office and the Lumberton bakery has been paved this week. It is to be hoped some way may be found by which the sidewalks on that street may be paved from Elm to Water.

Mrs. James C. King and three children returned to their home in Wilmington this morning after spending some time here with relatives. Mrs. King is a sister of Messrs. E. M. and W. S. Britt, attorneys.

Mr. Harry Green, who has a position at The Orton, came up to spend Thanksgiving with his parents and returned to Wilmington yesterday.

Novel Trades Day.

Next Wednesday is expected to be a great trades day in Lumberton. The leading feature will be the pooling of cotton which will be sold at auction, and it is expected that cotton thus sold will bring at least one-fourth of a cent above the market. Every cotton grower in the county is invited to participate and reap his share of the benefits. Each farmer will be allowed to pool from one to four bales. Everybody is invited to come. Trains from the north, south, east and west will arrive in time for the sale.

The Freeman Printing Company has purchased a lot from Mr. George B. McLeod, lying between the Gospel Tabernacle and the Jewish Synagogue, upon which at an early date a building will be erected for the use of the company as their job printing office.

The cotton gin and contents belonging to Mr. J. W. Baxley, eight miles from here, in Howellsville township,

Red Cross Christmas Seals are the best investment in health any one can make. Science has demonstrated conclusively that tuberculosis, the world's greatest plague, of which we now have over 1,000,000 cases in the United States alone, can be prevented if these consumptives are properly cared for. In other words, every consumptive, properly cared for, insures your life against tuberculosis by the prevention of further infection from that source. Red Cross Seals help to provide hospitals, day camps, sanatoria, dispensaries, open-air schools and visiting nurses for the care, cure and prevention of tuberculosis in this community. Every seal you buy, then, is a sound investment in your own health and in that of your family. Buy your Red Cross Seals now and help to protect your home from disease. The campaign for the sale of the seals will sodn begin in Wilmington and for the purpose of getting everything in readiness a meeting of the Wilmington Society will be held Monday morning at 11 o'clock at the Colonial Inn. All members and any others interested, are cordially invited to attend.

HUSBAND CONDUCTS FUNERAL.

Mrs. Fannie Goodkowitz Buried at Kinston.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Kinston, N. C., Nov. 29.—Recently Kinston's Jewish colony acquired ground for a small burying-ground in the southeastern corner of the city adjacent to Maplewood, the municipal cemetery, and yesterday the first corpse was interred there. Every Orthodox Jewish man, woman and child in the city followed the body of Mrs. Fannie Goodkowitz, wife of Rev. Isaac Goodkowitz, rabbi of the congregation, to the grave. The adoration for the aged woman, who was nearly 60, was universal among the Jews who attended services in Rabbi Goodkowitz's synagogue, and there was profound grief in the colony when her death came while she was on a visit to her only son at Rocky Mount.

Mrs. Goodkowitz had been in America only a few years, and had been an invalid nearly the entire time. Tuberculosis was the cause of her death. She was a native of Russian Poland, and well educated after the manner in which women of her country usually are educated. The simple service at the grave was in the ancient Hebraic tongue, and there being no one else here qualified, it devolved upon Rabbi Goodkowitz to lead the service, and the unusual scene—and certainly a distressing one—was presented of the husband conducting his wife's funeral.

JUDGMENT FOR $44,000 ON ACCOUNT CREDIT INSURANCE

Hunter Company Wins in Action Against Insurance Company.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Greensboro, N. C., Nov. 29.—Judge Boyd, in Federal court today, signed a judgment awarding the Hunter Manufacturing & Commission Company $44,000 in its action against the Ocean Accident & Guarantee Company, to recover losses growing out of the failure of the cotton mills at Randleman two or three years ago. The insurance company became liable for the losses on account of credit insurance. This is one of the biggest cases of the kind ever tried in the State and has attracted a great deal of attention. The Hunter company practically recovered the full amount claimed.

"Safety Ink is Everlasting." Made in Wilmington, N. C.—Advertisement. 10t.

was destroyed by fire Wednesday night, the loss probably amounting to $500. It is understood that the property was partially insured. A spark from the smokestack is supposed to have been the cause of the fire.

Sunday night about midnight it was seen that there was not fuel enough at the power plant to last until daylight, and someting had to be done. Superintendent Pitman seldom leaves the plant before 1 or 2 o'clock, and, realizing the situation, took a helper, hitched up one of the town wagons and went to hauling coal from the railroad. This would not have been necessary, but the coal was delayed on the road. Mr. Pitman is the right man in the right place.

Lumberton Cats Going.

From some unknown cause the cat population in Lumberton has been almost annihilated during the past month or two. Some say it is poison, while others claim it is a disease. No matter what it is causing the passing of the cats, they are going, and not in some time has a cat midnight serenade been heard.

This morning at 6:15 we heard two wagons passing by loaded with cotton headed for the gin. The drivers were exchanging greetings, one apparently having just overtaken the other. One said he had driven ten miles, while the other had driven two. They are of the kind that deserve success.

Coming to the Sound.

The indications at present are that 20 or 30 will go from here to the Sound next Sunday morning, where they propose to enjoy an oyster roast. They will go down on the 7:50 A. M. train, and returning will leave Wilmington at 6 P. M.

Prices do not seem to have anything to do with the egg supply these days. Thirty-five cents is the prevailing price here, but three cents each for eggs does not seem to increase the supply.

Mr. John Redmond returned last night from Bennettsville, S. C., where he spent Thanksgiving with his son, Mr. P. J. Redmond.

Mr. G. B. McLeod is spending a few days with Mrs. McLeod and daughter who are spending some time in Baltimore, where Miss McLeod is being treated for throat trouble.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Whaley, of Charlotte, are visiting Mr. Whaley's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Whaley.

Mrs. John D. McAllister returned last night from Hampton, Va., where she had been visiting relatives.

Messrs. John French, Dickson McLean and perhaps others spent Thanksgiving in Richmond, Va.

The Eagle Cafe, which was opened for business on Chestnut street between Third and Fourth, has pulled down its sign, closed its doors and quit. The manager of the business is seeking a location in some other town.

Trains Running Late.

As the holidays approach the trains are beginning to run late. No. 14, Wilmington-bound, on the Seaboard, was two hours late yesterday, and an hour late today. Little, if any, improvement need be expected until the Christmas rush is over.

FIGHT AHEAD IN COLUMBUS

On Question of County-wide Stock Law —"Mr. Bob" Pleases Columbus —Teachers' Meet.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Whiteville, N. C., Nov. 29.—"Mr. Bob," an amateur dramatization of a well written-story, was presented here in the Academy last night by a local talent cast from Chadbourn, under the auspices of the Woman's Betterment Association, and delighted an exceptionally large and appreciative audience. The voluminous applause from the audience throughout the rendition of the play was attestable to the creditable presentation. The majority of the cast were members of the faculty of the Chadbourn High School, and the music by Misses Burwell and Parker, of the Chadbourn and Whiteville schools, respectively, was amply demonstrative of the high-class of talent employed in the two institutions of learning. Tewnty per cent. of the proceeds go to the Whiteville Civic League.

The third number of the Lyceum series will be presented at the Academy Wednesday night, December 2nd, This time the management guarantees one of the best entertainments of like nature during the season in the Crescent Concert Company, composed of four young ladies who are equally good in team and solo work. The local series is under the control of the Atlanta Alkahest Lyceum Bureau, and Prof. C. R. Spencer is the local manager.

The Alabama Minstrels, composed of colored performers under white management, will show in Whiteville unidr their own tent Wednesday night.

Columbus Teachers Meet.

The second meeting of the Columbus County Teachers' Association was held Saturday in the High School auditorium, with something over a hundred teachers from the different schools in the county present. Rev. F. T. Wooten, who is district and county superintendent of schools, was present and gave one of his usual well-received talks. Prof. C. R. Spencer superintendent of the Whiteville schools and president of the organization, was also on hand, and it was largely through his efforts that the association has had such marked success during the present scholastic year. A number of very interesting talks were made by Prof. Bowling, of the Chadbourn schools, Mr. Justus, of the Dothan school, and by Miss Pattie Dowell, of the local schools.

Whiteville locally certainly remains a staunch friend to the slogan, "The early bird catches the worm," for although the town election is nearly five months off, there are any number of candidates in the field for aldermanic honors and aspirants for the chief of police's job are as thick as oats. R. M. Bullard is after the present incumbent's goat, and in him, Chief Thompson seems to see unfavorable prospects ahead.

Stock Law for Columbus.

The stock law question in Columbus county is an all-absorbing topic right now. The county has been flooded with circulars with a view of feeling the general sentiment, and if the promoters for a county-wide stock law are successful in having an election called, which they hope for by January 15th, Columbus will certainly have a warm factional fight once more. Sentiment seemingly favors the law, but there is also strong and bitter opposition to it.

For the State Senate.

His numerous friends throughout the county are urging Mr. C. C. Pridgen, president of the Bank of Tabor, and the very considerate and popular chairman of the board of county commissioners, to enter the race for the State Senate at the next election, when Columbus has the honor of furnishing representation in the Upper House of the next General Assembly for both Bladen and Columbus counties. Should Mr. Pridgen decide to enter the race, as in all probability he will, his scores of admirers will look forward with keen anticipation to supporting a man of his type to represent the Twelfth Senatorial district.

Mr. P. L. Feezor, who has been located in Whiteville for some months and engaged in the practice of law, has associated himself with Messrs. Greer & Greer, and will spend the larger part of his time in the Wilmington offices of this firm.

The scheduled two weeks' term of civil court for Columbus county adjourned Wednesday night, and Judge Rountree left for his home in Wilmington on the late train. Quite a number of minor cases were disposed of, but the majority of the important cases that had been calendared were continued until the January term of court.

BASKETBALL AT WILSON.

Trinity College Defeated by Atlantic Christian College.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Wilson, N. C., Nov. 29.—In the first college basketball game of the season played here Thursday night the Atlantic Christian College team defeated the Trinity College team by a score of 24 to 17. The Trinity team made a splendid showing, captained by "Kid" Anderson, a Wilson boy, and one of the best athletes ever sent out from this town, but the local college team was too strong both offensively and defensively. The game was brisk from start to finish. The game was played at Liberty warehouse and with good attendance.

STATE'S TEACHERS ADJOURN

Prof. Coon and Prof. Hamilton Speakers at Final Sessions—Temporary Federal Building Shakes.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 29.—The 30th annual session of the North Carolina Teachers' Assembly closed with a number of important features today. The general session of the day was held this afternoon in the auditorium with Prof. C. L. Coon as a special speaker on the subject of "Needed Changes in Our Teachers' Institutes", and a special and general discussion of "School Management."

Prof. Coon outlined a number of changes that he declared would greatly increase the efficiency of the teachers' institutes throughout the State. Prof. C. A. Hamilton led the discussion of "School Management," and altogether the session was one of great interest and benefit to the teachers.

The Association of City Superintendents held a final separate session today and discussed "New Demands Made of Text-Book Writers and How These Demands May be Met." Prof. C. L. Coon also led this discussion and there was participance by quite a number of the other city superintendents. The types of text-books likely to bring the greatest progress to the schools and the best ways of supplying these books were interesting features. J. L. Harris, of Rocky Mount, led a discussion of "Length of School Terms and of Daily Sessions," that brought about a beneficial exchange of ideas.

At the suggestion of the government's supervising architect here, Judge H. G. Connor has begun making it a practice to warn the crowds in the Federal court room each time that he adjourns court to retire as quietly as possible as a precaution against an accident to the building being temporarily used for court, postoffice and other government purposes while the government building is being rebuilt on a much larger and fire-proof scale. The temporary court room is on the third floor of the Montague building. It was started for general store and office or apartment purposes, but when the government began looking for a place to move for two years it was converted to this purpose. Cracks that have developed in the walls and settled or careened places in the floors cause the precautions. There will be a complete inspection as to safety at once.

FULL ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT

PUBLISHERS' ANNOUNCEMENT.

THE MORNING STAR, the oldest daily newspaper in North Carolina, is published daily except Monday, at $6 per year, $3 for six months, $1.50 for three months; 50 cents for one month, served by carriers in the city, or by mail.

THE SUNDAY STAR, by mail, one year $1; six months, 50 cents; three months 25 cents.

ADVERTISING RATES may be had on application, and advertisers may feel assured that through the columns of this paper they may reach all Wilmington, Eastern Carolina and contiguous territory in South Carolina.

Obituary sketches, cards of thanks, communications espousing the cause of a private enterprise or a political candidate and like matter will be charged at the rate of 10 cents per line, to persons carrying a regular account, or, if paid cash in advance, a half rate will be allowed. Announcements of fairs, festivals, balls, hops, picnics, excursions, society meetings, political meetings, etc., will be charged under the same conditions, except so much thereof as may be of news value to readers of the paper, in the discretion of the editors.

TELEPHONES: Business Office, No. 51; Editorial and Local rooms, No. 61. Call either, if the other doesn't answer.

COMMUNICATIONS, unless they contain important news, or discuss briefly and properly subjects of real interest, are not wanted; and, if acceptable in every other way, they will invariably be rejected unless the real name of the author accompanies the same, not necessarily for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith.

ALL DRAFTS, checks, express money orders, and postal money orders, for the paper should be made payable, and all communications should be addressed to, THE WILMINGTON STAR CO.

What has become of the old-fashioned tinker?

Some men who stand on their rights also stand on the rights of others.

No, Willie Hoppe is not a Chinaman, but he still sticks to his cue.

"If history should repeat itself," in some instances it would be the same old lie.

Officeholders generally will sympathize with Huerta in his determination not to resign so somebody else can get in.

Felix Diaz gave us a good imitation of an aspiring man who wanted to be President but was not willing to give his head for the honor.

In the New York graft investigation the chief accuser has been accused. The character of a man's accusers must always be taken into consideration.

Men vote early and often but the main question is, would our lady friends dress in time to get to the precinct and vote before the polls are closed?

Seven cities claimed Homer, but the average man is lucky if one city is willing to claim him without having been put up to it by some boarding house keeper.

It's just a bit curious that when a man goes wrong he knows he can no longer be honored by the Democratic party. He either goes in his hole or some other party.

A contemporary notes that "the doctors are now down on the flea." They may think they are but nine times out of ten the flea isn't there when people think it is.

Some ascetic paragrapher has said that "a woman gets off a car like a crawfish." Nevertheless, the smartie wouldn't even look at a crawfish trying to get off a car like a woman.

A beauty doctor says if women really want to look prettier every day, an unfailing recipe is to "stop nagging the old man and laugh out loud more." The "old" men should cut this out and paste it in their hats.

Two women detectives in New York were put on trail of a man and they found him a few days ago after having kept on the search for fourteen months. Of course, he was a very slick article, else they would have run him down before he could have said "Jack Robinson."

Now that Christmas will be here in twenty-five days, it is time that editors who make presents of $20 bills to their friends should search their rolls to see that some of the several hundred bills of that denomination on hand do not include a dangerous counterfeit that is said to be in circulation.

Davenport, Iowa, gives out the information that a man weighing 133 pounds has married a woman whose weight is 560 pounds. A contemporary thinks the man lacked discretion and showed mighty poor taste. Taste, nothing! The bride may have been the main feature of a show that was run by a smart little fellow.

Indians who used to inhabit this country utilized it for fishing and hunting. Then came the early settlers with a lot of beads and trumpery and went into the real estate business bn the wholesale. Of course, the real estate business is a very attractive proposition yet, but it is time for us to see other opportunities than those which apealed to the Indians and our ancestors.

THE CORN CAMPAIGN FOR THE COMING YEAR.

The corn campaign during the present year in the fine agricultural section around Wilmington resulted in a great increase of production, but the best of all is that it resulted in a revelation and has created enthusiasm over corn growing in all the counties of this portion of North Carolina. The Boys' Corn Clubs have demonstrated the fact that it is possible to grow from 50 to 140 bushels of corn per acre right around Wilmington. That is a revelation. It was made at the recent corn show in this city, and the show has had the desired effect of creating corn growing enthusiasm in this part of the State. Thanks to such indefatiguable workers as Mr. J. C. Herring, New Hanover's capable and energetic farm demonstrator, Messrs. L. B. Sasser, George H. Hutaff and others who took the least part in encouraging the boy corn growers and in organizing an impromptu fair that astonished the natives.

The evidence increases that the various counties are wide-awake on the subject of corn growing. Mr. J. J. Hendren, farm demonstrator of Columbus county, representing the National and State Departments of Agriculture, has written Messrs. Sasser and Hutaff to know if they will include Columbus county in the number of counties eligible to contest for the prizes offered by them. They contributed $100 in gold each during the past season, and propose to keep up the good work during the coming year. They were much gratified with Demonstrator Hendren's letter, which he states was written at the instance of Mr. R. E. L. Brown, a member of the Board of County Commissioners of Columbus county. Messrs. Sasser and Hutaff state that the prizes offered were for all corn growers in the counties of New Hanover, Pender, Brunswick, Bladen and Onslow, and that during the next year it is quite probable that Columbus will be added. They have Mr. Hendren's letter under consideration and hope to have the coming year's campaign scheduled by the middle of January.

During the corn show in Wilmington the past month, $350 in prizes was distributed, and such great interest was aroused by the success of the fair that arrangements will be made to have one of greater scope next Fall. The number of prizes will be increased and the features will be greater. The whole community ought to join heartily in the movement and no doubt it will. Twenty thousand people visited the corn show early in November, and such general interest was aroused that hundreds of citizens of Wilmington have urged a bigger fair for next Fall.

Demonstrator Hendren writes Messrs. Sasser and Hutaff that the corn growing interest in Columbus is great and that his county will at once organize a large boys' corn club to contend for the county, State and National honors and prizes. It all sounds good, and it is gratifying that eastern North Carolina has been waked up to its opportunity to grow all the corn it consumes.

THE MAKING OF WILMINGTON.

No city can be made without its artisans and producers. Artisans and producers can be kept in a city or brought to it by industrial enterprises. It takes capital to establish factories of various kinds, so the concrete fact is that the employment of capital to establish industries and give work to producers constitutes the need of Wilmington at this time.

While it is very important for Wilmington to become a greater industrial city, we must not minimize those other great factors in the making of a greater Wilmington. Commerce is one of them, a commerce that already distributes at least $2,000,000 a year among working men as their share. One line of exports alone is responsible for the distribution of $1,000,000 a year for labor and freights. In order for us to appreciate the importance of that one potential factor in the prosperity of Wilmington, it is only necessary to state that it would require 20 factories, each employing 100 people, or 2,000 employes, at the average wage, to equal the payroll and freight bill that results from the exportation of cotton from this port. That is only half the annual distribution of money that is brought about locally through the means of commerce. Suppose we could double it! It would equal 40 good sized manufacturing enterprises, so far as money's being turned loose is concerned.

The trucking industry around Wilmington brings to this section $5,000,000 a year. Suppose we could double it! It is estimated that our seaside resorts bring at least $1,500,000 to Wilmington during a season. Suppose we could double it! Suppose we could double all the factories in Wilmington and get as many more in the next few years. Suppose we could double up the $80,000,000 of jobbing and commercial business done by this city every year! Well, we would be going some. Of course, the banking interests would expand accordingly and so would every line of business in the city. However, if we can only increase our potential interests one-fourth, it would greatly accelerate Wilmington's growth.

Seeing that we have five big factors in prosperity to work upon, there is plenty for everybody to do in promoting all five. They are manufacturing, commerce, mercantile pursuits, agriculture, and the seaside resort business that brings in people and money during the Summer when other cities have their dullest periods. We have more things to work on in making Wilmington than any other city has got, and we ought to work earnestly on every line that intelligent effort will promote.

ASHEVILLE'S SENSATION.

Judge Carter has stirred up a pretty sensation in the salubrious city of Asheville, which nominally is in dry territory but in the judgment of the court is exceedingly wet. The judge is right after blind tigers, boot-leggers, liquor lenders, whiskey sellers, dispensers of alcoholic beverages, and all classes of violators of the State prohibition act. The judge has spread the net for the high and low. He has declared that the officers of the law have bothered only the small fry, whereas he is determined to get the big fish with all the rest. He has started in for a clean up, and those who know Judge Carter are prepared to believe that the dry bones in Asheville will be knocked together.

In the Superior Court at Asheville on Friday, the judge made the startling announcement that in the dry and atmospheric city of Asheville during the past ten months the records show that the receipts of intoxicants there amount to more than 90,000 gallons. The books of the Southern Railway show receipts of that amount, and thereupon the judge estimates that Asheville receives more than 100,000 gallons of alcoholic beverages during a period of twelve months. He says the large dealers are making a profit of $1 a gallon and that they include well known men whose property aggregates a value of more than a million dollars.

Judge Carter, it seems, has taken the law in his own hands. It is said he has worked up the cases and seems to have been sleuth, solicitor and judge. At any rate he acted as committing magistrate in his court on Friday and bound a lot of defendants over to court. A special term will have to be held to try the cases, and the matter is causing considerable worry to Governor Craig as to the judge who shall conduct the trial. Clearly Judge Carter has disqualified himself and can be of greater service as prosecutor than as a judge, however impartial he may try to be.

EQUAL RIGHTS FOR WOMEN.

The movement to secure equal suffrage rights for women is to be organized in every Southern State and the campaign is to be a lively one next year in all the States. North Carolina is to be organized for the movement and within the next few months the men will have to put something in their pipes and smoke it. They may as well make up their minds on a subject with which they have not been bothered heretofore, except as a joke. We've got to gravely consider a matter that is going to be put right up to us by the equal rights women of the State.

In Raleigh on Friday the State chartered the Equal Suffrage League of North Carolina (Inc.), with headquarters in Charlotte, which, it is assumed, will be the head-center of the propaganda of the feminist cause. The Star's Raleigh dispatches told about it yesterday, and when that organization gets down to work there will be something doing in all parts of the State. The purposes of the league will be especially to promote equal suffrage in North Carolina and the moving spirits in it include some very prominent ladies of the Queen City.

It is stated that already equal suffrage organizations have been formed at Charlotte, Greensboro and Winston-Salem, in each of which cities prominent ladies are identified with the clubs. The movement is on and "the cause" of the women of North Carolina will soon be up to the men of North Carolina. Are you ready for it?

CURRENT COMMENT.

North Carolina continues to pick up in population. One evidence of this is the fact that a number of towns have grown so in population and consequent patronage of the Postoffice Department that they have been advanced to the Presidential class.—Raleigh News and Observer.

Next week will mark the opening of the entire line of the Norfolk Southern Railway between Raleigh and Charlotte and Monday the first train will go through to Norfolk. This event has been long anticipated by the people on the route. One effect of the construction of this road will be the development of many new towns and also of manufacturing enterprises. Later there will be additional and branch lines, reaching out from the main one. The Norfolk Southern has been a promoter always and also a developer of branch lines. It is going to make itself felt in midland North Carolina, as it has eastward of Raleigh.—Raleigh Times.

The present prosecutions for the sale of liquor in Asheville have created a more extensive situation than any previous ones since the beginning of prohibition. The query as to whether Judge Carter should sit in these cases as trial judge, after having instigated them as a committing magistrate, is not the least interesting feature. "I am not aware of any reason why I should not do so," Judge Carter wired Governor Craig. The chairman of the board of County Commissioners and the solicitor seem to have desired that Judge Carter sit, and a number of citizens signed a petition for his resignation. The local bar seems to be divided on the question of propriety, and Governor Craig wrote, "it would be manifestly not in accordance with our conception of the impartial administration of justice to designate Judge Carter to hold this court." Most that is vital in a case of this sort is below the surface. For instance, there is the second thought reflection that the men who are to be tried might be lucky to have Judge Carter try them.—Greensboro News.

St. Andrew's Day.

Today will be observed as St. Andrew's Day at St. John's Episcopal church and the rector, Rev. Wm. E. Cox, will preach a sermon at 11 A. M. appropriate to the day. Today marks the 30th anniversary of the founding of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, which was organized in Chicago by James L. Houghteling, of that city.

REUNION OF EX-SLAVES.

To the Editor of The Star:

Will you allow me through your valuable paper to suggest to the good people of New Hanover county that we give the old slaves a joyful time January 1st, 1914.

There are some of us old enough to remember when we were little tots around the fireside with our mother, and other little brothers and sisters, while our fathers and older brothers were in the Army, how helpless we were and how dependent we were upon our slaves for protection. We remember how faithful they were—they would have shed their life blood for our protection. Now, at this late day, what can we do for them to give them one more happy day before they are all gone? There are only a few of them left.

My suggestion is for some order or society to take this matter in hand, to get some convenient place for them to gather on the 1st day of January, 1914, this being emancipation day, and give them one day of feasting. Also, while we are feeding the inner man, we have lots of cast off garments, which we could give to them to shield them from the cold, and perhaps last them the few remaining days that they have on this earth. Which society will be the first to take this matter in hand?

FUNERAL OF MR. BURTT.

Services From First Baptist Church Yesterday—Interment in Oakdale.

Attended by a large concourse of friends from the city and elsewhere in the State, the funeral of Mr. S. H. Burtt, whose death occurred suddenly at his home in the Carolina Apartments Thursday night, was held yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the First Baptist church, conducted by the pastor, Rev. Dr. J. H. Foster assisted by Rev. Dr. W. B. Oliver of Mt. Oliver, a former pastor. Many beautiful floral designs bore mute testimony to the high esteem in which he was held by the hundreds who had become intimately acquainted with him during the long and useful life that he had lived in this city.

Among the many floral tributes were designs from Meredith College, Raleigh; choir of Raleigh Baptist Tabernacle; N. B. Broughton, superintendent of Raleigh Baptist Tabernacle Sunday School; Einstein Bros., employes of Einstein Bros., Knights of Pythias, Business Men's Bible Class, Woman's Missionary Society, United Workers, Young Women's Auxiliary and from a large number of individuals.

Following the impressive funeral services at the church the remains were borne tenderly to Oakdale cemetery where the interment was made. The pall-bearers were: Honorary, Dr. A. M. Baldwin, Dr. B. J. Willingham and Messrs. Adolph Einstein, W. H. Alderman, C. C. Brown, B. F. Keith and G. M. Haskett; active, Rev. W. M. Craig, and Messrs. C. B. Newcomb, W. O. Page, D. H. Penton, John R. Hanby and W. C. Peterson.

—The regular monthly meeting of the Board of County Commissioners will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Thief Stole Turkey.

Thanksgiving without a turkey would not seem Thanksgiving to many, but to have a nice fat young gobbler all ready for the festive board, and then to be deprived of the toothsome bird at the 11th hour is a blow from fate that only the most optimistic could survive without an abiding grouch. But that is just what happened to Mr. Leroy C. LeGwin, of 419 South Fifth street. His turkey was already roasted on Wednesday night, and was placed in the refrigerator on the back porch to await the Thanksgiving feast. And then, in the dead hours of the night, some hardhearted thief broke into the refrigerator and stole the bird. Mr. LeGwin's many friends sympathized with him when they heard of his hard luck. He passes the matter off as a joke by expressing the cheerful wish that whoever ate his turkey choked to death on it.

CLOSE YEAR'S WORK

Methodists are Ready for Annual Conference

Wilmington Churches Will have Splendid Reports—District Has Prosperous Year—Resume of the Work.

The services today in the Methodist churches of the city will mark the close of the conference year and tomorrow the pastors will leave for Oxford to attend the annual session of the North Carolina Conference which convenes there Wednesday. The Wilmington pastors will be able to report the payment of all church assessments in full as well as an increased number of members over last year. The Bladen Street church has erected a new building at a cost of nearly $6,000 with only a small indebtedness remaining to be paid.

Wilmington District.

The Wilmington district, which embraces the counties of New Hanover, Brunswick, Columbus, Duplin, Pender, Onslow and parts of Sampson, Jones and Carteret under the able leadership of Rev. L. E. Thompson, presiding elder, has had a prosperous year. The reports from the 23 pastoral charges, composing the district, will show an increased membership and the church finances in good shape.

A number of new churches have either been erected or completed during the year. The congregation at Clinton has just completed an elegant building at a cost of about $8,000. In Wilmington Bladen Street church has been erected and also a new church to be known as Castle Heights church has been erected at 15th and Castle streets. Rev. G. T. Adams has been responsible for the erection of the latter church.

At Wananish Rev. W. E. Brown is engaged in building a new church which will be quite a credit to that enterprising little town. The church at Fremont has had presented to them this year through the generosity of Mr. E. J. Grimsley, a public-spirited citizen of that town, a new edifice which was paid for and furnished entirely by him. Rev. R. L. Beasley, of Tabor, has dedicated one church on his circuit this year and is now engaged in building another one. Rev. E. C. Sell, at Magnolia, is also having a new church erected on his circuit.

There are Sunday Schools in practically everyone of the 100 churches in the district and the reports indicate that they have generally increased in membership and interest. Rev. C. M. Lance, of Southport, has organized a number of new Epworth Leagues during the year which are doing good work.

There are between 9,000 and 10,000 members of the churches in the district. The aggregate salaries of the preachers has been increased $1,200 while the assessments for the various activities of the church will be about the same as they were last year. Practically all the charges will report everything paid in full at the conference.

This is Rev. L. E. Thompson's first year on the district and he has done splendid work in pushing forward the work of the church throughout the district. He has met with much encouragement and is most optimistic over the outlook.

Grace Church.

Rev. J. D. Bundy is completing his first year as pastor of Grace Street Methodist church. Under his wise direction and care the church has made splendid progress. There have been 57 accessions to the membership, while the Sunday School has had a greatly increased attendance. The congregation has given to missions this year $2,946 and to the orphans $509. The total amount contributed for all purposes is $9,600. The attendance at the church services has been good and fine interest in the various activities of the church has been manifested.

Fifth Street.

Rev. G. T. Adams is finishing his third year as pastor of Fifth Street Methodist church and will have a splendid report to make the conference. During the year there have been received into the church 120 members, bringing the membership up to about 800. The Epworth League has an enrollment of 337 and is one of the largest in Southern Methodism. The Sunday School has a fine attendance and is doing good work.

For all purposes this year the church will raise about $6,000. The assessments will be paid in full. The Epworth League is engaged in raising $1,000 for church improvements, part of which has already been collected. They plan to have the fund in hand by next May and from the present progress there is every reason to believe that they will succeed. The Ladies' Aid Society of the church has also done splendid work.

One of the side issues, so to speak, of the work of Mr. Adams has been the erection of a church at the corner of 15th and Castle streets which is known as Castle Heights Methodist church. The church building was completed early in the year and preaching services have been held regularly for several months past by Mr. Adams. A Sunday School with 100 members has been organized and is doing good work under the guidance and direction of capable and efficient teachers. A regular pastor for the church will be assigned to this church at the approaching conference and it will take its place along with the other four churches of the city.

Trinity Church.

Trinity Methodist church under the efficient leadership of Rev. C. T. Rogers, who is serving his first year as pastor, has made progress along all lines in spite of the fact that the church has had much to overcome. Although there has been no regular revival during the year there have been 21 accessions to the church and others who will join today. The report of the Sunday School work is encouraging. The Epworth League and prayer meeting services also seem to be taking on new life. The church will report everything paid in full.

The Ladies' Aid Society has not been asleep by any means. On the contrary it has been one of the livest organizations of the church. The society has repaired the parsonage and has raised considerable money for other purposes.

It was the desire and expectation of the congregation and pastor to have had a new church building well under way by this time but on account of the Bladen Street church having gotten the first start the members of Trinity were asked by the local Board of Church Extension to delay their work in this direction until the first of the coming year. At this time the Methodists of the city will unite their efforts for the erection of a handsome church at the corner of Ninth and Market streets. The plans of the building are now in the hands of the building committee. It would not be a great task for the united Methodism of the city to erect a $20,000 church.

Bladen Street.

Rev. W. L. Rexford is closing up his fourth year as pastor of Bladen Street church and under the rules of the Methodist Church he will have to move to some other charge. He has spent eight years in the city, having been pastor of Trinity Methodist church before going to Bladen Street. There has been a marked increase in the membership of the church and Sunday School during the year. An Epworth League has been organized by the young people of the church which is doing good work. The Ladies' Aid Society has made liberal contributions to the church work and to the erection of the new church building.

The present year has witnessed the erection of a new church at a cost of 5,500 with only a small indebtedness remaining to be paid. The old church was moved to an adjoining lot and a new addition built on the old lot. The old building is connected to the new one by folding doors so that the whole can be made into one large auditorium, seating 500 or more people, if necessary. The old church is used as a Sunday School room.

The Pastors.

Rev. W. L. Rexford is the only pastor that has served the full time limit. He has endeared himself to the members of his church and they regret to have to give him up. He has spent his entire ministerial life in this city and, of course, is sorry to have to leave for he has learned to love the city and the people here.

Rev. G. T. Adams has been pastor of Fifth Street Methodist church for three years and has accomplished great things since he has been in the city. The members of his church want him back, and he wants to come back and there is no reason for believing that he will not be returned.

Rev. J. D. Bundy is completing his first year as pastor of Grace Methodist church but in that time has so won the hearts of his parishoners that they want him to continue the splendid work that he has just begun. He is a preacher of ability and in addition is a man of most pleasing personality. He has just begun a work that promises to be the means of accomplishing great good and he will undoubtedly be returned.

Rev. C. T. Rogers as pastor of Trinity Methodist church, is just entering upon a pastorate that is most promising. His congregation is expecting him to be returned.

Rev. L. E. Thompson, the presiding elder, has had a long and successful experience as a pastor. The past year was the first he had had as a presiding elder but he has made good in every sense of that work. That he will be returned for another year seems to be a foregone conclusion.

DISTRICT MEDICAL SOCIETY MEETS HERE THIS WEEK

Physicians of Several Counties Will Meet Here This Week—Attractive Programme.

Physicians of Wilmington and others in the surrounding counties embraced in this district are looking forward with much interest and pleasure to the first semi-annual meeting of the Third District Medical Society, organized in Morehead City in July, which will be held at The Orton Hotel in this city Wednesday of this week.

The district embraces the counties of New Hanover, Brunswick, Pender, Duplin, Onslow, Bladen and Columbus. Reports received here indicate that there will be a large attendance from each county in the district.

Dr. G. L. Sikes, of Salemburg, is president of the society and Dr. Ernest S. Bulluck, of Wilmington, is secretary and treasurer. The society will hold two meetings a year, one in the Summer and the other in the Winter. There are similar organizations in different parts of the State and a great many have been in existence for some years, but this district was never organized until last July. The programme for the meeting was announced yesterday by Dr. Bulluck, the secretary and treasurer of the society.

The society will be called to order at The Orton Hotel Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The opening prayer will be offered by Rev. Dr. A. D. McClure, pastor of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, following which the physicians will be welcomed to the city by Mayor P. Q. Moore.

The reading of clinical papers will then occupy the time of the society until recess for supper at 6:30 o'clock. Re-assembling at 8 o'clock the society will continue in session until 11 o'clock. Following the reading of more clinical papers at the night session, business will be transacted, including the election of officers.

The following are those who will read clinical papers either afternoon or night: Dr. R. B. Slocum, Wilmington; Dr. H. O. Hyatt, Kinston; Dr. Edward Jenner Wood, Dr. Joseph Akerman, Wilmington; Dr. George Kornegay, Kinston; Dr. J. L. Nicholson, Richlands; Dr. A. B. Holmes, Councils; Dr. E. S. Koonce, Wilmington; Dr. R. B. Graham, Wallace; Dr. Cyrus Thompson, Jacksonville; Dr. Jas. Northington, Boardman; Dr. R. L. Carr, Rose Hill; Dr. Chas. W. Stiles, Drs. D. W. and Ernest S. Bulluck, Wilmington.

GOES TO NASHVILLE.

Colored Chautauqua Leader Called to Larger Work.

Rev. Sydney Scott, the founder of Seventh Day Adventism among the colored people of this city, has been called to one of the highest positions in his church connection, which was voted at the last General Conference of Seventh Day Adventist that was held at Washington, D. C. The administrative affairs of the Adventist church is in the hands of the white people, but since the last church council, Rev. Scott has been elected to the position of secretary of the Southern Union Conference of Seventh Day Adventist, comprising the following States: Alabama, Tennessee, Kentucky, Mississippi and Louisiana, with headquarters at Nashville, Tenn.

The chautauqua minister came to this city over a year ago, and gave much of his time to upbuilding the race along temperance, educational and spiritual lines. His peculiar ideas along dietetical lines do not altogether strike the mass of the negroes, but notwithstanding he is loved and revered by many. Elder Scott will leave Monday morning at 3:40. On the part of the colored citizens of this city I bid him God speed in his official capacity in a higher field of service of usefulness.

JOHN WHITEMAN.

Didn't Go to Roads.

Amos Mathews, white, who was fined in the Recorder's court Friday, did not go to the roads in default of payment as stated in The Star yesterday. The error was made on the court docket. He arranged with the Recorder to pay the fine without having to go to the roads.

Fall Session of Convocation of Wilmington at St. John's Episcopal Church.

At St. John's Episcopal church this week the regular Fall meeting of the Convocation of Wilmington will be held. The meeting begins Tuesday morning and continues through Thursday. The convocation embraces the churches in the territoy contiguous to Wilmington. It is not expected that there will be many visiting clergymen and laymen. The programme as announced follows:

Tuesday—Meeting of the Girls' Friendly Society, 10 A. M. Mission Study Class conducted by the Educational secretary, 3:30 P. M. Evening prayer, with sermon by Rev. Archer Boogher, rector of St. John's church, Fayetteville, 8 P. M.

Wednesday—Celebration of the Holy Communion, with sermon by Rev. J. L. Showell, rector of St. Paul's church, Clinton, 10 A. M. Mission Study Class, 11 A. M. Business meeting 11 A. M. Woman's meeting 3:30 P. M. Sunday School meeting, subject, "Teacher Training," by Rev. Thomas P. Noe, dean of the Convocation, 4:30 P. M. Mass meeting, with addresses by Rev. Dr. W. H. Milton, Rev. Thos. P. Noe and Maj. B. R. Huske, 8 P. M.

Thursday—Mission study classes, 11 A. M. and 3:30 P. M.

An invitation is extended the public to attend these services. It is expected that there will be a number of out-of-town women here to attend the mission study class, which will be conducted every day by Miss Bettie B. Windley, of Newbern, educational secretary of the Diocese of East Carolina.

MR. M. M'H. M'CHORD RESIGNS; SUCCEEDED BY MR. RICHENS.

Will Give Last Recital at St. James' Church This Evening.

Mr. M. McHenry McChord, organist and choirmaster of St. James' church, has his last service in that church tonight. He leaves this week to take the position which he accepted the first of this month in Richmond, Va., where he is to have charge of the choir of Grace Street Presbyterian church. Mr. McChord has held his present position about 11 months, and leaves most satisfactory and permanent results behind him.

Taking charge when the choir of the church was thoroughly disintegrated, he has gathered around him a choir of about 30 voices, and has trained them into a chorus which is, perhaps, second to none in the South, and is easily the equal of the choirs in many much larger cities. His work as an organist is especially brilliant, and his playing has given the utmost pleasure to all music lovers who have heard him, both in the congregation of St. James' and the city. The news of his decision will cause genuine regret to all concerned, though they will wish him the utmost success in his new field.

Mr. Frederick Richens, choirmaster and organist of St. Paul's church, Lockhaven, Pa., is to be his successor, and will take charge this week. Mr. Richens comes to St. James' after three years' most efficient service in his last charge, and eight years in this country, during the whole of which time he has won for himself the confidence and esteem of the parishes he has served. Among the many satisfactory testimonials of his ability, his present rector says of him, in part: "As an organist and choirmaster, I do not expect to find his equal. He has studied under the best instructors in England and his services, organ recitals, and occasional oratorio and chorus work have been the admiration of us all. I know that you have a good opportunity in your parish and city, and believe that it would be difficult to find a more competent person for the position you desire to fill."

Mr. McChord will give his last recital at the night service, and will play at both the morning and evening services today.

THE RECORDER'S COURT.

Fred Perdy Given Three Months on County Roads.

Fred Perdy, colored, wasn't selling whiskey in large quantities Friday afternoon, according to the evidence before the Recorder yesterday, but only in half-pint packages. Plainclothesmen Frank George and B. W. Jacobs were on the watch for just such fellows as he and they testified yesterday that they witnessed two sales by him. After arresting him they found in his home nine half pints of liquor. For the next three months Perdy will have to help build better roads for New Hanover county.

Augusta White, colored, was up for being drunk and disorderly and was sent to the county farm for 30 days. A nol pros with leave was taken in cases against John Moore, colored, charged with violating the hitching ordinance, and Peter Bryant, colored, charged with vagrancy. Judgment was suspended in a case against J. R. Manning, Jr., white, charged with running an automobile at night without a rear light.

SHOT AT WHILE ASLEEP.

Tenant on Mr. F. L. Huggins' Place Had Narrow Escape.

Word was received here yesterday that a tenant on Mr. Frank L. Huggins' place, near Montague, Pender county, was fired upon as he lay asleep at his home Friday night. The man fired through a window and came dangerously near hitting the sleeping man, buckshot, seven of them, lodging in the foot and nead of the bed. The tenant was up in a jiffy and grabbing his shotgun, fired at his assailant who was then retreating. The tenant came here yesterday and reported the occurrence to Mr. Huggins, who declined last night to say anything about the matter or even to give the name of the tenant. He stated, however, that he expected to go to his place this morning and make an investigation. The sheriff of Pender county will be asked to make an effort to run down the guilty person. It is understood that the tenant has a man under suspicion. The tenant was at home alone at the time of the occurrence, it is said.

FUNERAL OF MR. DAVIS.

Services From Grace Church This Afternoon—Interment In Oakdale.

The funeral of Mr. R. G. Davis, whose sad death occurred early Saturday morning, will be held this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock from Grace Methodist church, and will be conducted by the pastor, Rev. J. D. Bundy. Mr. Davis was a member of Grace Methodist church and before his illness took a prominent part in the church work. He was an usher at the preaching services for a long time. His parents live at No. 315 North Seventh street. The interment will be in Oakdale cemetery.

THE GOLF SEASON BEGINS

First Tournament Yesterday Afternoon Under the Most Favorable Conditions.

The Winter season of golf at the Cape Fear Country Club was inaugurated yesterday afternoon under ideal conditions—the greens were so enticing that they lured the ball into the cup, the weather was just right and the contestants keen to win the honors. Then, too, quite a few of the players were followed by a "gallery," and one must surely "putt" their deadliest when critics are abroad.

Of course, there was many a slip and many a sigh as "my ladye" would swing and hit "none of the ball and all of the earth," yet withal good nature prevailed, and it was a laugh and a hearty "try again." Considering all in all the scores turned in were remarkably low for this early in the season. Enthusiasm abounded and it looks like the busiest golf year of the popular club. Even after the tournament round many a couple cried, "Let's go 'round again," and until the sun began to sink below the horizon the cry of "fore" echoed through the trees.

Burke H. Bridgers, Esq., captain of the greens, was the busiest sort of official as well as the most useful. Lots and lots of people are busy and accomplish nothing, but Mr. Bridgers started off the newcomers and the slowcomers, and in an irresistible way induced backward ones to "try their luck." All enjoyed the well-managed affair and are looking forward with interest to the next one.

Mrs. J. V. Grainger won the ladies' cup with a net score of 41, thus adding yet another to her string of victories in the old Scottish game. And mind you, she considers herself lucky, for her balls got into a rut at one stage, and such things are not conducive to low scores. "I am delighted yet surprised that I won," laughed Mrs. Grainger, "for we should have had a 47 but for—well, you know what sort of luck." Her partner in the winning round was Mr. J. Wallace Carmichael.

The struggle for the runner-up prize resulted in a tie between Miss Katie Grainger and Mr. W. A. French and Miss Elise Kidder and Mr. Louis T. Moore. The latter pair had to leave early so defaulted and Mr. French and Miss Grainger were awarded the second prize of two balls each.

The game, too, where love counts for but naught, also had its devotees. On the court—and how it needs attention and tape—a set of doubles was played between Miss Eleanor Young, of California; Miss Christine Stevenscn and Miss Almeria Stevenson and Mrs. David Scott. Strange to say the far Western player and her partner were defeated, though the set was close and interesting. All four contestants played with refreshing vim and their strokes were fast and furious—none of your poking the sphere over and you put it back.

Gallantly Maj. H. W. Stickle and Lieutenant Abell had surrendered the only court to the fair players. It is planned to have some tennis tournaments in the near future.

The men's annual tournament, postponed from Thanksgiving Day, will take place next Saturday afternoon upon the arrival of the 2 o'clock car.

A local expert photographer took several views of the house and the links from which engravings will be made for cuts which will appear in a National golf publication when issued.

The scores of each entrant was as follows:

Mrs. J. V. Grainger and Mr. J. Wallace Carmichael, score 51, handicap 10, net 41; Miss Katie Grainger and Mr. W. A. French, score 57, handicap 14, net 43; Miss Elise Kidder and Mr. L. T. Moore, score 54, handicap 11, net 43; Mr. Alban Pleasants and Miss Margaret Pleasants, score 66, handicap 18, net 48; Mr. F. W. Dick and Mrs. F. W. Dick, score 59, handicap 11, net 48; Miss Florence Kidder and Mr. A. D. Williams, score 59, handicap 14, net 45; Miss Mary Bell and Mr. D. H. Howes, score 65, handicap 17, net 48; Miss Mildred Smith and Mr. J. J. Blair, score 59, handicap 12, net 47; Mrs. T. P. Barker and Mr. Raymond Hunt, score 65, handicap 5, net 60; Miss Sue Prince and Mr. R. E. Calder, score 60, handicap 15, net 45.

SEVERAL MATTERS BEFORE SPECIAL MEETING COUNCIL.

City Officials Were in Conference for Short Time Yesterday.

Several matters were considered by the City Council in special session yesterday morning at 11 o'clock with Mayor Moore presiding and all members in attendance. Authority was given to Councilman Jones, in charge of the Department of Public Safety, to utilize substitute policemen when regular men are off duty on account of sickness. No additional traffic policemen will be employed for the present.

A communication was read from George B. Elliott, Esq., assistant general counsel of the Atlantic Coast Line, directing the attention of the Council to a complaint from Watson & Applewhite, agents for H. W. Konig, relative to a cave-in at Fifth and Taylor streets, resulting from a sewer excavation. Mr. Elliott called the attention of the Council to a contract between the city and the railroad relative to the sewer line under the tracks of the railroad. The question was referred to the city engineer for investigation and report.

It was decided by Council to grant to the Tidewater Power Company a franchise to lay a double left-hand track on 17th street, connecting with Carolina Place and Carolina Heights, under the amended city charter.

An informal request was made by the Atlantic Coast Line to raise the grade of a spur track in the vicinity of Front and Wright streets. No action was taken, but the matter will likely be referred to the city engineer for investigation and report.

Councilman Wood stated that under authority of a recent resolution of Council he would go to Raleigh next Wednesday evening to appear on Thursday before the meeting of the directors of the Yadkin River Power Company to make an effort to get the company to run its wires to Wilmington. He will be accompanied by Mr. C. E. Greenamyer.

City Attorney Bryan stated that he would be out of the city for several days on a visit to New York.

New Train Tomorrow.

The new train which the Seaboard will put on between Wilmington and Hamlet, will make its first trip tomorrow morning, leaving Hamlet at 6 o'clock. The change in the schedules on the Seaboard takes effect today and the afternoon train will leave at 3:45 o'clock instead of at 3:05 o'clock as it has been doing. The train which has been arriving at 12:30 P. M. is changed to arrive at 11:59 A. M. The other train will run on the same schedules as heretofore. The new train will make its first trip out of Wilmington tomorrow afternoon, leaving here at 6 o'clock.

DELIGHTFUL SOCIAL FUNCTION IN HONOR OF MISS CLARK.

Whiteville, N. C., Nov. 29.—One of the most delightful social functions of the season was given by Miss Margaret High, at her home on Pinckney street Thursday evening in honor of Miss Rosa Lee Clark, the attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar L. Clark, of Clarkton. The spacious parlor was attractively decorated for the occasion, and both parlor and dining room were beautifully aglow with picturesque Japanese lanterns. During the evening the more progressive games were indulged in by the guests present, which was followed by a highly interesting musical contest in which Mr. Fred Eugene Little and Miss Ora Moseley were the winners of the beautiful five-pound box of candy. After the contest the guests were invited to the spacious dining room of the hostess where delicious refreshments consisting of "Gibson girl" cream and fruit cake, salted peanuts and fruits were served by Misses Virginia Smith and Lucile McKinnon.

Those invited besides the guest of honor, were Misses Blannie Baldwin, Lucile McKinnon, Alice Clark, Lois FormyDuval, Annie Reade Lewis, Bessie and Lillian Smith, Ethel and Phila Maultsby, Margaret and Kathleen Baldwin, Pauline Toon, Ora Moseley and Bettie Pearl Fleming, and Messrs. Richard Mullington Lewis, Robert E. Powell, Rev. William W. Morton, Joseph S. Schulken, Fred E. Little, Van V. Richardson, Woodrow W. Usher and Theodore R. Thompson.

Hurt by Automobile.

A young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Shannon while riding a bicycle along Fifth street yesterday afternoon about 1 o'clock was knocked from the wheel by an automobile truck belonging to Mr. W. R. Dosher and bruised up considerably. The accident happened in front of the home of Dr. John C. Wessell and he rendered the necessary surgical attention. She was able to go home without assistance.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS.

—Mr. John H. Kuck left yesterday afternoon for a business trip to St. Joseph, Mich.

—Mr. J. R. Cooke, soliciting freight agent for the New York Central lines with headquarters in Norfolk, spent yesterday in the city on business.

LOCAL DOTS.

—Sam Brown, colored, was arrested last night by Policeman D. W. Coleman, charged with disorderly conduct. He was lodged in the city prison.

—Sam Smith, colored, was arrested yesterday afternoon by Policeman H. G. Bullard for speeding. He was recognized for his appearance before the Recorder.

—Jesse Bryant, white, was arrested last night by Officer H. G. Bullard on a charge of speeding. He was recognized for his appearance before the Recorder.

—Mr. Isadore Bear was arrested last night by Policeman H. G. Bullard, charged with failure to have a rear light on his automobile. He was recognized for his appearance before the Recorder.

—George Washington Council No. 67, Jr. O. U. A. M., yesterday paid to Mrs. W. Harvey Cox $500, the amount of insurance carried by the late Mr. Harvey Cox in the insurance branch of the order.

—The regular Saturday night Victrola concert at the Y. M. C. A. last night was much enjoyed by the young men. Mr. H. H. Foard had quite a number of new records and gave some of the latest selections of music.

—W. M. Bellamy, Esq., was tried in Justice Harriss' court yesterday on a charge of running his car in East Wilmington Thursday at a speed greater than that allowed by law. Judgment was suspended upon payment of the costs.

—Alice Edwards, colored, was arrested last night by Plainclothesman B. W. Jacobs on a warrant sworn out by some of her neighbors charging her with keeping a disorderly house in Strauss alley. She was locked up to await a hearing before the Recorder tomorrow morning.

FUNERAL OF MR. MERCER.

Services from Residence Yesterday Morning—Interment in Oakdale.

The funeral of Mr. J. Bascom Mercer, whose death occurred Thursday night at Lockwood's Folly in Brunswick county, was held yesterday morning at 11:30 o'clock from the residence, No. 215 South Second street, conducted by Rev. J. D. Bundy, pastor of Grace Methodist church, assisted by Rev. G. T. Adams, pastor of Fifth Street Methodist church. The body was brought from Southport on the 9:45 train yesterday morning and was accompanied by a delegation from Pythagoras Lodge of Masons, of which Mr. Mercer was a member.

The services were attended by a large number of friends. There was a profusion of floral tributes from friends in the city and elsewhere. Following the service at the home the body was borne to Oakdale cemetery where the interment was made with Masonic honors.

The pall-bearers were: Honorary, Messrs. H. C. McQueen and D. L. Gore; active, Messrs. W. E. Springer, W. B. Cooper, T. F. Bagley, G. O. Gaylord, Z. W. Whitehead and Col. Walker Taylor.

FIRE IN BASEMENT.

Peck & Holloway's Store Had Small Blaze Yesterday Afternoon.

Fire from some unknown cause started in a pile of paper bags under the stairway in the basement of Peck & Holloway's hardware store at No. 109 North Front street, and considerable damage was done from the smoke before it could be extinguished by the firemen yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The damage is mostly from the smoke and the water used by the firemen in putting out the fire. The loss, estimated at $1,000, is covered by insurance.

Last night about 8:30 o'clock a fire was again discovered in the basement in a nail keg in which was some trash. It is supposed that this was caused by a spark left there from the first fire. The firemen were called but the blaze was extinguished before their arrival.

DEATH OF MRS. BUFORD.

Aged Lady Passed Away at Her Home in City Yesterday Afternoon.

Mrs. Hester Buford, widow of Mr. John Buford, died at her home, No. 918 South Sixth street, yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock. She had lived in Wilmington for many years and leaves no near relatives. She was 86 years of age. She was a member of Fifth Street Methodist church. The funeral will be held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from Fifth Street church, conducted by the pastor, Rev. G. T. Adams. The interment will be in Bellevue cemetery.

Eludes the Officers.

Officers had two lively chases yesterday after the negro who is suspected of entering and robbing the home of Mrs. Catherine G. Harriss, at Carolina Heights, Thursday afternoon, and again last night they thought they had him surrounded, but the negro is a slick one and eluded the officers. Constable Davis and Deputy Sheriff Reynolds saw him yesterday at noon and thougnt they would get him, but owing to the closed cars now operated by the Tidewater Power Company, they were unable to get to the street in time to nab him. A short time later Special Officer H. Mack Godwin saw him at Sixth and Princess streets and had a similar experience with the street cars. The negro saw the officer and walked briskly to a point midway the block on Sixth street and then went through a yard and over several fences and was soon lost to the view of the officer. Several officers were after the negro last night.

Cutting Affair in Brooklyn.

Another cutting affair occurred in Brooklyn last night about 9 o'clock, when James Edwards, colored, used a knife on Tyson Brower, colored, inflicting a bad wound on his arm. He was also cut in several other places. He went to the James Walker Memorial Hospital and had the cuts sewed up. The altercation happened at 520 Harnett street. Edwards ran away and was not found until about midnight when Plainclothesman Jacobs arrested him. He was lodged in the city prison to await a hearing before the Recorder tomorrow.

Superior Court Tomorrow.

Superior Court will open tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock with Judge Rountree, of this city, presiding. The term is for two weeks and will be devoted to the trial of civil causes.

TEACHERS RETURN.

Wilmington Teachers Have Part on Programme at State Assembly.

A large number of Wilmington teachers attended the annual meeting of the State Teachers' Assembly at Raleigh last week, most of these returning to the city yesterday. There were also several from the county schools who attended. The meeting was one of the most successful that the teachers of the State have ever had and was of great benefit to those who were able to be present.

Mrs. Hattie G. Fennell, a member of the Hemenway school faculty, was president of the Grammar School department during the past year. She also had a place on the programme. Two other Wilmington teachers also read papers before the assembly, these being Miss Augusta Wiggins and Prof. O. A. Hamilton, the latter principal of Hemenway school.

Farmers' Telephone Line.

A farmers' telephone line which will furnish service to a number of well known people living on the Castle Haynes road has been connected with the Wilmington office of the Southern Bell Telephone Co. The persons connected with the line are as follows: D. L. Gore, Rose Hill plantation, No. 5402; D. L. Gore, Oakley plantation, No. 5404; W. D. Rhodes, No. 5403; B. B. Trask, No. 5405; J. A. Kerr, No. 5411; J. G. Seitter, No. 5412; W. T. Ritter, No. 5413. This line was constructed on the plan of the Southern Bell Telephone Co., by which all farmers in all sections of the country are enabled to secure telephone service through their system on an economical basis. Many farmers are taking advantage of this proposition to obtain telephone service in their homes.

Free Lecture Tonight.

"The Love of God and the Fire of Hell," will be the subject of a free Bible lecture at the Grand Theatre tonight by Rev. W. M. Wisdom, of New York. Mr. Wisdom comes to Wilmington under the auspices of the International Bible Society, and this is the first time that he has visited the city. He has the reputation of being a fine Bible scholar and is said to be an eloquent speaker. The theme that has been chosen is one that will appeal to many and he will no doubt be heard by a large audience.

Negro Badly Cut With Knife.

Henry Schaefer and Charles Tyson, both colored, had a dispute Tuesday night about 12 o'clock over in Brooklyn and as a result Schaefer drew a knife and plunged it into Tyson's head. The blade which was about three inches long, went up to the hilt and after three men had failed to pull it out William McKoy, colored, managed finally to extract the blade. The injured negro went to the James Walker Memorial Hospital and had the wound treated and then returned home. Schaefer left for parts unknown.

Young People Married.

At the parsonage of Immanuel Presbyterian church last night at 9:30 o'clock Mr. George Van Loon, of Castle Haynes, and Miss Lizzie McCarty, of South Creek, were married, Rev. J. S. Crowley, officiating. They will make their home at Castle Haynes. Accompanying the happy young couple were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cleeve, of Castle Haynes. Mrs. Cleeve is a sister of Mr. Van Loon. Mr. and Mrs. Van Loon have many friends who extend to them hearty congratulations.

The Store with the Christmas Spirit

The leaves upon the holly tree are a bit greener than a week ago; the berries just commencing to become red.

Each passing morning the sun rises with a little more energy—even the old clock in the hallway ticks with a livelier sound, for Christmas is just around the corner from today.

During many years it has been the custom and privilege of this shop to show for the Holiday Season

Ornaments and Utilities Moulded from Purest Silver and Gold, Rare Gems and Pieces Fashioned by Skilled Artisans, Decorated with Precious Stones.

¶Novel Effects, so designed as to appeal to the subtle sense of those who appreciate Master Craftsmanship and Quiet Elegance.

This is an invitation, which we trust you will accept—to come, for seeing the Christmas display; and we do not wish you to feel that a visit causes even a slight obligation to purchase.

COTTON MARKET WAS QUIET

Prices Ruled Generally Steady on Coverings and Scattering Buying —Small Advance.

New York, Nov. 29.—The cotton market was quiet today but prices ruled generally steady on covering and scattering buying at the close was firm at a net advance of two to five points.

The opening was steady at a decline of one to four points on lower cables but prices quickly rallied on denials of yesterday's rumors that partial returns to one of the Southern statistical bureaus indicated a ginning of 12,100,000 bales to December 1st.

Some scattered buying also seemed to be encouraged by expectations that the annual crop estimate of a New Orleans authority to be issued on Monday would make a bullish showing, while bullishly disposed traders appeared to be somewhat impressed by reports of an increase in the amount of cotton on ship board awaiting clearance as compared both wit hlast year and two years ago. The demand was not aggressive or general, but proved sufficient to send the active months about five to six points net higher. Closing prices were within a point or two of the best on January and later positions.

Members of the New York Cotton Exchange estimate the crop at 14,303,000 bales. The government estimate of the crop is scheduled for publication at 2 P. M., on December 12th, and will be preceded on December 8th by the next report of the census bureau, giving the amount of cotton ginned to December 1st.

BOY SHOT AT WILSON.

Only Serious Accident from Thanksgiving Hunting.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Wilson, N. C., Nov. 28.—Only one serious accident has been reported as a result of the usual hunting on Thanksgiving Day. Donald Kirby, the 11-year-old son of Mr. J. H. Kirby, was accidentally shot by his brother, Luther Kirby. The injured boy was taken to a local hospital and is in a serious condition, the ball having perforated the intestines.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 29.—Twenty-four hunters have been killed in Wisconsin and Northern Michigan, and many were wounded since the deer season opened November 10th. The season closes at midnight tomorrow.

WEEKLY COTTON REVIEW

Dull Week in Market—Principle Feature in Small Amount of Trading Was Liquidation.

New Orleans, Nov. 29.—This was a dull week in the cotton market. The principal feature in the small amount of trading was the liquidation from both sides. Early in the week longs were lightening their loads of contracts, but from Wednesday on shorts were the heavier traders and bought covers for much cotton. This was a strong supporting influence.

The net results of the week's trading were a decline of five points on December and an advance of 4 to 11 points on other months. The high prices were made on Friday and the low prices were scattered through the week. At the highest the trading months were 4 to 14 points over last week's close; at the lowest they were 6 to 22 points under. The range of prices was 19 to 26 points.

Tuesday was first notices day for December deliveries and notices for about 3,000 bales were issued. They had the effect of driving out a large number of holders of long December contracts and put the price of December to 12.72. On Wednesday the selling continued, but not in large volume, and the price went to 12.70. This was the lowest level touched by any month in many weeks.

Weather conditions were favorable on the whole and reports were that picking and ginning were making fast progress. They caused some selling on the belief that favorable conditions had lengthened the picking season and added materially to the total number of bales.

Statistics of the week attracted attention, chiefly because mill takins were so large. Takings for the week were put by Hester at 486,000, against 478,000 this week last year.

This showing increased the disposition of shorts to cover on the weekend.

In the spot department prices lost one-sixteenth of a cent, middling closing at 13 cents, against 13 1-16 last week and 12 3-4 this week last year. Sales on the spot amounted to 7,294 bales, against 7,768 last week, and 5,020 this week last year. Sales to arrive amounted to 8,333 bales, against 11,760 last week and 4,450 this week last year.

WHEAT CLOSED HEAVY.

Chicago, Nov. 29.—Clearing weather in Argentina had a bearish effect today on the price of wheat. The market closed heavy, ⅝@¾ to ⅞@¾ under last night. Corn finished ⅛@⅛ to ¼c. down and oats off ¼ to ½. In provisions the outcome varied from 7½@10c. decline to 5c. advance.

Cash grain:

Wheat: No. 2. red, 94½@95½. No. 2, hard, 87½@88; No. 2. Northern, 88@88¾; No. 2, Spring, 88½@89.

Corn—No. 2, yellow, 76½.

Oats—No. 2, white, 41¼; standard, 40¾.

Wheat—December, 86¼; May, 90⅛.

Corn—December, 70¼; May, 70.

Oats—December, 37⅜; May, 41⅜.

Pork—January, 21.10; May, 21.00.

Lard—January, 10.85; May, 11.10.

Ribs—January, 11.05; May, 11.22½.

WEEKLY FINANCIAL.

Smallest Trading in 25 Years on Monday.

New York, Nov. 29.—Steadiness of the stock market this week during a period of exceptional dullness, indicated that unfavorable factors now discernible have been discounted. Monday's dealings in stocks were the smallest in 25 years.

The case presented by the railroads for the proposed 5 per cent increase of freight rates was considered sufficiently strong to forecast that an increase was probable. Commissioner Prouty's agreement with New England public service commissions for an increase for Boston & Maine was regarded as another indication of good chances for success on the part of the roads. In speculative estimation this is ranked as the most important subject for the market.

Bad news from the steel and copper trades, reduction of railroad shop forces, decreased railroad earnings and gloomy predictions from so prominent a steel authority as Charles M. Schwab, all had their effect on sentiment, although they did not bring about a further lowering of stock market values.

December settlement requirements constructed the money market. Canada's large gold takings were for seasonable and temporary needs. New York's assumption of money burdens protected the London market. Discounts eased abroad.

BOARD NOT CONVINCED

Of Advisability of Further River Improvement at Bayboro.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 29.—The river and harbor act approved July 25th, 1912, contained provision for a preliminary examination of "Northwest prong Bay river to public wharf at dam in town of Bayboro, North Carolina." The required examination was made by the district officer, and pursuant to favorable recommendations thereon, a survey was authorized. The report of the district officer on the survey is favorable for the improvement of the locality to the extent of recommending an extension of the existing project to the mill dam by a channel 50 feet wide and 10 feet deep, with a turning basin just below the dam, at an estimated cost of $9,377.50, provided that local interests contribute toward the improvement $2,700.

In accordance with law, the report has been referred to the board of engineers for rivers and harbors for consideration and recommendation. From the information presented, the board is not convinced of the advisability of the United States undertaking any additional improvement at this locality at tne present time.

All parties interested in the proposed improvement are invited to submit, within a period of 30 days from the date of this notice, statements and arguments bearing upon the necessity for the improvement in the interests of commerce and navigation. Such statements should be addressed to "The Board of Engineers for Rivers and Harbors, Southern Bldg., Washington, D. C." Should a hearing be desired, this can be arranged by correspondence with the board.

Among improvements to be carried out soon on the harbor of Newcastle, N. S. W., Australia, is the building of an electric power plant to supply new coal-loading machinery and also the tramway system when it is electrified.

Public approval has made Shur-on Eyeglasses popular; let us show them to you. Dr. Vineberg, the Eye Specialist, Masonic Temple. Eyes tested free.—Advertisement.

STOCKS REMAIN THE SAME

Continued to Move Listlessly With a Small Volume of Business. Conditions Unchanged.

New York, Nov. 29.—Conditions were virtually unchanged today in the stock market which continued to move listlessly with a small volume of business. Representative stocks barely moved although there was a slight scaling down of prices which gave the market an easy tone. The only movements of importance were among the specialties, a number of which were weak. Most conspicuous was Goodrich preferred, which fell five points to 73 3-8, a new low record. Subsequently it recovered part of its loss. The common stock dropped nearly two points to 15 1-8 also a new low record. The Can issues, Rumely and various other industrials were heavy. In the railroad list Missouri Pacific was weakest, equalling its low record of the year at 24 7-8.

The week's exceptionally heavy outward movement of currency to Canada and the Pacific coast was chiefly responsible for the poor showing made in the bank statement. Cash loss reached nearly $21,000,000. Loans were cut down $16,000,0000. Shrinkage in deposits of nearly $38,000,000 did not reduce reserve requirements sufficiently to prevent the wiping out of the surplus. The result was a small deficit.

Trade reviews showed retrenchment and conservatism in business. Bonds were easidy. Total sales, par value $420,000. United States bonds were unchanged on call on the week. Total stock sales 74,700 shares, including Lehigh Valley 600; Southern Railway 200; Tenn. Copper 100; U. S. Steel 16,300.

INTERCLASS BASKETBALL.

Feature of Thanksgiving Holiday at Teacher Training School.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Greenville, N. C., Nov. 29.—Interclass basketball games constituted the chief feature of the Thanksgiving holiday at East Carolina Teachers' Training School. The first game was between the "B" (second-year academic), and "F" (one-year professional) classes at 10:30 A. M. The final score was 11 and 9, the victory going to the "F" class.

The second game, at 11:15 A. M., was played by the junior and senior classes. Real excitement began when the seniors, dressed in black bloomers, white middies and purple caps with '14 painted in white on them, marched on the field, led by their mascot, William Wright, the two-year-old son of President Wright. He was dressed in purple bloomers and wore a purple cap also—to carry out the senior class colors, purple and white. The juniors displayed their colors by wearing green bloomers and white blouses. The game from start to finish was very interesting and played with determination. At its close the score showed up 10 and 2 in favor of the senior class.

Miss Comfort, of the faculty, who has inspired enthusiasm in basketball here, was the umpire; Mrs. R. L. Carr was referee for one game and Miss Daisy Waitt for the other.

Colored Assailant of White Child to be Tried This Week.

Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 29.—Dave Monroe, the negro youth charged with criminal assault on the little five-year-old daughter of Dr. D. S. Currie, of Parkton, has been brought a second time to the State's prison here for safekeeping until next week, when he will be taken to Lumberton for trial for his life.

After being brought here early in the week, he was taken before Judge Lyon at Raeford, who ordered that he be tried in Robeson. He then was brought back here. The penalty for the offense is electrocution. The negro is said to be only 14 years old.

The extent to which wireless telegraph has been taken up by amateurs is disclosed in a list of radio stations in the United States issued by the Commerce Department's Bureau of Navigation. Almost 1300 amateurs had been granted licenses to July 1.

RADICAL CHANGES IN POLICY

6,000 to about 1,500 acres. He is further directed to take no further action as to building new fire proof sanitary quarters for the prisoners at the State farm or for provision of 50 needed teams and improved machinery.

Take Convicts From Railroad.

The directors order that 200 convicts be withdrawn from the farm, also the 51 from the Statesville Air Line and tendered to the Governor to be let under contract for $1.50 per day to the credit of the prison, the contracts to be for cash and the 200 from the State farm to be available about January 1st.

Forced to This Position.

Chairman Varner, of the board of directors, says the directors are forced to this position by the conditions that confront them. There are 78 convicts on the Elkin & Alleghany Railroad; 30 on the Watauga & Yadkin; 51 on the Statesville Air Line (now to be withdrawn); 40 on Madison county highway construction; 50 in Henderson county on the Bat Cave road, and 467 on the State farm.

Enterprise of Great Merit.

Dr. P. W. Covington, of the State Board of Health, in charge of the bureau of county health, is just back from an inspection of the tuberculosis hospital plant in process of construction at Wilson for negroes, and pronounces the enterprise one of great merit and promise of good for the negroes, who are sustaining such appalling inroads from this dread disease. The cornerstone for the main building was laid Thanksgiving Day and it is expected that the building will be completed by early in the new year. Upwards of $15,000 is already in hand for the work and one phylanthropic lady has donated a complete heating plant for the building and another an electric elevator and still others minor features of equipment.

When the hospital in the town of Wilson is gotten under way there is to be established out in the country near Wilson on an admirably fitted tract of land a regular tuberculosis camp with cottages and tents for the out-door life and special treatment so necessary for eradicating the disease.

Also in the town hospital there is to be a training school for nurses who will be especially prepared for looking after tubercular patients. These will be sent into various parts of the State to work among the colored people.

Travis to Washington.

Chairman Travis, of the Corporation Commission, made an engagement today to be in Washington Monday with the traffic managers of the inter-State carriers to prepare the answer on the part of the railroad companies and the State authorities to the exceptions by Virginia cities to the application of the new reduced inter-State freight rates for North Carolina accepted by the recent special Legislature. No time is yet set for the hearing in this case or for the filing of the answer to the Virginia cities' exceptions.

WRANGLE OVER CURRENCY

replace the present 2 per cent with 3 per cent one-year government notes, but would take a long period of time to effect the transfer.

The conference at tonight's session also decided to dispose of all provisions which do not involve disputed matters. The disputed points, including al the sections passed over so far will be taken up tomorrow by the Democrats' of the Banking committee, who will report to the conference tomorrow night.

The leaders expect to complete the bill at that time.

Late tonight the conference adopted an amendment to the Owen bill which would permit the Federal reserve board to establish any number of regional reserve banks considered necessary between the limits of eight and 12.

Federal reserve board would be given authority to decide where banks are needed to meet the ordinary trend of business operations. The bill passed by the House fixed the number of banks at 12, while the Owen bill provided for eight and the Hitchcock bill four.

Preliminary consideration of the bill was completed by the conference tonight, and finishing touches will be added at a session to begin at 3 o'clock tomorrow.

tillo. Fearing the speedy close of this last avenue of escape, Americans and other foreigners in Monterey are reported to be crowding the trains starting for the American border.

Confer With Lind.

A report that Senor Moheno, the Huerta secretary of foreign affairs, had gone to Vera Cruz to confer with John Lind, aroused interest at the State Department. It was believed here that Senor Moheno might be charged with fresh propositions to lay before the American government.

News of the approaching dispatch from Cadiz to Vera Cruz of a Spanish warship, and of the vigorous demand on the part of influential French newspapers for a cessation of the conflict in Mexico, also interested officials, mainly because of its probable moral effect in reinforcing President Wilson's demand for a change in the provisional government.

A long telegraphic report was received during the day from Admiral Fletcher on his flagship Rhode Island. The admiral's report dealt with conditions in the oil fields which are so far quiet, but still threatening.

With the arrival in Mexican waters of the fourth division of the Atlantic fleet in the course of a fortnight, three-fourths of that great naval aggregation will be engaged in the protection of American and foreign interests in Mexico. The practical termination of the threatened Navajo uprising in Northwestern New Mexico, will have the effect of releasing the squadron of the 12th Cavalry, which was rushed from Fort Robinson, Nebraska, to the Indian agency, and these troops will go at once to Texas, reinforcing on the border patrol the Second and 15th Cavalry now at El Paso, along with the battery of the Fifth Field Artillery.

Although Rear Admiral Cradock, commanding the British ships in Mexican waters, ranks Rear Admiral Fletcher by virtue of seniority, the British commander has notified the American admiral that he wishes to subordinate himself in co-operating with the United States forces. This fresh evidence of friendly feeling between the two governments was received here with manifest gratification.

Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 29.—William J. Smith, brevet brigadier general of the Union Army during the Civil War, fell dead from heart failure on the street here tonight. He was a veteran of the Mexican war, a member from Tennessee of the 41st Congress and at his death was president of a Memphis bank. He was 90 years old.

Fat Job for Kluttz.

Whitehead Kluttz, of Salisbury, it is expected, will be handed a slice of "pie" in the shape of secretaryship to the International Boundary Commission about January 1st. The job pays $5,000 per year.

TWO-FOLD PURPOSE.

President Bids Bride Good-bye and Sees Game.

New York, Nov. 29.—President Wilson accomplished today the two purposes that brought him to New York—he bade bon voyage to the White House bride and bridegroom, his daughter and Francis B. Sayre, who sailed for Europe on their honeymoon, and as commander-in-chief of the armed land and water forces of the country, he attended the Army-Navy football game at the Polo grounds, where he was an interested spectator. Tonight the President went to the theatre. He took a late train back to Washington.

The President, accompanied by Miss Eleanor Wilson and Dr. Carey T. Grayson, waited on the deck of the steamship George Washington in Hoboken the forenoon for Mr. and Mrs. Sayre to appear. He did not see them board the vessel, for the bridal couple eluding the crowd, used the second cabin entrance. The President finally entered the Sayre suite and was surprised to find them there.

When the ship had sailed the President went to the Polo grounds. With him were Miss Wilson, Dr. Grayson, Secretary Tumulty and Col. and Mrs. ... M. House, at whose home the President was a guest while here.

After the game crowds surrounded the box the President occupied and he acknowledged their cheers by lifting his hat.

STAGG TO NORTH CAROLINA.

Director of Athletics at Chicago University to Rest.

Chicago, Nov. 29.—A. Alonzo Stagg, director of athletics at the University of Chicago, left today for Pinehurst, N. C., for a vacation of a month.

A little less than a year ago Stagg was threatened with a physical breakdown and went to the Rocky Mountains, where he spent several months, returning to Chicago only in time to take charge of the football practice.

He still feels that his health requires attention, but he will break his rest in February long enough to attend the meeting of the football rules committee at New York.

New Year's Resolutions

are hard to keep! We start them with a bang—and then we gradually slow down.

Ever notice, too, how the year gets well on before we even try to apply them? So busy! So occupied with the season's demands upon our time, etc.

What is the Thing to Do?

Take time by the forelock! Every man and every woman knows the importance of carrying a savings account, and if you will simply come in and start the fund now, without waiting for the New Year, there will then be no resolution!

and Yet—

You will be more comfortable! You will spend less, for jingling money in the pocket is a temptation to waste!

The Independent Woman

The woman of today knows more about business than her Mother did and if the agitation for Women's Rights did nothing more than it has already accomplished, it would have been a good thing. It has made women think, made them more dependable in business and made them more self-reliant.

Most women at the head of households now pay all bills by check. They have learned that it is the business-like way to handle money. We have made special provision to care for our women depositors and both Bank Book and Check Books of proper size for the hand bag have been provided. Your account will be welcome.

IN THE SPORTLIGHT

News and Reviews of the Week in the World of Sports.

Some optimistic local fans see in the coming of the Philadelphia National training camp to Wilmington next year, a chance for an awakening among devotees of the game which will lead to another clamor for professional baseball in Wilmington. Rocky Mount, which, by the way, is one of the gamest little burgs hereabouts when it comes to spending its good money for the National pastime, is very hopeful that it will be the means of bringing about renewed interest along this line, this being the subject of a recent editorial of the Transcript, of that city. They mentioned Rocky Mount, Fayetteville, Goldsboro, Kinston and Wilmington, as five possible units in a six-club league. However, nothing can be expected, if at all, before the 1915 season, as matters would have to shape themselves before February in order to form a league for next season.

The Philadelphia paper which stated that Wilmington "offered the most attractive inducements of any Southern town" to get the Phillies, goes on to say that "they include a turf infield and a new grandstand seating 2,500," and that "the Phillies also are to receive the gate receipts that may be taken in for games played." Some inducements, believe us. Sort of soft snap money coining jaunt for Boss Baker, instead of the usual heavy outlay of major club training trips.

President Baker will accompany the Phillies when they come to Wilmington next February. The purpose of his visit is to thoroughly investigate this city in order to determine whether it would be advisable to fix up Wilmington as permanent training quarters. The result of next Spring's training on the Dooin Daisies will, of course, be the main determining factor. Should Wilmington enjoy its usual salubrious Winter and early Spring season, there is little doubt but that we will get the camp. Wilmington's fate will be in the hands of the weather man.

The entire list of managers who will pilot the major league clubs in 1914 is now complete, with the single exception of the Cincinnati Reds. With Wilbert Robinson engaged to lead the Brooklyn Nationals, and with Fred Clarke disposing of rumors that he was to retire when he signed up again as boss of the Pirates, the last posibility of managerial changes was removed until the ousting of Joe. Tinker last week.

Some weeks ago there was talk of new leaders for the Chicago Cubs, the Phillies, the Cardinals and the Cleveland Naps, but no longer is there a possibility of any shift at either of these places, and it is assured now that Johnny Evers, Charley Dooin, Miller Huggins and Joe Birmingham will be in charge of these clubs respectively for at least one more season.

It is possible now to go clear through the list from pennant winners to tailenders, barring the Reds, and put your finger on the present commander as the man who will be at the helm next year. The Athletics, of course, will stand pat on Connie Mack, not only for 1914, but for as long as Mr. McGillicuddy is willing to be "stood pat on." The same can be said of John McGraw of the Giants, who has steered his club into three successive pennants.

Clarke Griffith has accomplished so much with the Senators that all Washington fans as well as the club owners want him in power as long as he continues his recent pace. Charlie Dooin did so remarkably well in sending the Phillies up to second place in the National League that he deserves to stay in office, and William F. Baker, the new club president, was quick to recognize this and act accordingly, signing "Red Charlie" to a contract with increased salary, despite talk to the effect that Dooin was through as a manager.

Strangely enough, the third place teams in both leagues were spoken of some time past as among those likely to have new managers. Many believed last Summer that Johnny Evers would have so much trouble controlling his Cub players that it would be impossible for him to get enough results in a playing way for the team to stay out of the second division. Evers had the trouble with the players all right, but he fooled them all by landing his team in notch No. three. Joe Birmingham was embroiled in some sort of childish trouble with Nap LaJoie, the full facts of which never came out, but it was all smoothed over some time ago and Owner Somers of the Naps has decided to have the so-called boy manager on the job again.

Clarke is lined up to pilot the Pirates once more, and Bill Carrigan is sure to lead the Red Sox again, having signed up before the close of last season; as certain as Jimmy Callahan is to command the White Sox and George Stallings lead the Boston Braves—the latter having achieved more really than any other leader this year by transforming his team from tail-enders to leader of the second division. The Dodgers problem may have been solved by the signing of Robinson to succeed Bill Dahlen. Detroit will stick to Hughey Jennings as long as it will to Ty Cobb—forever; and Miller Huggins will again be inflicted with the Cardinals. Frank Chance is a fixture with the Yankees, and may be expected to break into print big next season, and Branch Rickey will have the doubtful honor of leading the Browns for the season of 1914.

Here's the real reason why the Detroit club would not trade Tyrus Cobb to any club unless it got something remarkable in return: The Tigers in 1912 drew approximately $128,000 on the road; in 1913 they drew only approximately $98,000. Who was absent from the team for some little time at the beginning of the 1913 season? Answer—T. R. Cobb on his spectacular hold-out. Make your own deductions.

That must have been some reunion last week when Fielder Jones acted as host to the Giant-White Sox world touring party during their stay in Portland. Jones, who led the Sox to a world's championship in 1906, was able to retrospect with only a few members of the troupe, however, for most of the old guard is gone now and only one or two of the remaining ones are taking the trip.

Our old friend Football has said his last good-bye for the year through the medium of yesterday's Army-Navy game in New York. But he has had quite a little season, thank you, albeit he proved an inconsistent sort of fellow and persisted in springing surprises at nearly every twist and turn. His main offering of the year was proof that the olden days of universally conceded Eastern supremacy have passed into the discard. Five victories out of five starts for the West constitutes a neat little record, and presumably will act as a special impetus in favor of the scheduling of more big games of East against West.

Two weeks ago a rumor came out at Ann Arbor that the University of Michigan was angling for a 1914 football game with Princeton. The correspondents did not go strong on it, however. But now word is received

WHY DO PEOPLE STAMMER?

Tongues Stumble Over Some Words and Numbers Because Brains Forget How They Sound.

Stammering and stuttering have in the past, been studied almost exclusively in their physical manifestations, but, as a matter of fact, the psychological side is far more important, says a writer in the New York American. The real defect lies not in the vocal cords, but in the mind of the stammerer.

The stammerer's difficulty about the vowel is not purely physiological. He halts at the vowel because he cannot produce the vowel-color or vowel-quality. The real difficulty is that he is afflicted with transient auditory amnesia, or momentary forgetting of the sound that he wishes to produce. He is unable, for the instant, to recall the sound-image of the vowel that he wishes to enunciate.

The stammerer is an "audito-moteur." He relies for his speech-cues upon muscular and auditory images. When he stammers in enunciating a word it is because there is complete failure of the auditory image. His futile struggles with the initial consonant are directed solely by his muscular (kinaesthetic) imagery, but he cannot pass on to the vowel because he cannot recall its sound, its peculiar or characteristic quality—in short, the vowel-color.

When he attempts to speak the word ten, he pronounces the "t" entirely by feeling; but he cannot mentally hear the sound "e," and is hence unable to proceed. His mental imagery might be diagrammed as follows: T-N, with the capitals representing the muscular images or articulatory movements, and the hyphen representing a mental hiatus or gap.

Many stammerers have an auditory image of the entire word, but so long as the image fails to appear during speech stammering must inevitably result. It is, however, primarily the failure of the auditory vowel image that occasions the stammerer's difficulty, for the auditory impression of the consonant is generally supplied by the actual stammering.

In severe cases of stammering it quite frequently happens that the speaker, after fearful struggle with a word, gives utterance to an entirely inappropriate vowel. This fact shows that the conditions affecting vowel image are abnormal. Through defective internal hearing the wrong auditory vowel image is invoked, and the vowel is pronounced muscularly.

The most difficult vowels for the stammerer to redintegrate are those that are least definite and tangible in their coloration. For this reason stammering occurs with far greater frequency on the short vowels than it does on the long vowels. The stammerer is less likely to have trouble with the word light than with the word lit. The long "i" is more definite and substantial, and the mind can recall it better. The long vowels are found to have more definite tone color as they fall upon the ear, and the distinction is even more marked as they are recalled in auditory imagery.

The ability of the stammerer, and some times of the aphasic patient who has lost all memory of words, to sing is readily explained by the greater tangibility of the auditory image in singing. As the long vowel is more tangible than the short, so the musical tone is more tangible than either.

In attempting to cure the stammerer much time has been wasted in so-called elocutionary training. Vocal exercises have a certain value, but more for their psychological than their elocutionary effect. The exercises exert a favorable influence through suggestion when the stammerer has confidence in their therapeutic power; and for a time, at least, they may remove such secondary causes as fear, bewilderment and inhibitive auto-suggestion, or the idea, "I can't pronounce." The auditory images may be sharpened by this daily practice, but this is apt to be only a temporary effect.

During childhood, when secondary causes have not yet supervened, stammering usually yields readily to the rational treatment. The child need not be shut up in an institution. An intelligent mother can usually accomplish all that is possible for a stammering child if, instead of supinely waiting for him to "out-grow" the difficulty, she will undertake to combat the impediment.

In the first place the child himself must be induced to strive for fluency in speech. He must be offered a substantial and much-coveted reward for ultimate victory, and must be helped at every stage. He must be checked quietly and gently each time he stammers. He must be made to wait and reflect upon the words he is about to use—and to utter these words slowly and with composure. If he then speaks fluently he should be commended and encouraged, and should be made to repeat the words in order that he may gain assurance.

The child should be made to feel that, though it is not reprehensible to stammer, it is nevertheless highly commendable to speak fluently. He should never be laughed at, scolded or punished for his impediments; for with such treatment fear soon associates itself with speech. He should never be mimicked, and for this reason and a hundred others should be kept from school till the impediment has disappeared.

If much amnesia seems to be present the child should be told to think, during speech, how his words are going to sound. If physical stammering is in evidence he should be taught to inhale before speaking and to speak at all times without effort.

If mothers would adopt these simple measures we would in a few decades hear little more of stammering.

Stammering is often acquired by children as the result of association with other stammerers. Whatever a child learns, he learns chiefly through imitation. If those around him speak English he speaks English. If those around him use provincialisms, he uses provincialisms. If those around him stammer he learns to stammer also. To him stammering may, indeed, appear as a normal mode of speech—or it might not, if he were able to reflect upon the matter. What really happens is that he hears stammering and acquires distorted images of speech by the same process that would, under other conditions, inculcate normal verbal imagery.

TIMBER SUPPLY DEPENDS ON PRIVATE FORESTS.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 29.—After the remaining virgin timber of the United States is exhausted, forest supplies will have to come from National forests, State forests, or from privately-owned land; but Federal and State forests, according to E. A. Sterling, director of the American Forestry Association, who addressed the National Conservation Congress last week, constitute only one-fifth of the total forest area of the country.

"On private lands," he says, "the timber of the future will be either such growth which has sprung up voluntarily from cut-over land, or has managed to escape fire, or that from areas which have been devoted to forest production as a business enterprise. So far, the practice of private forestry has been mainly confined to small operations, often more for pleasure than for profit. An intensive forest policy on a scale large enough to establish its commercial feasibility has not yet been undertaken.

"Private forestry in the United States has been retarded by many influences, among which the more important are large stored-up timber supplies, comparatively low stumpage and lumber values, lack of market for many minor forest products, and a public sentiment which has not realized that forest production is essentially the growing of successive crops."

NEW YORK TO HAVE GLASS SKYSCRAPER

Gotham's Novel Structure to be Built Without Windows

NEW WAY OF FIGHTING FIRE

Put them Out by Singing to Them. Penny Restaurant Combats High Cost of Living—Turkey Trotters Marvel.

New York, Nov. 27.—A sealed skyscraper of glass is New York's newest building wonder. Paradoxical as this may seem, though 78 per cent of this structure—in fact, all except the steel skeleton—is to be glass, there will not be a single window. It is being erected by a leading publishing concern, and of nearly $2,000,000 to be expended, $300,000 will be for the power plant alone. Of the many new features which will make this truly a loft building de luxe the most notable is the abolition of windows and the scientific ventilating system. Fresh air, entering at the second floor, is washed and dried, passing through a shower chamber where a blinding downpour of artificial rain rids it of all impurities. Thus washed, the air is sucked through cooling chambers into a huge flue of two wedge-like sections—one for carrying off the foul air and the other for replacing the same with the purified fresh air. With ceilings unusually high, this will be the tallest 12-story structure in the world. Fresh, cool spring water will be piped to sanitary fountains in each suite. Being windowless, there will be no draughts, dust or noises from without and quiet from within will be promoted by rubber floors, electric carriers, noiseless typewriters and dictaphones. Ink for presses will be piped to the press rooms by air pressure, and coal and ashes handled by gravity and automatic machinery entirely. The mail bag chute is also a fire escape—a huge tube with three spirals seven feet in diameter, into which one may

BIG BIJOU BILL

The Theatre That's Talked About
THE SEATS ARE ROOMY
Plenty of Laughing Space!

MONDAY, DECEMBER 1st.

"Hansel and Gretchel"

This is a delightful three-part Warner feature, depicting the amazing adventures of the Woodcutter's Children, as told in Grimm's Fairy Tales. Of course, you recall that delightful fairy tale, where everything commonplace is turned into a maze of the unreal, the adventures of Hanzel and Gretchel, the tiny tots who were imprisoned in the gingerbread house? Here it is, ready to make you laugh and cry in sympathy with their adventures in the enchanted woods.

"The Official Goat Protector"
A Tannhauser comedy-drama.

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 2nd.

"The Greenhorn"

A Broncho headliner in two long reels. Selig, a Russian, comes from the land of oppression to "The Land of the Free," and enlists in the army, but his awkwardness makes him the butt of ridicule. He makes good when he saves the garrison from an Indian attack. A strong and gripping drama.

"The Flirt and the Bandit"
A strongly dramatic "American" production.
"A Slight Misunderstanding"
A good, strong comedy, producing a laugh to every foot.

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 3rd.

"The Treasure of Devil's Dale"

An intensely dramatic Warner, in three parts. A superb all-star cast produced this tale of tense, dramatic action. It has a gripping plot and is full of clean-spirited action from beginning to end.

"The Farmer's Daughter"

WHERE EVERYBODY GOES

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 4th.

"Exoneration"

Another big offering to fill in between "Warner Days." This is a big two-reel picture, of an intensely strong dramatic nature. You will sit spellbound, as an all-star cast presents this great story in pictures.

"When the Debt Was Paid"
A strong "Majestic" dramatic picture.

"The Twins and the Other Girl"
An entrancing Tannhauser Comedy-Drama.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 5th.

"The Way to Happiness"

This is another strong Warner picture in three long reels. The picture is full of exciting and tense situations, which will cause you to grip your seat unconsciously. The ending is superb, as the title would indicate. This will be one of the biggest features of the week, and should draw capacity crowds next Friday.

The Bijou is the only theatre putting out the Warner feature pictures at the regular price of admission. Other theatres throughout the South charge double prices when the Warners are on. No matter how big the show, the Bijou price is always five cents.

"A Cowtown Reformation."
A Western comedy-drama filled to the brim with action, cowboys, suffragettes, an unlucky minister, and other things.

SATURDAY, DECEMB7R 6th.

"Life's Pathway"
A two-part "Tannhauser" feature, to bring another big week to a close. This is an intensely dramatic production in two long reels, and is full of pathos and strong dramatic situations.

"Mother's Boy"
A "Keystone" feature—a big Comic Hit.

THEATRICAL

Wednesday Night—Alabama Minstrels.

Friday (night only)—Mabel and Edith Taliaferro.

Saturday, matinee and night—Rose Stahl.

This is going to be a big week for big stars at the Academy of Music, as will be seen from the above list. Wilmington has had some big attractions this season, but now it is to have a conjunction of big shows and big stars. This means Broadway stars, as people who keep up with things theatrical will at once appreciate when it is announced that Mabel and Edith Taliaferro, and Rose Stahl are on the way. The two celebrated sisters who have joined forces this season for a joint starring tour of a few of the larger cities of the country, will appear Friday night only at the Academy of Music, and the following day clever Rose Stahl will come, and will be seen at both matinee and night. Wilmington theatregoers may indeed consider themselves fortunate in getting these big attractions.

But the first attraction this week will be the famed Alabama Minstrels, the greatest colored aggregation on the road.

The Alabama Minstrels.

Wednesday night the Academy of Music will offer the biggest and best colored show on the road, Jones' Alabama Minstrels. The attraction is one that has won bushels of praise from the press and that will, no doubt, be greeted by a large audience in this city. Besides a large corps of singers and dancers it includes some of the greatest colored vaudeville artists on the stage. A superb band and orchestra are carried by the company and those who like genuine minstrelsy must not go shy on this big performance.

A beautiful production will also be witnessed, because the company carries a carload of scenery.

Seats for the attraction will go on sale at J. Hicks Bunting's drug store tomorrow morning.

Friday Night's Big Show.

Outside of the very substantial recognition which has come to Mabel and Edith Taliaferro since the announcement of their joint starring tour in Rachel Crothers' new play, "Young Wisdom," there is a pretty element of sentiment in the bringing together of these two popular young women which appeals with particular force to those who have followed their interesting careers.

Although both Mabel and Edith Taliaferro have been before the theatre-going public for a great many years, this fact is due to the early ages at which they made their debuts and not to their ages at the present time. As a matter of fact, neither of these exceedingly interesting young women is very far advanced in the twenties. And when you stop to consider that each has enjoyed starring honors on her own accounts before most young women have graduated from boarding school, you gather the real significance of the announcement that Mabel and Edith Taliaferro are to be seen as co-stars in a play giving each equal opportunities for distinction.

In "Young Wisdom," strangely enough, they appear as sisters and Miss Crothers has woven a sparkling tale in which they figure. She has hit upon the popular idea of matrimony as it is viewed by those who believe we are approaching a higher state which shall provide each soul with its proper mate and when love will rule over law.

Seats will be on sale at J. Hicks Bunting's drug store Wednesday, December 7th.

Coming of Rose Stahl.

Rose Stahl in "Maggie Pepper," a three-act play of department store life by Charles Klein, will be the attraction at the Acedamy, at matinee and night, next Saturday (this week.)

There is no more adept playwright in the development of themes on American life than Charles Klein. This has been proved many times, yet it is hard to imagine "Maggie Pepper" without Rose Stahl, for there is no other actress on our stage who could visualize so perfectly this typical American character.

"Maggie Pepper" tells the story of a shop girl, which by reason of its everydayness, has a powerful appeal. From her first appearance as a slangy, caustic-tongued, brave-hearted shop girl who finds, after 15 years of faithful service, as a drudge in a department store, her ambition to rise to the head of her department is not to be realized owing to the antiquated ideas and prejudices of the general manager, Miss Stahl as Maggie, holds the sympathy of her audience. The subtle change in her appearance, address and manners after her hopes have been realized, and her ability has won her a leading place in the management of the store, stamps Miss Stahl as a finished artist. At first she gives the impression of a witty, brainy woman, lacking in education and refinement, but self-reliant and honest. By her own efforts, as the progress of the play discloses, she educates herself to fit the advanced position she desires. At the same time this store girl looms big in her self-sacrificing desire to reclaim a niece from the teachings of a wicked mother.

The Henry B. Harris Estate, under which Miss Stahl appears, has surrounded her with an excellent company of players and this well balanced cast will visualize each familiar character conceived by the author. From a production standpoint nothing is left to be desired, for it is fitting that so fine a play and such exceptional playing should have a frame worthy of it. We are assured that "Maggie Pepper" is a play which can be vouched for to give the theatregoer the fullest pleasure of the theatre, whether it is regarded from the standpoint of entertainment, a study of national, and yet local, conditions or of types created by the environment of the business world as it is organized today.

"Peg O' My Heart."

"Peg O' My Heart," which will be seen at the Academy of Music, matinee and night, December 8th, commencing with matinee December 8th, has just finished a tremendous run in New York, and is now starring on what promises to be a very successful road tour. The heroine of the play, "Peg," is a little girl of English and Irish parentage, who finds herself in a family who have undertaken her education for the remuneration which they are to receive, by which they hope to maintain their position in society and keep up appearances. They do not appreciate the true worth of the girl and her life with them is very unhappy. humor and pathos are cleverly mixed and the result is a play of real merit.

Great Week at Bijou.

To people who have watched the course of the popular Bijou for the past two or three weeks it has seemed that there could not possibly be anything greater in the way of moving picture shows. Yet what was greatest during this period will be surpassed the present week by the superb Warner features and leaders of other big film concerns obtained for the Bijou by its alert and enterprising management. And the superb fireworks, so to speak, will open up tomorrow, when the magnificent Warner film, in three big parts, "Hans and Gretchel," will be offered. All the youngsters will flock to the Bijou tomorrow, but all roads will lead there for adults as well, because the film is a strong one for the grown-ups. It is founded on the amazing adventures of the woodcutter's children, as told in beloved Grimm's fairy tales and it is most spectacular. Magnificent aptly describes the film and no amusement lover should fail to witness the great spectacle. Over a thousand people take part and the scenery is most elaborate. It is something out of the ordinary; a brilliant novelty and it will be the greatest thing in moving pictures Wilmington has ever known. And yet this three-reel special release will not be all by any means. Tanhauser's famed comedy creation, "The Official Goat Protector," serving up a laugh a second, will also be offered. Notwithstanding this immense offering and the extra expense the Bijou will not raise the price of admission for tomorrow. It will be the same old tiny 5 cents.

At The Grand.

It is the object of the Grand Theatre management to be up-to-date and furnish its patrons with everything that is the real thing in the photoplay business. A contract has been made with the Famous Players Film Company to exhibit at the Grand Theatre exclusively their output of feature pictures, of which is 30 in all. The first picture will be Miss Lilie Langtry in "His Neighbor's Wife." One can imagine what a scope the screen affords to show this wonderful play. Miss Langtry is at her best in this stellar play, and is surrounded with a capable company. This picture will be shown Wednesday, December 3rd, and owing to the enormous expense of securing the wonderful picture, the management is compelled to charge 10 cents admission.

But as to tomorrow's great show. First of all there will be Lubin's big dramatic, "Making Good," with Selig's thrilling dramatic, "Dishwash Dick's Counterfeit," running it a close second. Then there will be the prince of all fun pictures in Pathe's "Dodging Matrimony."

Next will come a big comedy drama, Lubin's "Tommy's Stratagem." "Giving Bill a Rest" is another of tomorrow's corker, followed by an exceedingly fine film, "Surf and Sunset on the Indian Ocean."

HOW TO KEEP ACTIVE

When Old Age Overtakes Us.

Mrs. John Widmayer, of Jackson, Mich., says: "Although 69 years of age, and naturally, because of my advanced age, in an enfeebled condition, I can truthfully say that Vinol has done wonders to keep me as active as I am. It is the best medicine to create strength that I ever saw. This Spring I was very much run down and worn out but I took Vinol and soon felt stronger and able to work about the house. I can recommend Vinol as a very invigorating tonic."

Should the system get run down—digestive organs weak—the blood thin and sluggish—take Vinol, which is a delicious combination of the medicinal—body-building properties of cods' livers, with the useless grease eliminated and tonic iron added. We regard Vinol as one of the greatest body builders and strength creators in the world for aged people.

We wish every feeble old person in this vicinity would try Vinol on our agreement to return their money if it fails to give satisfaction.—Robt. R. Bellamy.

P. S.—If you have any skin trouble try Saxo Salve. We guarantee it.

5000 Words Are Added Yearly to Our Language

A census of the English language shows that there are something like 5,000 new words born every year.

Some curious discoveries were made by the census takers. It was found, for instance, that the first dictionary was issued about 300 years ago and contained but 5,080 words. At that time most of the English people talked French or Saxon, or something else. English, spoken and written, was a comparatively new thing. In thirty years the number of words grew to 13,000, and in the course of the first century after the first dictionary was issued there were 20,000 words in the language. Johnson's dictionary, published about 50 years later, contained 50,000 words.

This remained the standard until Noah Webster came into the field in 1828 with the first of the dictionaries that still bear his name. Webster found 160,000 words.

Since that time the number has been rolling up. There are 200,000 words in a big dictionary issued about a half century ago, and in 1894 this number had grown to 318,000. Now, as stated, the number has reached 450,000, and it is believed by experts that in the course of another ten years the half million mark will be reached.

There was a time when French was the predominating language of civilization. That time has far gone. English comes nearer being the world language. There are 160,000,000 people habitually speaking English now. German is spoken by 130,000,000 and is next to English in importance. Russian, one of the most difficult of languages, is third on the list, and 100,000,000 people speak it.

Of course, both English and Russian are the official languages of countries containing far more people than that. But the languages are not spoken by all the people. French is the language of but 70,000,000. Spanish and Italian both claim 50,000,000, and Portuguese, which was once a world language, has but 25,000,000 people habitually using it.

English is a language that is made up from all languages; hence the great increase in the number of words. Because its use is so widespread the people have acquired the habit of including expressive foreign words and phrases in their conversation, and these are gradually adopted into the language. The automobile industry has supplied English with dozens of new words—words that were originally in some other language.

For instance, the word "chauffeur" was originally used to designate a fireman. In France, where it originated, it is still applied to railroad employes and has quite a number of general uses there, because it is a perfectly proper French word. In English, to which it has been adapted, it means the driver of an automobile only and has no other use. The word "automobile" is French, but has been adopted by the English just as chauffeur was adopted.

The acquiring of property is commendable. To permit it to be destroyed by fire brings reproach on your judgment.

Mr. S. H. McDowell, of Welland, Ont., reports that a 16 c-p. incandescent lamp still in use at his home has been in almost continuous service since 1901. The lamp was first operated in Barrie, Ont., and later at Toronto, and has since been in practically nightly use. Mr. McDowell believes this lamp holds a world's record.

Swift and Cheap Justice

GIVING JUDGES THE POWER TO BE JUST

By GEORGE W. ALGER

Excerpts From the World's Work for December

If one were to attempt to state roughly, yet with substantial accuracy, the main difference between English and American systems of justice, it would be this: The English trust their courts; the Americans talk much about judicial independence and give their courts about as much freedom as a nervous mother gives a girl in her teens—often with the same result. English courts, for example, are permitted by Parliament, to devise their own methods of doing business, subject to certain broad statutory enactments. They are, therefore, almost entirely responsible for the character and efficiency of their judicial practice. The English people are highly satisfied with the result. American courts for the most part have had their method of doing business prescribed for them in detail by Legislatures, and are abused by a long-suffering public for the results which follow their attempt to administer justice under codes and statutes thus imposed upon them.

Current American law reform on matters of procedure is in large part an attempt in one form or another (1) to induce American Legislatures to give the courts the same broad powers which the English courts enjoy or (2) to induce American legislatures to adopt by statute some of the time-saving, money-saving procedure methods which the freer English courts have in the course of time from practical experience devised for themselves.

Though, in a very few States progress has been made along the first of these lines by giving the courts large power to enact their own rules and establish their own procedure, in the majority of States the main course of reform in procedure at present is the enactment into American law of English court rules.

On both these lines of reform in procedure American lawyers have been very active in their efforts in recent years. Let us consider briefly certain of the benefits of current English procedure, which our lawyers have studied and are now seeking to adapt to American justice. The common characteristic of the majority of these reforms, as will appear, is that they are time-savers; they eliminate waste motion, which is as expensive in the courts as in industry. The English courts have their procedure so organized as to concentrate judicial energy. Our judges work as hard as their English brethren, often harder, but they work at less advantage and with smaller results, because their energy is dissipated, duplicated and wasted.

Some illustrations of this contrast between the concentration of judicial energy which is characteristic of English justice and its waste in American courts will make the situation clearer. For example, in England, under the rules of court after a case has begun it is assigned to some particular judge who conducts it from its very beginning until it ends in final judgment. In New York a hotly contested case may be heard in part before half a dozen judges. One motion may be made before one judge, another application before another, and so on until possibly half a dozen judges have at one time or another had to familiarize themselves with the details of the case before it reaches actual trial on its merits. This, of course, is waste motion. If a man has business with a corporation he generally tries to find some one person in responsible authority to take up his matter for consideration. After seeing the president of the company and beginning negotiation with him it is rarely that he goes to the treasurer, then to the secretary, then to the general manager, then to the superintendent, and takes up with them separately various phases of his affairs. It would be foolish for him to attempt to do it, and he could not do it if he tried. He would be referred back to the person with whom he had begun. One of the effects of this madhouse method in the courts is not only that it wastes an endless amount of time which judges might better employ, but it overstimulates the ingenuity of counsel. No consistent course is necessary if the judge on the fifth application does not know that the theories of your rights which you unsuccessfully urged upon the third and fourth judges were entirely different.

One cause of this waste of energy in practice in our large cities is that miscellaneous motions relating to a case, demands made by one party or the other for more detailed information as to claims and defenses, for the examination of an opponent's letters or papers, applications for the examination of witnesses, and other preliminary relief pending trial, are made not at one time, but at various times before the case reaches actual trial, and these matters come to various judges, requiring each of them to familiarize himself separately with the facts of the case, or at least with the pleadings and the previous transactions in the litigation. The enormous volume of such applications may be appreciated from the fact that in New York county 16,032 litigated motions were made last year, the greater part of which were applications of this kind. In England, in every action, these motions are all made to a judge at the same time. After the suit has been started, there is a "summons for directions," which brings the action at a given time before him. Each party then asks the judge to order that in this case certain preliminary rulings be made, directing one party for example to show certain papers, requiring the other party to tell just what the nature of his claim or defense may be, or to state whether certain things are disputed or not, so that these preliminaries to the main controversy are all settled very briefly and apparently with a large degree of satisfaction to litigants.

It is proposed that we reform our procedure by adopting this method so as to require all these applications to be made at the same time to a single judge and that judge to be the judge who will hear the case from start to finish.

The recent New Jersey Practice Act goes still farther. It provides for officers corresponding to the masters of the Supreme Court in English practice, and instead of making such applications as in England to a judge these applications are made to one of these masters, who is called a Supreme Court commissioner.

One common complaint of the law's delay made by business men will be largely obviated by the New Jersey practice, as it has been obviated in England, that is, the practice of putting in sham defenses. A merchant sells a bill of goods. There is delay in its payment. Finally he is compelled to bring suit. His lawyer prepares a complaint, alleging that certain merchandise was sold and delivered to the defendant at an agreed price or reasonable value for a certain sum. The defendant puts in a denial. His denial may be entirely false, but in most of our States it entitles him to a trial by jury, and considerable delay is usually involved in getting to trial. In the meantime, the debtor not only has an extension of credit, but is left in a position where he can dispose of his property and be prepared to avoid payment when judgment has been rendered against him.

Let me give an example: Some months ago I brought an action for merchandise which had been sold by a company to a business man. The usual complaint was served. In New York, as in other States, we are accustomed to number the various paragraphs in the complaint. For example, let us say, paragraph 2 contains a statement that between certain times the plaintiff sold and delivered to the defendant merchandise at an agreed price of $1,000. Now the defendant in his answer interposed a denial under oath in the following form: He "denies each and every allegation contained in paragraph 2 of the complaint." That means, of course, in effect that he denied that we had sold him the goods and delivered the goods to him and that the value was so much money. This was false, but it involved, in preparation for trial, proof that the goods had been shipped from three different localities to this merchant, the calling of three different employes to prove delivery and that the full amount claimed had been delivered, and proof of its reasonable value. This was expensive in time, in annoyance, and in interruption of business. The defense was a sham. On trial, after all this trouble had been occasioned, the defendant failed to appear. He had no defense and had been simply sparring for time.

There are quicker and cheaper ways of disposing of these sham answers in cases like my illustration. Under the New Jersey Practice Act this case would be disposed of under a rule which authorizes the court to strike out the answer and render final judgment in actions brought upon a contract unless "the defendant by affidavit or other proof shall show such facts as may be deemed by the judge hearing the motion sufficient to entitle him to defense. The English practice is even more thoroughgoing. An English authority describes the procedure thus:

"If the plaintiff is suing for a liquidated sum, for a tradesman's bill, for instance, or upon a promissory note, or even for the rent of premises or the possession of land, he may endorse upon his writ the nature and amount of his demand. Immediately upon the entry of appearance by the defendant, which must be within eight days, the plaintiff may take out a summons for judgment, which is returnable in four days. This summons is heard before a master and immediately disposed of, the evidence being confined to a brief affidavit by the plaintiff that the money sued for is due and payable and that the defendant has no defense to the action, and the affidavit of the defendant stating his defense. If the master is of the opinion that the defendant's affidavit does not disclose a meritorious or substantial cause of defense, he at once gives judgment for the plaintiff. If he is of the opinion that the defendant has some answer to the plaintiff's demand, three or four courses are open to him: (a) He may, if the parties consent, try the case himself, in which event the hearing will be without pleadings and upon oral evidence in the master's private room; or (b) he may, whether the parties consent or not, put the case on the short cause list to be heard probably during the ensuing week by a judge in open court, and in this case also without pleadings and upon oral evidence; or (c) he may give leave to defend upon condition that the defendant forthwith pay the sum in dispute into court, or unconditionally, and in such case the action will take its usual course.

"It will thus be seen that in every instance where the plaintiff is suing upon demands of this nature (and in every country the bulk of litigation must be of this character) final judgment may be obtained within from two weeks to a month from the date of the service of the writ."

It is impossible to deal here with the subject of procedure except in generalities. There can, of course, be no one system adapted to the needs of all our States. The conditions of law practice in large cities are necessarily unlike those in agricultural districts and sparsely populated States. Every State must mould a system to meet its own requirements. A uniform method underlying the systems of procedure, a method by which the system is made flexible rather than arbitrary and fixed, is appropriate to them all, and it is this method which is now in process of application. Much is being accomplished and much remains to be accomplished. What is going on all over the United States among lawyers is a highly interesting process of comparing notes and exchanging ideas on this subject. Every State has its own special defects and its own special virtues, and by this interchange of ideas the defects may be obviated and the virtues more widely extended. Through this wide interchange of ideas, the procedure in our various States is being greatly improved. Through the efforts of distinguished lawyers, through the hard work of numerous members of the bar in different parts of the country, great things have already been accomplished.

In the various States, bar associations are drafting and presenting to legislatures remedial statutes on this subject of procedure. New York, under a law enacted in 1912, has a board busily engaged in the work of preparing a short practice act and proposed rules for the simplification of civil practice.

To any lawyer who loves his profession, it is impossible to contemplate the work which is now being done by lawyers for the public service in the reform of judicial procedure without a thrill of emotion. This work from any standpoint of public recognition and personal glory is a thankless task. To the public this effort has little meaning. It will benefit greatly by its results.

It was announced at the recent International Congress of Refrigeration held in Chicago that Dr. Kanerlingh Onnes had produced a temperature of 428 deg. Fahr. below zero. At that temperature it is declared metals lose their electrical resistance so that minute wires can carry any distance all of the energy generated at Niagara Falls.

RIVER IMPROVEMENT A MOST SERIOUS PROBLEM

Moving of Crops and Manufactured Products in Return Causes Car Shortage, Terminal Congestion and Delays.

Washington, D. C., November 29.—According to reports of the Department of Agriculture, the value of farm products for the present year will run between nine and ten billion dollars. As the carriage of these foodstuffs to market, and the return of the manufactured products for which they will be exchanged, will tax the ability of the railroads to the limit, causing car shortage, terminal congestion and vexatious delays, the improvement of the rivers of the Continental United States becomes at once one of the most serious problems with which the government has to deal.

Just what should be done toward a solution of this fundamental economic problem will be one of the things which the Tenth Annual Convention of the National Rivers and Harbors Congress, which meets in this city December 3rd, 4th and 5th, next, will endeavor to show. But how best to make the rivers do their share of transportation is not the only question that will occupy the time of the Congress; there are other and equally vital subjects that will be considered during its three days' session. For diversity of subjects and the cosmopolitan character of those who will address the delegates, the meeting of the National Rivers and Harbors Congress next month gives promise of far exceeding any previous convention in the history of the organization.

Probably the one utterance that will be awaited with the liveliest possible interest is the one which will show the position that President Woodrow Wilson will take regarding a liberal policy of river and harbor development. As Governor of New Jersey the President early became interested in the project for a ship canal across the State connecting the Delaware river with Raritan Bay or Newark Bay, but his position on the improvement of the internal waters of the country is yet to be defined. It may also be expected that Secretary of War Garrison will outline the position of the administration on the government of the Panama canal zone and free tolls for coastwise commerce, in the event the President does not touch upon these questions in his annual message to Congress which will be delivered on the day previous to the meeting of the waterways convention.

Foreign governments will be represented on the programme by His Excellency D. da Gama, ambassador from Brazil, and Hon. John D. Hazen, minister of marine and Fisheries, Ottowa, Canada.

Hon. Rome G. Brown, a former president of the Minnesota Bar Association and chairman of the Conservation Committee of the American Bar Association, will speak on "Legislative Obstacles to the Improvement of Navigable Rivers," a subject of wide interest in view of recent decisions of the Supreme Court.

The Inter-coastal Waterways—New England to the Florida Keys, the Mississippi to the Atlantic, and the Mississippi to the Rio Grande—will be discussed in all their details by Representative John H. Small, of North Carolina; Senator Duncan U. Fletcher, of Florida; Representative Geo. F. Burgess, of Texas, and Representative Hampton Moore, of Pennsylvania, who will deliver an illustrated lecture on the Atlantic waterways project.

WASHINGTON'S SURVEY GETS GOVERNMENT O. K.

Government surveyors, who have just been checking up some of the lines reputed to have been run by George Washington in his days of chain and compass work, have found them good.

About 1751, according to tradition, George Washington, then 19 years old, ran out for Lord Thomas Fairfax the line between what was then to be Augusta and Frederick counties, Virginia, this being only a part of a great deal of surveying which he is said to have been engaged upon at that time. These two counties were separated from what was then Orange county, and the grant to Lord Fairfax was supposed to extend westward to the Pacific ocean. Subsequently these large tracts were further subdivided, so that the "Fairfax line," as it is generally known, runs now between Rockingham and Shenandoah counties, with the original Augusta and Frederick counties to the south and north, respectively.

In the organic act for the formation of the two counties, or "parishes" as they were then called, it was required that the line should be a straight one from the head spring of Heagman river, one of the sources of the Rappahannock, to the head spring of the Potomac.

Since it was required that the line should be straight, it was first necessary to get the approximate course by building large bonfires on the intervening high points. Then starting from the top of the Massanutten mountains, the line was run straight away over intervening mountains and rivers toward the northwest.

The Fairfax Stone.

Away off across a part of what is now West Virginia, there is a large rock known today as the Fairfax Stone. It is the monument which marks the southwest corner of Garret county, Md., the southeast corner of Preston county, W. Va., and prominent points in the boundaries in two other West Virginia counties. A line from Orange court house, coinciding with the Shenandoah and Rockingham county line, passes through this Fairfax Stone, which gives the name to a nearby station, Fairfax, on the Western Maryland Railroad. It has been assumed that, in running this line, a high peak northwest of Orange court house was the starting point, and that from here it was possible to see a distant peak in the North mountain range over the top of the intervening Massanutten mountain.

Washington, of course, used a simple compass, and his line could no be expected to check absolutely with that obtained by the government surveyors who have retraced his survey, using high-power transits and all the refined and accurate methods which modern instruments allow. Nevertheless, the line was run so carefully in the first place that but little variation has been found in it. Even without instruments it is possible to distinguish the course of the line with surprising distinctness. From the top of Middle Mountain in the Massanutten range, the Shenandoah-Rockingham or Fairfax line, can be readily followed by means of the boundary fences dating from earliest days, and by the blocks of timber, alternately cleared away or left standing, which come up from either county and stop at the line, like squares in a checkerboard. Then if one turns to the southeast the same demarkations are plain across the valley of the south form of the Shenandoah, cutting straight through the present Page county, which is made of land formerly in Shenandoah county, belonging to the Fairfax grant, and partly from land formerly in Rockingham. Thus, as far as the eye can see in either direction, this old line shows plainly.

The Washington compass, now to be seen at the United States National Museum in the city named for its owner, is presumed to be the same one used in running this line more than 160 years ago.

Washington's Survey Marks.

The Fairfax stone stands as a permanent monument. In addition, there are, throughout that section of the country, various other records of these Washington surveys. For example, a large white oak which stands at the corner of a farm about 1 1-2 miles from Lost City, Hardy county, W. Va., was, according to a persistent story of that section of the country, marked by Washington.

Survey blazes cut into trees, and since grown over, have been cut away, and a count of the annual layers of growth over the old wounds shows them to have been made at the time Washington was surveying. One strange thing about these blazes is that they are several feet higher than those put on trees by woodsmen of today. This fact has given rise to a sort of superstition that Washington, known to have been very tall, was actually a giant. Other authorities have said that Washington did much of his work on horseback, and made his blazes with a long-handled axe from the saddle.

The town of Whitepost, Clarke county, Va., takes its name from a post presumed to have been set by Washington as one of his survey marks. The post, formerly exposed, is now covered by a protecting case which shelters it from the weather, and from despoiling hand of the vandal tourist.

Why the Line is Retraced.

The reason that this old Washington survey line is being retraced is because the Federal government is purchasing lands in this neighborhood, in connection with the new Appalachian forests, which are being acquired at the headwaters of navigable streams, under the terms of the Weeks law, designed to protect these watersheds from the evils of deforestation. The government requires a clear title before the land can be paid for. In making sure of the titles it is necessary, in many cases, to go back to original royal grants, or to colonial records, and to have recourse to re-surveys before the facts of ownership can be indisputably established.

CONSERVATION OF BIRD LIFE FOR NEW HANOVER COUNTY

For the City and County School Audubon Societies.

By JOHN J. BLAIR,
Superintendent of City Schools.

The bird life in New Hanover county is as varied and interesting as her plant life. The latter, however, is better and more widely known because of the attention which has been given to it by local students of botany, who have given the subject much thought and study, and given to the public through the medium of the press, bulletins and publications the benefit of their investigations.

The great variety and rare beauty of the flowers in this locality has been explained from the fact that here the flora of both the Northern and Southern latitudes meet, so that many flowers peculiar to both zones are found in this neighborhood.

The same theory will apply as well to the bird and insect life. Occasionally birds peculiar to the tropics are found here, and frequently the birds which migrate from Northern United States and Canada pass their Winters in the warm pine thickets and sunny fields of this locality. Many rare warblers, which the average observer will not see, visit this section every Winter. The beautiful purple finches, pine grossbeaks, vivios, Maryland yellowthroats, and ruby-crowned kinglets are found in considerable numbers between November and March.

No opportunity should be lost in giving the children information which will lead to their appreciation of the beauty and utility of their bird neighbors. The Audubon societies which have been formed in the different schools of the city and county, have proven most helpful in promoting interest in matters pertaining to bird life.

To aid the student, who is beginning the study of ornithology, the following points are cited:

1. The date of the birds' arrival in the Spring, and whether in large flocks or singly. 2. Where found most abundantly. 3. Upon what do they feed. 4. Learn to recognize their song, note, or call at different seasons. 5. When and where do they make their nests, and with what material are they made. 6. Upon what do the young birds feed, and how long do they remain in their nests.

As to migration of birds, it seems almost beyond belief that tiny birds can start from their homes and travel several thousand miles across water and land to Florida, Central America and North and South America, and after spending several months there, find their way back to the exact place from which they started.

Living birds are pretty to look at, and the more one becomes acquainted with them the more interested he becomes in watching them and studying their habits. The native birds constitute one of our Nation's most valuable assets, but their value to the State and Nation was not fully appreciated, except possibly from an aesthetic standpoint, until some of the species began to disappear, and in consequence destructive insects multiplied to such an extent that trees have been denuded of their foliage and crops destroyed.

A book has recently been published called, "Our Vanishing Wild Life," which shows it to be an undisputed fact that many of our birds are for different reasons becoming more scarce every year, a few being now on the verge of extinction, and some have disappeared altogether. A standing offer has been made of a thousand dollars for the discovery of a pair of wild pigeons. There is said to be now only one living bird of this species, and this one in a museum in Cincinnati. There are people living who remember when the wild pigeons darkened the sky in their flight. Audubon himself gives a dramatic description of his visit to a pigeon colony in a Kentucky forest.

The principal destructive agencies should be known to the student, and friend of the bird. A few of them may be enumerated as follows:

The elements; such as continued periods of extreme cold weather, sleet and heavy rains during the nesting season.

Second. Man is also frequently responsible for the diminution in number, including wanton destruction and destruction for commercial purposes.

Third. Accident; such as flying into objects at night during migration. Telephone or telegraph wires wound or kill thousands of them, while light houses and steeples often cause the ground to be strewn with their dead bodies.

Fourth. Cats and other animals. It has been estimated that about fifty birds have been killed per cat population. All homeless cats, therefore, should be gotten out of the way and pets guarded carefully during the nesting season until all young birds are able to fly.

Fifth. English sparrows unquestionably drive the song birds away, so that no opportunity should be spared to destroy these pests.

Economic Ornithology

The division of Economic Ornithology of the Department of Agriculture may be regarded as having three distinct functions:

1. To determine accurately the food material of different birds.
2. To investigate complaints concerning supposed depredations of birds on crops.
3. To give publicity to the work, and educate the public as to the value and relation of bird life to human life.

The record which this Department has made is one in which every citizen should take an honest pride. In the issuing of bulletins and giving the public all kinds of information, the work of the United States Government in the interest of birds has been advanced with astonishing rapidity within the last five years. A wholesome public sentiment in favor of bird protection has developed with it.

Game Laws

Some of the principles upon which all game laws are based are so simple that school boys can readily understand them, and should be familiar with them, such as the following:

1. All wild birds are the property of the State, hence,
2. Killing birds is a privilege and not a right.
3. State ownership carries with it the right to impose certain restrictions, hence.
4. Birds may be caught, killed, shipped, bought and sold only as the State prescribes.
5. Land owners have no more rights than anyone else to kill birds out of season.

The game laws of this country are framed and maintained for the good of all the people, and not for a certain class, and their enforcement and observance depends largely upon an understanding and appreciation of these principles upon which they are based.

Much interest has been manifested throughout the country in the recent acts of Congress relative to the protection of birds by the National Government. By an act of Congress approved March 4, 1913, an appropriation was made to the Department of Agriculture for the purpose of framing and enforcing certain laws in accordance with plans devised by this Department.

The first paragraph of the act places migratory birds within the custody and under the protection of the Government of the United States.

In the next clause, certain zones are established with reference to temperature, breeding, habits, and times and line of migratory flight so that the Department is enabled to select and designate suitable zones and districts to which the different provisions of the act apply.

Third—Provision is made for the enforcement of the law and a punishment for its violation. The punishment being that a person violating any of the provisions of the act shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and fined not more than one hundred dollars and imprisoned not more than ninety days, or both at the discretion of the court.

After the Department of Agriculture had prepared these regulations and allowed a period of three months to elapse in which they were examined and considered, they were submitted to the President of the United States for approval. Nothing was contained in these regulations which affected or interfered with local laws of States and territories for the protection of non-migratory game or resident birds.

The next step was the resolution of the President of the United States, which was worded as follows:

Whereas, the Department of Agriculture has adopted the regulations here-in-after set forth and after final adoption thereof has caused the same to be engrossed and submitted to the President of the United States for approval; Now, Therefore, I, Woodrow Wilson, President of the United States of America, by authority in me vested do hereby proclaim and make known the following regulations for carrying into effect the foregoing provisions of said act.

Regulation I Definitions

For the purpose of these regulations the following shall be considered Migratory Game birds:

(a) Waterfowl, including brant, wild ducks, geese, and swans.

(b) Cranes, including little brown, sandhill, and whooping cranes.

(c) Rails, including coots, gallinules, and sora and other rails.

(e) Pigeons, including doves and wild pigeons.

For the purpose of these regulations the following shall be considered Migratory Insectivorous birds:

(f) Bobolinks, catbirds, chickadees, cuckoos, flickers, flycatchers, grossbeaks, humming birds, kinglets, martins, meadowlarks, nighthawks or bull bats, nuthatches, orioles, robins, shrikes, swallows, swifts, tanagers, titmice, thrushes, virees, warblers, waxwings, whippoorwills, woodpeckers, and wrens, and all other perching birds which feed entirely or chiefly on insects.

Regulation 2. Closed Season At Night

A daily closed season on all Migratory Game and Insectivorous birds shall extend from sunset to sunrise.

Regulation 3. Closed Season on Insectivorous Birds.

A closed season on migratory insectivorous birds shall continue to December 31st, 1913, and each year thereafter shall begin January 1st and continue to December 31st, both dates inclusive.

Regulation 4. Five-year Closed Season on Certain Game Birds.

A closed season shall continue until September 1st, 1918, on the following migratory game birds: Band-tailed pigeons, little brown, sandhill and whooping cranes, swans, curlew and all shore birds except the black-breasted and golden plover, Wilson or jack snipe, woodcock and the greater and lesser yellowlegs.

Regulation 5. Closed Season on Certain Navigable Rivers.

(None of the provisions of this clause relate to North Carolina.)

Regulation 6. Zones.

The following zones for the protection of migratory game and insectivorous birds are hereby established:

Zone No. 1. The breeding zone comprising States lying wholly or part north of latitude 40 degrees—25 States.

Zone No. 2. The Wintering zone comprising States lying wholly or in part south of latitude 40 degrees—23 States.

Regulation 8. Regulation eight has reference to the local State laws in Zone No. 1, so that nothing in this pertains to North Carolina.)

Regulation 9. Closed Seasons in Zone No. 2.

Closed seasons in Zone No. 2 should be as follows:

Waterfowl—The closed season on waterfowl will be between January 16th and October 1st. next, following, except as follows: North Carolina shall be between February 1st and November 1st.

(Other exceptions for different States are designated.)

Rails—The closed season on rails and coots shall be between December 1st and September 1st. (A few exceptions as to a few States, North Carolina not included.)

Woodcock—The closed season on woodcock will be between January 1st and November 1st.(Exceptions in the case of four States, North Carolina not included.)

Shore Birds—The closed season on black-breasted and golden plover, Jack snipe or Wilson snipe, shall be between December 16th and September 1st. Next following. (Exceptions designated as to 11 States, North Carolina not included.)

Regulation 10. Hearings.

Persons recommending changes should be prepared to show the necessity for such action, and submit evidence other than that based on reasons of personal convenience or a desire to kill game during a longer open season.

In Witness Hereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the City of Washington, this first day of October, in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and thirteen, and of the Independence of the United States the one hundred and thirty-eighth.

(Seal)

WOODROW WILSON.

W. J. BRYAN,
Secretary of State.

New Tariff Not Hurting Business.

"I have just finished interviewing dozens of manufacturers to find out what effect the new tariff is likely to have upon industry," says Arno Dosch in the December World's Work. "This is a report of what I learned. Of course, such a report cannot be taken as more than an indication of the temper of the time, but its significance lies in the practical unanimity of optimism that was revealed in the most important branches of manufacturing.

'I found that there is no indication of even a temporary depression in business. No mills have been forced to close on account of it; on the other hand, some mills that have been operating on half time have advanced to full time. There seems to be so little likelihood of a slump that the coming year, which 95 per cent. of the members of the National Association of Manufacturers pessimistically looked forward to as 'the worst year in the history of American industry,' is now expected to be normal. It will not surprise some manufacturers with whom I talked if it proves to be a 'banner' year.

"The most striking instance of an occurred in the glass industry. The glass men had told the Congressional Committee flatly that a reduction of 50 per cent. in the tariff on glass would ruin them. They said they could see no way to avoid bankruptcy except by taking the reduction out of the wages of their employes. But as Summer came on they found themselves surprisingly busy. In July the hand factories sold 40 per cent. more glass than in the preceding July. By September there was almost a glass famine, and, just as the new tariff went into effect in the early days of October, employes in the glass factories began talking about higher wages for next year."

The Turner's Falls Power Company is planning to build a 50,000 h. p. hydro-electric station at Montague City, Mass., within the next few years. The initial development will total 30,000 h. p. and is to be completed early in 1915. The plant will cover half an acre of ground and will utilize water from a canal 1.5 miles in length, requiring the excavation of 500,000 cu. yd. of material, of which 100,000 cu. yd. will be rock excavation from a ledge 30 ft. to 50 ft. deep. William B. Durant is in charge of the engineering for the Turner's Falls company.

An Indiana city has recently utilized a special street lighting system that has been installed for oranamental illumination to assist the police in case of an alarm after the lights have been turned off at night. A controlling switch in the office of the chief of police enables the lights to be flashed on while officers are scouring the streets.

At a recent international convention of the Brotherhood of Electrical Workers at Boston, Mass., a resolution for devising means to establish a home for disabled members was approved, and committee from several sections of the country were named to work out recommendations to be submitted to the general convention.

The Mind Expands As Health Returns

Quick Improvement Is Noticeable When Proper Aid to Nutrition Is Given.

A low state of the general health is now the accepted cause of backwardness in children. So in the case of a backward child it is best to look towards building up its health. It will usually be found that the main trouble is in the food, in lack of assimilation. Hence care should be taken in the kind of food given to the child. This, with plenty of air and exercise, should bring about a change for the better.

Watch the condition of the bowels, to note whether the waste is being passed off or not, or whether it is being passed too freely. If either condition prevails give a small dose of that gentlest of all laxative tonics. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Thousands of mothers will testify to the wonders it has wrought in the lives of their own children, and for that reason legions of families like those of Mrs. Daisy McBroom, Hillsboro, Ind., are never without it in the house. She is the mother of Lucile and has been using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin for Lucile since she was two. Mrs. McBroom says it saved Lucile's life. It is the standard family medicine in the McBroom home.

It is pleasant to the taste and so perfectly safe that it is given to infants, and yet is equally effective for grown people. All druggists sell it and the price is only fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, the latter for families who need it regularly.

LUCILE M'BROOM.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has no equal as a cure for constipation, indigestion, biliousness, headache, sour stomach, gas on the stomach, liver trouble and kindred complaints. It has so many advantages that those who once use it forever after discard cathartics, salts, pills and other coarse remedies, for they are seldom advisable and should never be given to children.

Families wishing to try a free sample bottle can obtain it postpaid by addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 419 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. A postal card with your name and address on it will do.

SUPPRESSION OF NEWS BY NEWSPAPERS.

(Baltimore Sun.)

The obsession of Boston jouranlism is now, as it ever has been, the suppression of news. It was a venial instance of this when the Transcript held back the news of its editor's untimely death; would it and the other newspapers had kept back nothing less pardonable! How many things in the Morgan and Mellen exploitation of their two railroads are now coming to light perforce, which must have been known at the time in the offices of newspapers controlled by brokers! The lesson ought to be learned by this time—yet I fear it will not be—that the first duty of an editor is to the public, not to A., B. or C. But Boston will be the last city to learn and practice it.—From a Boston Letter in the Springfield Republican.

That suppression of the news is the worst crime a newspaper can commit is a doctrine long held and preached by The Sun. But the writer of the above paragraph, in his reference to the Morgan and Mellen exploitation of New England's railroads, touches a subject in connection with which it is most difficult for a newspaper to determine what is and what is not suppression. That famous question of Pilate's is always a poser, but in connection with high finance it is doubly so.

The trouble arises in the difficulty of obtaining exact knowledge concerning the financial affairs of a railroad. When Brandeis uncovered the deplorable facts connected with the mismanagement of the New Haven road the newspapers did not hesitate to publish them. When the Inter-State Commerce Commission's investigation brought out the similarly deplorable facts connected with the St. Louis & San Francisco's receivership, the newspapers printed them in full. But the newspapers cannot of their own motion call witnesses to the stand and make them testify under oath. While they may suspect mismanagement or even plundering, they cannot know. And in the absence of knowledge they have to be very careful what they print.

It is not alone the fear of a libel suit that deters them. It is the fear of doing grievous injury to hundreds or thousands of innocent people. With regard to many subjects an unwarranted publication might injure, at the most one or two or three people, but where a run on a bank is involved, or a drop in the value of railroad stock, hasty or unjustifiable publication might cause financial loss to thousands, might injure the prosperity of a whole community or section. Hence the propriety of the utmost caution.

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch, we are quite sure, would have been very ready to print the facts about the St. Louis & San Francisco road if it had ever had them, undisputed, in its possession.

CHARACTER SHOWN BY NOSE.

Key to Ancestry and Tastes Found in Its Shape and Tilt.

(By Edith B. Lowry, in Woman's World.)

It is an ancient belief that the nose indicates ancestry. We speak about the aristocratic nose with its high bridge and the plebeian nose of the toiler. Certainly, in a great many cases, race can be distinguished by the nose. The Hebrew could hardly be confused with the typical negro nose. The highly arched nose is supposed to indicate tendency to rule and the flattened nose shows servility.

There are several classes of noses, if we are to take the word of physiognomists. The Roman nose indicates executive ability. its owner is the aggressive person, the conqueror. Portraits show that the ancient warriors had this type of nose. The Romans were trained especially for deeds of valor. The modern owner of such a nose will achieve success, be a leader, perhops not in a battle for blood, but in a battle for supremacy and success in business or professional life. The woman with this nose may obtain social leadership if she chooses that rather than some other line of achievement.

The Grecian nose indicates refinement. In that ancient country refinement, artistic tastes, and great love of the beautiful were valued rather than valor in war. The owner of such a nose is art loving and is successful in pursuit of things only when they are agreeable to her tastes.

In opposition to this type of nose we find the snub nose, which shows undevelopment, crudeness. It is the nose of the child rather than of the developed man. When it is seen in adults, we find the childlike mind accompanying it. The owner does not achieve great success, but is content to keep on in his humble way. From this class come the manual workers who lay the foundation of the wealth of the world. Their work is necessary, but they cannot direct others. They follow where they are led or driven. "Theirs not to reason why, theirs but to do and die."

HYSLOP SAYS SPIRITS CURE.

Thinks "Discarnate Souls" Can Do Much When Body is Diseased.

(New York Tribune.)

Dr. James H. Hyslop, writing on "Spiritual Healing" in the November issue of the Journal of the American Society for Psychical Research, takes the broad ground that the use of the word "suggestion" as a therapeutic agent is merely a confession of ignorance, and that moral perversions, as well as mental cures, are at times associated with the intervention of spirits. This intervention, he says, is sometimes malicious and sometimes benevolent, but science, hopelessly bound to materialistic conceptions, is unwilling to recognize the nature of the forces at work. This unwillingness, he says, science has translated into a term which, while intended as an explanation of psychic phenomena has only deepened the mystery surrounding it and given scientists an opportunity to elude the labors of thorough and impartial investigations.

The word "suggestion," in short, he says, has been twisted from a mere description of "a situation in certain cures which defied understanding in the ordinary way" into a cause of the cures themselves. It has increased ignorance by magnifying the appearance of knowledge.

Dr. Hyslop goes on to assert that the action of discarnate spirits on the body is no harder to believe than the assumption of medical men that the organic functions of the organism are affected by mental activity. He cites various instances of the supposed interventions of spirits; in one of these saying he cured his daughter of St. Vitus' dance by holding "her hand and forehead each evening, using mental suggestions only and a prayer for the help of a special personality."

SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE

Dr. Houston Called Best Man Who Ever Held Place

(From the Boston Herald,)

In common with most of the newspapers, the Herald has had occasion to criticise Mr. Bryan's conduct of the State Department and occasionally that of other members of the Cabinet. It is with peculiar pleasure, therefore, that we can say of David F. Houston, the present Secretary of Agriculture, that he is, in the opinion of those who know the best man ever assigned to that place since it became a Cabinet office. The executive committeemen of the Association of College and Experiment Stations, having the welfare of scientific agriculture at heart, recently had occasion to confer with the new Secretary and on their return to the hotel, in the words of one of them, "we pinched ourselves to see if we were walking on earth," so queer was the sensation of dealing with a Secretary of Agriculture who had a definite and intelligent policy, whose aims were scientific and whose grasp of the situation was comprehensive.

Secretary Houston is establishing many great reforms. He has decided to have the department attempt nothing which the experiment stations and other State agencies can do to better advantage. This will cut out an enormous duplication of effort. The so-called "extension work," like the teaching of farmers by practical demonstrations, will be turned over to those agencies, local and commercial which are ready to do it on the ground. The new Secretary has no desire to cover the earth, regardless of what other agencies are doing, merely for the sake of inflating the payroll or of aggrandizing the Federal department.

Dr. Houston has also rorganized the publishing system of the department, establishing a national journal of agricultural science, which will be made the vehicle of acquainting the world with the discoveries of his experimenters. He has called to its editoral service some of the ablest experts in the country. He is cutting out certain sensational endeavors, originally designed for popularizing the department, but having no place in a Government-maintained institution.

The right man is in the right place. Dr. Houston's training has been most admirable. At the head of agricultural experiment stations, his meritorious work led to his selection for the presidency of Washington University at St. Louis, of which Winfield S. Chaplin, formerly of Harvard was at an earlier period the head. And from that post Dr. Houston was last spring transferred to Washington. The department is a great scientific workshop—tne largest in the world. It needed just such a man and the President is to be given credit of finding him. And, incidentially, Houston saved us from Obadiah Gardner.

CINDERS

"I've got a cinder in my eye!" How frequently we hear this expression in the street, especially when the air is filled with dust and smoke, or anywhere beneath the network of elevated tracks. While this may seem a trivial mishap, and often is if the foreign substance is immediately removed from the eye, yet it is often a most serious thing, and the public at large little realizes that a seemingly unimportant accident of this sort may result in serious and permanent impairment of vision. The membrane covering the eyeball is a very delicate structure, and when even a tiny speck of any foreign matter lodges on it it quickly becomes impedded. The irritation thus set up causes the person to wink the eye frequently and each time the lid closes, rubbing against the particle, it tends to imbed it still farther into the membrane. The efforts of sympathizing friends to remove the offending speck with a handkerchief or a wooden toothpick, instead of helping the situation, usually results in making a bad matter worse, from the damage thus done to the tissue. Infection is then easily carried deeper into the tissue, and an ulcer results. If the process reaches this stage, even if the cause should be completely removed, it would perhaps be too late to prevent a scar after the ulcer heals. It might be so faint as to be hardly distinguishable, yet if it is situated just in front of the pupil, as very frequently happens, the vision of that eye would be seriously and perhaps permanently impaired.

The public should understand the seriousness of such occurrences, and public spirit should be aroused to the point of insisting on municipal regulation, eliminating smoke and dust as far as possible from city streets. Having the streets washed every night, as is done in many of the European cities, instead of having them swept during the day, and prohibiting the burning of soft coal within the city limits, would go a long way toward remedying this evil.

NEW FAD FOR LOVELORN.

Think of Sweetheart, Write Name on Arm, and See What Happens.

(Carlisle, Pa., Dispatch to New York Herald.)

Are you dermagraphical? Indeed! How interesting! It is of no particular value; still it does no harm, and since it is in vogue one might as well be "in." It seems as if every one one meets nowadays is experimenting to discover if the power is present. Strange about Mabel Kirk, who lives just outside of town.

Miss Kirk makes her home in Cumberland county, but she loves a lad in San Francisco. The other day she was seated on the veranda of her home with her mind in California. His name is Charley. Well, as she thought of Charley she unconsciously traced his name with a pencil on her forearm. Within a few minutes she, being a novice at dermagraphy, was amazed to see the name raised nearly a quarter of an inch, deep red with a white border. She was alarmed and called on the telephone to her physician. When he arrived the name had disappeared. In exchange for his fee he told Miss Kirk what the ailment was.

And now everybody's doing it. Thousands of persons are said to go through life unconscious of their ability to practice the art of dermagraphy, which is produced in some persons by irritating the outer surface of the skin while concentrating the mind. The thousands who go through life without knowing about it certainly do not live in Carlisle, for all here are looking into the distance and writing all over their arms. It works best with the lovelorn.

Some of the old boys who pass a quiet night at home with their minds on the club and a highball have quit tampering with pencils. One cartoon and they would be lost.

The largest electrical hatching plant in the world is owned and operated by Frott Bros., Plymouth, England. They have ninely-four incubators, each of about 500-egg capacity, and the average output is about 8000 chicks a week. The hatching is all done by electricity.

WOMEN WHO'VE NO RIGHT TO BE MOTHERS.

Mother love is the finest treasure life offers. But not all mothers possess it. Some are selfish, vain, cruel.

"There, my day is spoiled," a young mother exclaimed one morning ,when baby began to cry. And instead of cuddling the weary little one and crooning to it the soft songs which fall upon baby nerves like a benediction, this selfsn mother began to fret and to scold and to work up a temper.

She actualiy believed, this foolish mother did, that baby cried just for spite.

It was this same mother who, a short time before, wishing to enjoy a vacation with sailing and dancing, turned baby over to hired nurse and went away to the shore for a fortnight as indifferent to her duty as if baby had never been born.

There are mothers like that. Fortunately few, but enough to warrant preachment on the rights of childhood.

Do you realize as you should that it is not merely the privilege, but the right of a child to be petted and loved? That the man or woman responsible for bringing a little life into the world commits treason to the race if shirking its tenderest care?

By petting we don't mean spoiling. Children can, of course, be spoiled; and the spoiled child is an even sadder sight than the neglected or abused child. For spoiling is rarely undone, while neglect and abuse sometimes are overcome by the kindness of others.

If the good Lord has sent into your home and arms the infinite blessing of a dear little babe, don't be so silly as to imagine that the care of it is a curse. Where would you be if mother love hadn't tenderly smoothed the trials of your infancy and made you the altar of worship and sacrifice?

Providing food and shelter and clothing isn't by any means the fulfillment of parental obligation. They are necessary, of course, but they're not the things most important. The important, the supreme thing is to give unstintedly, ungrudgingly, in complete surrender, yourself.

Unless you are ready and eager to put your heart and soul into the nurture of the little life, to bring a baby into the world is to be guilty of the crime of crimes.—Exchange.

A NEW CURE FOR DRINK.

Fruit As a Substitute for Liquor, Suggested by ex-Saloon Keeper.

In the December American Magazine Henry Detmers writes a little article, entitled "A New Cure for Drink." Mr. Detmers says that he has been in the saloon business for twenty years. He is not a drinker himself and none of his sons drink. Out of his experience he recommends the following cure for the liquor habit:

"I found early in my experience that as a general rule—there are exceptions, of course—a regular consumer of fruit was not a very good customer in my business. On the other hand, a typical 'booze fighter' seldom touches fruit. I always kept some apples behind the bar for my own use, and I often experimentally offered one to a 'star customer' who almost invariably refused. The more I looked into this matter, the more firmly I became convinced that these two habits clash. Not caring to have my boys acquire the one I inoculated them with the other, and I have found that the fruit habit early acquired acts as a perfect antidote to the liquor habit.

"I mention apples especially because they are something like bread, one never tires of them, which is more than can be said of peaches, pears and oranges. And apples, thanks to cold storage, can be had every day of the school year.

"Why shouldn't the apple habit be cultivated in the public schools at public expense? School trustees could advertise for bids to supply the school. Then by means of a push-the-button contrivance placed at the boys' and girls' exits each child could get his apple as he marched out to play at recess time. Two apples a day would do the work. Children have a veritable craving for fruit. I have often heard our victims beg another for the 'core.' And if it happens that I have merely imagined that the fruit habit offsets the drink habit, I know that two apples a day will have a valued influence on the health, good temper, and morals of any child.

"Please understand I have no axe to grind, I do not own a single apple tree.

"I have never claimed to have discovered that fruit juices act as a liquor antidote, although I have talked it for 25 years.

"Some three years ago an article appeared which claimed a Nebraska physician as the discoverer of the theory. The good doctor and I will never quarrel over it. He can have the glory. I do not need it. I am only too glad to see that my views have gained some scientific backing.

"If you remove the desire for drink, the liquor question will solve itself, and while poverty may not be banished the general welfare of the people will be much improved; and even if my scheme is never adopted I will feel a thousand times repaid for my pains if I can only convince the mothers of our country, those who have the means to do so, that to implant the fruit habit in their children is the best assurance for a temperate life."

In one day seven reports of fires were received by the State Insurance Commission from a city that has been badly afflicted with fires. The causes given were: defective flue 1; children and matches 1; incendiary 1; lamp explosion 1; unknown 3. Not a very good showing.

STOP CATARRH!

Unless Properly Treated With Hyomei This Disease May Become Serious.

If you have catarrh, usually indicated by sniffling, stopped up head, droppings in throat, watery eyes, and morning choking, there is an irritated state of the mucous membrane which affords an ideal condition for the growth of disease germs.

Do not allow the dangerous germs which may be breathed into the nose, throat and lungs to begin the destruction of your health.

The easiest, simplest, quickest, surest and cheapest way to check catarrh is by breathing Hyomei—all druggists sell it. This wonderful medicated air treatment does not upset the stomach, but is breathed in through the Hyomei inhaler, directly following and surely destroying all disease germs that may have been inhaled—the tissues of the throat, nose and lungs are quickly healed and vitalized.

The unusual way in which Hyomei is sold by Robt. R. Bellamy dispels all doubts as to its curative properties. Money refunded to anyone whom Hyomei fails to benefit. A complete outfit, including inhaler and bottle of liquid, costs but $1.00.

THE huge Palace of Machinery at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition, and the sightseer in San Francisco is hardly able to keep track of the progress. A world's record is being made in exposition building. Simultaneous construction is under way throughout the three mile crescent on San Francisco bay. All main exhibit palaces are under construction, and each is built under contract under a definite time limit, with a bonus for its completion under the date set. All exhibit palaces will be completed months before the opening of the Exposition, on Feb. 20, 1915. This picture shows huge Machinery Palace, the largest wooden building in the world, 968 feet long and 368 feet wide. More than 7,500,000 feet of lumber were used in the construction of the building. Three huge ocean liners the size of the Imperator could be placed within its giant naves.

WORTH WHILE.

(By T. W. Chambliss.)

In lifting another you raise yourself.

Modern religion proposes to get more heaven into men as more men into heaven.

Conduct is character in action. A man does as he is. Conduct reveals character and therefore calls for care.

The only sure way to keep an evil deed from being known is to keep it from being committed. It is better to fail doing right than to succeed doing wrong.

Many a man spends his youth sowing wild oats and then spends his after life in a strenuous effort to avoid reaping them.

Success in life is not measured by material prosperity. Some men who have laid up little wealth are of more real value to a community than some of the millionaires.

If you cannot get the kind of work you like, the next best thing is to do what you have to do.

A man educated in mind and not in morals is a constant menace to society. True education trains the moral nature as well as the mental powers.

Life is not a little thing, but it is made up of little things. "Smiles and kindnesses and small obligations given habitually are what win and preserve the heart and secure comfort."

James Russell Lowell once wrote: "No man is born into the world whose task is not born with him." There is always the task, there are always the tools; too many men fail to notice the presence of the task.

No man is expected to accomplish the impossible—a dog cannot pull as much as the horse but he can pull his best. Unable to do what another may be able to do, strive to meet your own ability.

Character both here and in eternity is determined by the use each day of the ability and opportunity. Unusual physical power results in paralysis and so with mental and spiritual power. It is the things left undone in life which makes failures rather than the mistakes in things attempted.

Commodore Dewey was at a dinner in Washington shortly before leaving to take command of the Asiatic squadron in the early part of the year 1898. To a fellow officer the commander remarked: "My chance has come. You will remember what Farragut did to get his chance until he was over 60 but he took it." The entire world knows how Dewey met his opportunity.

Life is to be planted—sown and not hoarded. To get the expected result each life is to be distributed—utilized. It is to be made productive. Man is not to keep his life entirely to himself, carefully wrapped in a napkin; but each life is to be so lived that it will produce results. The opportunity which comes today will never come again. It is true that another may come; but this one—it is here now—use it.

A splendid test of character is "the emergency." Watch a man in a "new situation," and his action will show his stamina. So many are never ready for the "new situation"—the emergency of life. Some people never see coming events. They seem to imagine that the future is to be just like the past. Tomorrow will be different from today and while the experience of today fits us somewhat for tomorrow there must be that readiness for the emergency. Intelligent preparation and careful thorough equipment is wisdom.

Many a man is willing to pay his wife's bills who never thinks to send her a bunch of violets. Hearts need occasional reminders of sympathetic thought. The girl of love although of small financial value is touchingly remembered. Some people allow their selfishness to completely obscure acts of loving sentiment. Others are simply thoughtless and yet thoughtlessness is after all selfishness for a self-centered life is a thoughtless life.

Thoughtless so far as others are concerned. The tribute of love is never wasted. There are some things in this life worth far more than dollars.

Our sense of "commission" are numerous enough, but who can reckon these of "omission," especially of our neighbors. Everyone of us can tell a thousand things that somebody else is not doing which we think he ought to do. It is a cheap way of making an estimate of our neighbor.

Generally in such cases the man has passed the point of hiding things. If he has really reached the point where he does not care for his misconduct being known he is certainly a long ways down hill.

FASHIONS FOR DOGS.

Necklaces, Knitted Jackets and Patent Leather Shoes Worn.

Fashions for dogs are quite as important as those for human being in the opinion of many fond owners of the animals, who are quite as anxious that the costumes of their pets shall be of the very latest style as that their own outfits shall be above reproach. The very newest and most striking sartorial effect for dogs includes a knitted jacket, a gold necklet and a pair of patent leather shoes.

Ordinary sweaters have long been fashionable for dogs, and some of the small beasts, which suffer very much from the cold, were seen during the last Winter with two coverings while out on promenade. The underwrap was a tight-fitting sweater, which extended to quite a distance over the animal's legs. Over this garment was worn the usual blanket coat, which was formerly considered quite sufficient as a wrap.

The fashionable small dog has always its monogrammed handkerchiefs, which are smartly tucked in the kocket of the coat or sweater. Boots to be worn when it is allowed to play in the streets or garden and taken off when it enters the house are also not infrequently a feature of its wardrobe. Motor goggles are considered necessary for some dogs, since they are so fond of the automobile and suffer as do human beings from wind and dust when their eyes are unprotected during a long and rapid run.

During the past summer the telephone company at Temple, Texas, placed a transmitter in the band stand at the city park and so arranged that its subscribers might listen to the evening concert given there by calling central and getting telephone connection.

HUGE groups of sculpture will reveal the plastic art in the very highest stage of its development at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition. The sculptors are here shown at work on colossal figures of negro servitors bearing baskets of fruit. The figures will be part of the group, "The Nations of the East," which will crown the triumphal Arch of the Rising Sun in the Court of the Sun and Stars. The "Nations of the East" will be of typically Oriental character. On the opposite side of the Court of the Sun and Stars the huge Arch of the Setting Sun, of similar proportions, will depict the spirit of the West. This illustration shows the sculptors enlarging models by A. Stirling Calder.

HOME "CHORES" SCHOOL AID.

Oregon Links Class Room and Household Duties.

(From New York Times.)

Out in Oregon a new idea for linking home and school is sprouting. In Spring Valley, Polk county, the work that a child does at home is credited on his standing at school. For doing certain things in connection with the household a boy or girl is allowed so many minutes on his or her work in school. When from all sources the pupil has earned 600 minutes he gets a holiday, provided that not more than one holiday may be granted to each pupil each month.

The contest is open to all the pupils and lasts for the entire term. At the close the three highest get prizes of $3 each and the next three $2 each. The money is furnished by the school district and is placed to the credit of the pupils in a savings bank.

In the recent contest in Spring Valley credits were won by the boy and girl leaders as follows:

Henry Davison—Milked cows, 20 minutes; curried horses, 10 minutes; hunted eggs, 10 minutes; fed chickens, 10 minutes; fed pigs 10 minutes; fed horses, 10 minutes; fed cows, 10 minutes; cut wood, 10 minutes; to bed before 9, 5 minutes, total 95 minutes.

Evangeline Jennings—Prepared supper, 30 minutes; washed and dried dishes, 15 minutes; gathered eggs 15 minutes; fed chickens, 5 minutes; put separator together, 10 minutes; turned separator, 10 minutes; made one bed, 5 minutes; cleaned my teeth, 10 minutes; retired before 9, 5 minutes; total 105 minutes.

Parents and pupils are enthusiastic over the plan, and there has been a marked gain in interest by the scholars. In a recent month this school stood 100 per cent. in a county spelling contest. It was the first school in the county to be standardized—that is, to meet the State definition of a good rural school.

The whole plan started from a desire of a teacher to change the mental attitude of one of his girls, who was spending much time on the streets, while her mother was overworking at home. One day he gave out as an algebra lesson his usual 10 problems. He announced, however, that only five would be in the book, the other five were in the case of the girls. Helping cook supper, helping to do up the kitchen work after supper, preparing breakfast, helping with the dishes and the kitchen work after breakfast, and putting a bed room in order. When he asked for "hands up" the next day on these five problems Mary reported that she had done that five and five in advance. From that moment her interest in school work doubled.

LONGEST ARROW FLIGHT

Englishman Breaks An Archery Record That Stood 119 Years

A memarable summer in sport has one more new champion to honor. A record that had stood since 1794 was broken when W. Ingo Simon, an Englishman, shot an arrow a distance of more than a quarter of a mile. The official measurement of the new mark was 459 yards. This achievement is pointed out as a result of the oldest and most scentific of sports Another achievement of modern archery, fully as remarkable as this feat of Mr. Simon's, was that of an American Henry B. Richardson, when he entered the "Ancient Scroton Arrow" contest in England a few years ago and made the highest tournament score that had been recorded in the Scroton's books in 234 years.

In the past 10 years the number of archers has steadily increased. A generation ago the sport had almost as many followers in America as golf, and some of the modern enthusiasts are confident that this popularity is returning. These lovers of archery say that no truer sentence ever was written than that penned by Maurice Thompson in 1879:

"So long as the new moon returns in Heaven a bent, beautiful bow, so long will the fascination of archery keep hold of the hearts of men."

"The bow," Thompson writes, "is the old first lyre, the monochord, the initial run of fine art, and is as inseparably connected with the history of culture as are the alphabets of the learned languages. The humanities grew from archery as a flower from a seed. No sooner did the soft, sweet note of the bowstring charm the ear than music was born, and from music came poetry and painting and sculpture."

NEW DRINK HITS TOWN

Man Springs "Sarah Bernhardt" On Waldorf Bartender.

(From New York Tribune.)

There is a new drink.

"A Sarah Bernhardt, please," said one of New York's best-known men as he entered the cafe of the Waldorf on his way from the Mauretania to his home on Fifth avenue.

"We don't sell theatre tickets here; this is the saloon," replied the bartender.

"Will you kindly let me have a bottle of absinthe, a bottle of benedictine and a bottle of anisette?" calmly asked the traveler.

While everyone looked on he slowly poured out some anisette and then some benedictine, nearly filling the pony glass. Next he dropped a bit of absinthe on top of it. The mixture separated cleanly. He drank the concoction, paid his check and was walking out when halted by the head bartender.

"What did you call that?" he was asked.

"Why, that's what they are all drinking in Paris now—a Sarah Bernhardt."

This year's mistakes furnish next year's wisdom.

IF WOMEN ONLY KNEW

What a Heap of Happiness it Would Bring to Wilmington Homes.

Hard to do housework with an aching back.

Brings you hours of misery at leisure or at work.

If women only knew the cause—that

Backache pains often come from weak kidneys.

'Twould save much needless woe.

Doan's Kidney Pills are for weak kidneys.

Read what a Wilmington citizen says:

Mrs. M. E. Bordeaux, 510 S. Second St., Wilmington, N. C., says: "I suffered from dull pains in the small of my back and some days I could hardly get about to do my housework. I had a kidney weakness that caused me great annoyance and I knew that a kidney medicine was needed. When I read about Doan's Kidney Pills, I at once got a supply at Bellamy's Drug Store and they restored me to good health. Another of my family has also taken Doan's Kidney Pills with benefit. I willingly verify my former endorsement of this remedy."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

THE WEEK'S NEWS REVIEWED IN BRIEF

Glimpses of the World at Large, Little News Stories of the Carolinas, and a Resume of Local Doings. Prepared for the Busy Man and the Week-End Reader.

Of General Interest

It is held by British officials that America has the right to fortify the Panama Canal.

Governor Blease, of South Carolina, pardoned and paroled 100 convicts Wednesday.

Postmaster General Burleson has recommended that the weight limit of parcels post packages be increased to 50 pounds.

Secretary Daniels is preparing to begin the manufacture of cotton clothing for the Navy in the Charleston, S. C., navy yard.

A league to oppose the adoption of Confucianism in China as the State religion was organized at Peking Thanksgiving Day.

Secretary Daniels Monday ordered 750 marines from Philadelphia to Pensacola, Fla. They were transferred later in the week.

Railroads east of the Mississippi are asking to be allowed to increase freight rates five per cent. because of increased cost of operation.

The long special session of Congress promises to merge into the regular Winter session Monday with scarcely a ripple of interest in Washington.

Lincoln Beachy, an American aviator who has visited points in North Carolina, looped the loop twice in succession in an aeroplane in California Tuesday.

Foreigners along the east coast of Mexico, the locality of the great oil fields, fearful of the rebels in that territory, appealed to Washington for protection.

Recently gathered government statistics show that the 1913 Thanksgiving dinner was the most expensive meal the average American has eaten during the past 25 years.

Attorney General McReynolds is giving attention to the allegation that a cold storage trust is partly responsible for the high cost of living. There is promise of a Congressional investigation.

The Mexican situation has changed but little during the past week so far as concerns the relations between this country and that. Several fierce battles have been fought between the Mexican rebels and the Huerta troops.

Fourteen thousand employees of the General Electric Company, of Schenectady, N. Y., walked out Tuesday as a "demonstration." They demand correction of what they consider a discrimination against two of their workmen.

James K. McGuire, former mayor of Syracuse, N. Y., and partner with his brother, George H. McGuire, in the business of bond State contractors, was indicted Monday on the charge of soliciting campaign contributions from a corporation.

Several thousand persons of many creeds and nationalities last Sunday welcomed to this country Gen. Bramwell Booth, head of the Salvation Army, in New York. He is a son of the late Gen. William Booth, founder of the organization.

Senator Owen stated in his opening debate on the currency bill in the Senate that under the present system the bank reserves of the country are concentrated largely in New York City, where they are loaned in speculative accounts on the stock exchange.

In a report submitted to General Garrison by Colonel Gethals, the latter says the date of the opening of the Panama canal will depend on the treacherous slides and that excavating is the only known treatment for them. Slides in the Culebra cut have greatly retarded progress.

Operations of every kind on the entire Southern Railway system were suspended for five minutes at 11 o'clock Friday out of respect to the memory of the late President Finley, whose funeral was held at that hour in Washington. All trains were brought to a standstill wherever they were.

The Democrats of the Senate Wednesday determined to make the currency bill a party measure at once, to have no Christmas recess before the time set for the holiday unless the bill is first passed, and to sit day and night until final action is secured—in order to bring the measure to an early vote and relieve the uncertainty in financial circles.

There was a scene of rare brilliancy in the White House Tuesday afternoon when Francis B. Sayre and Miss Jessie Woodrow Wilson, second daughter of the President, were joined in marriage before a company of distinguished officials of the United States government, members of the diplomatic corps, close friends and relatives. This is the thirteenth White House wedding.

Lieut. Eric L. Ellington, native of North Carolina, and Lieut. Hugh M. Kelly, U. S. A., were instantly killed at San Diego, Cal., Monday, when they fell from an altitude of 80 feet or more in a dual control biplane. Both were intrepid navigators of the air. Lieut. Ellington's body was brought to his home at Clayton, N. C., for burial. He was a son of the late Sheriff J. T. Ellington, of Johnston county, and a brother of John O. Ellington, of Fayetteville.

President T. M. Emerson, of the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad, and President W. W. Finley, of the Southern Railway, died Tuesday, between noon and midnight, Mr. Emerson at his home in Wilmington, following an attack of acute indigestion in Georgia Sunday night, and Mr. Finley at his home in Washington, D. C., his death being sudden. President Emerson had been brought home Tuesday morning from Georgia, where he was on an inspection tour with other officials of his company. He was buried here Thursday.

The new $40,000 opera house built by E. A. Lackey at Hamlet, with a seating capacity of 1,200, is nearing completion.

Jack Perry, of Kinston, a young lawyer, was killed Tuesday afternoon by the accidental discharge of his gun while out hunting.

At Wilson, Thanksgiving Day, the cornerstone of the hospital and tubercular home for colored people was laid with Masonic ceremonies.

Rev. J. K. Howell, who has been pastor of the Hamlet Baptist church for the past year, has resigned and accepted a call to Jackson, N. C.

Raleigh's issue of $125,000 of bonds for city improvements sold for $127,210. Each of 15 bidders offered to take the entire issue at a figure above par.

Fred J. Bowden and Will Crow were drowned in the Howie mine near Waxhaw, when they dropped from an elevator bucket into the water 90 feet below.

Judge Stephen C. Bragaw, of Washington, has sent to Governor Craig his resignation, effective December 31st, assigning failing health as his reason.

A total of 493,360 bales of cotton was ginned in North Carolina up to November 14th, as compared with 627,251 bales ginned up to the same date last year.

Safe blowers broke into the postoffice at Parkton early Monday morning, blew open the safe, secured between $500 and $1,000 in cash, stamps, etc., and made a good get-away.

Mr. George T. Brown, president of the Brown-Williamson Tobacco Co., the largest independent manufacturers of tobacco in Winston-Salem, died suddenly in that city Thursday.

Ben Ormond died from the effects of fourteen knife wounds received in an affray with Joshua Mills in a barber shop in Washington. Both men were white citizens of Beaufort county.

The peanut growers of Eastern North Carolina are getting fancy prices this year. They have sold as high as $1.40, while high water mark in previous years was about $1.25.

The Western North Carolina Methodist Conference has been in session in Charlotte since early in the week. The "North Carolina Conference" will be held at Oxford next week.

David S. Lippard has been elected superintendent of schools in Cabarrus county, to succeed Charles E. Boger, recently elected superintendent of the Stonewall Jackson Training School.

The Raleigh Baseball Association has elected Earle Mack to manage the team again next season. The association's financial record the past year proved satisfactory to the stockholders.

President A. C. Reynolds, in his annual address to the North Carolina Teachers' Assembly, in Raleigh on Thanksgiving night, made a plea for a professional body of teachers and told how to secure and retain such a body.

The resignation of Internal Revenue Collector Bailey, as custodian of the Federal building in Raleigh was mistaken as a resignation of the position as collector and a sort of "tempest in a teapot" was the result.

The various churches of Mount Airy celebrated last Sunday as "Everybody-at-Church" Day and, as a result of a complete personal canvass by committees named by the local ministerial association, every church was filled to overflowing at the morning services.

Newbern business men have employed M. R. Beaman, a freight rate expert, and will put up a fight for reductions in rates at least to the basis enjoyed by Wilmington. Mr. Beaman will also look after collecting overcharges from the railroads and express company.

Hallie Graves, a 14-year-old girl in the Odd Fellows Orphans' Home at Goldsboro, had her clothing burned from her body Wednesday while helping to cook dinner. She was hastened to a hospital and three physicians did all they could for her, but she died Thursday morning.

It was stated in Washington, D. C., that the death of Presidents Emerson and Finley will seriously retard the settlement of the North Carolina freight rate controversy, as it was through their efforts largely that the railroads and the State ever reached an agreement as to inter-State rates.

Running water and window screens in every country home in the State would be the greatest blessing possible to the 80 per cent rural population, was the opinion of Governor Craig, expressed in an address to the North Carolina Teachers' Assembly, at the opening session in Raleigh Wednesday night.

The Supreme Court handed down majority and dissenting opinions in the case of Donald McRacken vs. Bank of Columbus. The judgment of the lower court giving the plaintiff $150 for usury charged him on a $3,000 loan by the bank was affirmed. He was a director and a member of the committee on loans when he borrowed the money.

After a hearing in chambers at Whiteville, Judge Rountree dissolved an order issued by him to restrain the authorities at Burgaw from erecting a Confederate monument at the point selected by the Daughters of the Confederacy who had been instrumental in raising the funds for the monument. Burgaw was much wrought up for a few days.

The University of Virginia, playing true to form and tradition, defeated the University of North Carolina at Richmond, in their annual Thanksgiving football battle, by the score of 26 to 7. The North Carolina A. & M. team defeated Washington & Lee at Norfolk by the score of 6 to 0. Wake Forest was defeated by Davidson at Charlotte by the same score, 6 to 0.

Ten people were injured in three automobile wrecks on the High Point-Greensboro road last Sunday. One person was rendered unconscious, another had a collar bone broken, a third had an arm broken, and seven received cuts and bruises. The three automobiles were badly smashed. In each instance, it is said, the accident might have been avoided but for recklessness.

The special intra-State freight rate commission recently appointed by Governor Craig held its first meeting in Raleigh Tuesday, elected Judge M. H. Justice chairman, and decided to begin hearings on December 17th. In the meantime the officers of the Just Freight Rate Association and of the railroads that have protested against the proposed new rates are notified to prepare to present their claims. The Governor extends for 60 days the time when the proposed rates would become effective.

The five-year-old daughter of Dr. D. S. Currie, of Parkton, was assaulted by a young negro Monday afternoon. After an all-night search, Dave Monroe, a servant in Dr. Currie's home, was found hiding in a shuck pen. He was charged with the crime, placed in jail at Lumberton and thence taken Tuesday night to the penitentiary at Raleigh for safe keeping. Sheriff Lewis learned that a lynching movement was on foot. The negro was later brought to Hoke county, and taken before Judge Lyon who ordered that he be tried in Robeson.

AN ELOQUENT TRIBUTE TO THE SOUTHLAND.

The following is from an address of welcome, delivered by Rev. DeWitt C. Cobb, Past Supreme Prelate, to the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, at a convention held at Asbury Park, N. J.:

"Some of you come from the balmy Southland—land of song and sunshine, land of the pine and the palm, land of the canebreak and cotton fields, of vast forests festooned with nature's tapestry, land that was drenched in the red current of your devoted sons. What memories crowd upon us when we look upon you mothers and daughters of the Southland, who stood unmoved amid the battle smoke and flowing blood, amid the wreckage and desolation of home, the loss of friends and fortune, whose devotion never failed, whose courage never quailed, and whose faith rallied the faltering steps of your tired and wearied sons, and out of the hell of war you came, out of the cauldron of unspeakable horrors, out of the furnaces of fire, out of the inferno of human passions; in all the splendor of American mothers and wives, the spartan woman of the 19th century. O Southland, Southland, tender the memories when we think of thee, whose every mountain became a memorial shaft; whose every vale, a resting place and whose farspreading plains, a silent mausoleum of the dead whose requiem will be sung in the twilight of the coming years.

"Sons of the South stand up. What a long procession; see them pass along the highway of the Nation. Behold, women of the Southland, your sons, our sons, sons of America; our Jefferson and Jackson, our Clay and Calhoun, our Lincoln and Jefferson Davis, both of Kentucky, our Robert E. Lee and Stonewall Jackson, our Washington and Woodrow Wilson. You come with the blue of the sky in your eyes, the tint of the flowers upon your cheeks, the scent of the magnolia upon your garments, the murmur of the soft breeze in your voice and the song of the mocking bird in your heart."

The Week Locally

Mr. J. B. Mercer, a prominent Wilmington citizen, died Friday morning in Brunswick county.

A two-weeks term of New Hanover Superior court for the trial of civil cases convenes Monday.

The controversy as to the best means of securing an adequate supply of pure water for the city continues.

Miss Mary Hines, an aged lady, died at the James Walker Memorial Hospital Monday morning, following a long illness.

Mr. A. H. Hunt, a highly respected citizen, died at his home at Baymead, Sunday afternoon following an illness of two years.

Wilmington still has a chance to secure the light house depot for the Sixth district, which will be removed from Charleston, S. C., to a more favorable location.

The owners of Carolina Beach have purchased a large tract of land adjoining the present development. The new tract extends from the beach to the Cape Fear river.

Mr. S. H. Burtt, one of Wilmington's well known and highly respected citizens, died suddenly at his home in the Carolina Apartments Thursday night. The funeral was held Saturday.

Following a long period of ill health, Mr. James Jarrett died Friday morning at 7 o'clock at his home at Scott's Hill. The funeral was conducted from the residence Saturday afternoon.

The Philadelphia National baseball team will train at Wilmington next Spring. This city has complied with the requirements and has been notified that the Phillies have decided upon this place.

Mr. C. M. Pounds, a well known and highly esteemed citizen of Brunswick county, died at his home at Town Creek Friday morning after an illness of eight months. The funeral was conducted Saturday morning.

Charges of conduct unbecoming to an officer were preferred against Plainclothesman Leon George by Hoyt Kennedy at the meeting of the City Council Wednesday. A hearing will be given before action is taken by the Council.

The Red Cross Tuberculosis Sanitarium has been completed and turned over by the contractors to the building committee, of which Mrs. W. L. Parsley is chairman. The institution will be ready in a short time to receive patients.

A. P. Whitehead, administrator of the estate of his son, Ivan Whitehead, has instituted suit against the Clyde Steamship Company for damages for the death of the young man, who lost his life a few months ago while working on a dredge down the river.

City Council has authorized Councilman Wood to go to Raleigh and see the officials of the Yadkin Power Co., to ascertain when the company can probably extend its wires to Wilmington and at what cost it would be willing to furnish the city lighting.

Commissioner Frank Barry, recently elected to take charge of the work of the new Commercial Club, has assumed his duties as "city builder" and is familiarizing himself with the situation here preparatory to going after new enterprises for Wilmington.

According to a statement made by Capt. T. D. Meares, city clerk and treasurer, the total revenue of the city this year will exceed $300,000 and will amount to $63,263.76 over last year's income. However, it will all be needed to run the government of the city.

Effective December 1st, the business of the American Naval Stores Co., of Wilmington and other Southern ports, is to be taken over by the Columbia Naval Stores Co., which was organized following the suspension of business by the American company some time ago.

Prof. E. B. Phelps, a water expert of the United States government, has been detailed by Surgeon General Rupert Blue to come to Wilmington to make an examination of the public water supply and advise what steps should be taken to secure plenty of pure water for the city. He will be here Monday.

Thanksgiving Day was quite generally observed in Wilmington. Business was practically at a standstill, most of the mercantile houses, as well as the banks being closed, while the postoffice observed Sunday hours. In most of the churches services were held and offerings for the various orphanages made.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the New Hanover Just Freight Rate Association, President J. Allan Taylor was instructed to write Governor Craig relative to the proposed suit to be brought before the Inter-State Commerce Commission for the purpose of having this city made a basing point for freight rates. A mass meeting will be held soon.

A great concourse of people from all walks of life, including prominent railroad officials and other friends from several States, attended the funeral of the late President Emerson of the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad Company, conducted from St. John's Episcopal church in this city Thursday afternoon. The immense collection of floral tributes included almost a carload shipped in a special car from Richmond.

THE FALL OF JERICHO.
(The Story.)

Jericho was the Gibraltar of Canaan. Its towering bastions and gates of iron, with bars of brass, bade defiance to the invader. Even if the gauntlet could be run, no commander versed in tactics would leave such a citadel in his rear. * * * Joshua would not intrust so important a matter to his most reliable lieutenant. He went in person to reconnoiter and plan the attack. While his eye was searching for some vantage-ground, he was suddenly aware of a stranger's presence. Before him was a towering form of majestic mien, a naked sword gleaming in his hand. Every inch a soldier, Joshua clapped his hand upon his sword hilt, advanced, and called for the countersign. In an instant he apprehended the truth—he had met an officer who outranked him. In a moment, with bared feet and prostrate form, he worshipped the commander-in-chief of all Jehovah's hosts, celestial and terrestrial. * * * A plan of assault novel and, humanly speaking, extremely foolish, was revealed to Joshua. The scheme was mortifying to a military genius. In this crucial test, Joshua's faith shines resplendent. He lays his military science at the feet of Jehovah's captain. Having made the Lord's plan his plan, he returns to camp to put it into execution. * * * Next day, under Jericho's walls, the strangest maneuver known to history was made. Israel's palladium, glittering in the sun, carried by priestly hands, as upon other occasions of special sanctity, was in the van. Seven priests, with ram's-horn-shaped silver trumpets, blew a defiant crescendo. Six hundred thousand troops marched, not upon, but around, the citadel. * * * From the walls, as from the gallery of a theater, the whole population of the beleaguered city viewed this strange spectacle daily for a week. * * * On the seventh day, on the completion of the seventh circuit, the seven priests blew an extra loud and prolonged blast upon the seven horns; and at this signal, from six hundred thousand brawny throats, there went up a shout as if victory had already been achieved. * * * That instant the faith of Israel had its reward. Those walls melted as the hearts of their defenders had already. Thus God put the key to Canaan in the hands of faithful Joshua that day. * * * In the midst of the universal ruin a fragment of the wall stood intact. On its summit, like an eyry, was a hut, from whose little window a crimson-dyed cord swung back and forth. It was the house of Rahab. * * * Then that city, the opulent commercial outpost of Canaan, the cup of her iniquity being full, fell a prey to the sword of justice, as wielded by Israel, Jehovah's executioner. * * * Joshua's purpose was that this fortress city should stand perpetually in ruins, as a significant memorial of the retributive justice of God and the victory-achieving power of faith.

THE TEACHERS LANTERN.

Israel's invasion of Canaan must have filled the native princes and peoples, with extreme dread. It was no predatory incursion. It was no aggression in quest of tribute. Three million people were moving in bodily, bag and baggage. Death or banishment was the dilemma which the Canaanites faced. * * * The justice of this displacement of the Canaanites by the Israelites is challenged. One passage of sacred record, however, is like the flash of a searchlight on this problem. Cause of the postponement of Israel's entrance to Canaan was affirmed to be the fact that the iniquity of the native tribes was not yet full. For four centuries the sword was uplifted, but the hand was stayed to leave space for repentance. * * * Iniquity was full, at length—Sodomic licentiousness, wanton drunkenness, inhuman devotement of children to the fire of Moloch. A race, retaining still the human face and form, were devils incarnate, whose extermination was a mercy to themselves and surrounding nations, as well as an expression of divine abhorrence. * * * We get as it were a glimpse through the curtain of that Hand, infinite and irresistible, wiping out of existence one nation, and planting another in its stead; not, however, capriciously, but justly and mercifully, suspending its last move for four centuries. That same Hand still moves among earth's nations, as the hand of the thoughtful chess-player above the board. The righteous nation is still exalted, the wicked abased; and the hand of the Lord hath done it. * * * There was a seven-day delay—a crucial test of Israel's faith, and a means of its cultivation also. "He that believeth shall not make haste." In that they did not precipitately assault the city, they showed their faith. It was faith that brought the walls of Jericho down. (Heb. 11:30.) This was a better generation than that which perished in the wilderness. * * * This delay afforded a last opportunity for repentance on the part of a perverse generation. The candle was burning in its socket but still burning. In this, the eleventh hour of their probation, repentance would have brought salvation. * * * To the victor belong the spoils. But Jehovah was the Victor in this instance. To the Oriental mind there could be no more emphatic evidence of this than the complete deprivation of the assaulting party of the rich booty within the city. * * * Israel is solemnly warned that, if he followed the hideous vices of the native tribes, the land will vomit him out, as it did them. Righteousness is the only title by which they can hold the land. * * * Tamar, the Canaanite, Rahab of Jericho, Ruth the Moabitess, and Bathsheba the Hittite, are the four foreign women whose names appear in the genealogy of the Messiah. What use God can make of the heathen and outcast who give themselves up to Him in dutiful faith!

THE IDEAL CHRISTIAN (XII) AND HIS REWARD.
(Consecration Meeting.)

The true Christian is no legitimate object of pity. His sacrifices and losses are in appearance only. He gives up what would harm him to receive what will bless him. There is a perennial freshness and fruitfulness in his life. The fact is, he is rooted in the very River of Life. His leaf can not wither, and he always has the capacity for a prodigious harvest of moral deeds which can bless others as well as himself. The certitude of reward is the most gratifying phase of it. Failure is impossible if the conditions are met. "He shall doubtless (certainly) come, bearing his sheaves."

jump and, presto! be down to the street in a few seconds. Not a sliver of wood will be used in the construction of the building or its furniture. On the roof are to be a sun parlor for the women and a smoking room for the men; also a steam laundry where will be washed all uniform overalls, as well as towels and other necessary linen.

Gotham has been introduced to a new principle in extinguishing fires, tests of which have excited much interest among officials and scientists. A naturalist and 'nature singer' from the Far West demonstrates that flames can be put out by singing to them or by drawing a bow across a piece of metal as in playing a violin. Standing a dozen feet from a high gas flame, the singer by certain sounds causes the flame to flicker or quiver or die out at will. And with a bow and a piece of aluminum, the peculiar vibrations from a combination of his singing and playing were powerful enough to cause a flame 50 feet distant to act in the same way—finally going out. While there is apparently no getting around the fact that a fire will go out if the right song is sung at it—an almost human characteristic, the development of the principle has not yet reached the point where quartettes are held in the fire houses ready to dash to a conflagration and literally charm the fiery flames from their feast.

New York has a penny restaurant whose thousands of patrons have little sympathy with the prevailing unrest which is attributed to the high cost of living. For more than 30 years it has held forth in a prominent down town location, on a 50x60 plot that is held today at $250,000. This place is an education in catering at prices that make the cost of living shrivel to a mere husk. Here only an occasional one of the many thousand patrons spends more than five cents for his noon-day meal, as at one cent each may be had "hot dogs", rolls, waffles, crullers, buns, ice cream cones and lemonade and coffee at two cents a cup. And the repast may be topped off with well varnished candy or a cigarette or a picture postal to celebrate the feast—all at a penny apiece. During the two midday rush hours the restaurant serves no less than 2,000 cones of ice cream and 3,000 cups of coffee—or chicory (?)—not to mention the vast quantities of other provender. The proprietor owns up to a profit of $150 weekly over a monthly rental of $225 and all other expenses.

The "tea dancers" lead all other pedestrians in recent tests of ground covering proclivities of various classes of New Yorkers. These are the turkey trotters and tango devotees who frequent the afternoon tea places. According to the dedometer, whose business it is to measure and register every movement—forward, backward or sidewise—if required little effort for one of these to trip over 12 miles in four hours. A close second was the girl behind a drug store counter who registered seven miles in three hours. A disappointing surprise was the showing of a sprightly quick lunch waitress who covered only two miles in two rather busy hours. The record of "one of the finest" of the Broadway police squad was only two miles in four hours. To a park lounging hobo belongs the "booby" prize. In four hours he managed to shift his carcass just 69 feet in all.

Gothamites who crave joy riding but have neither autos nor the wherewithal to rent them, are indebted to Jennie Reisch, a Delancey street housemaid for pointing the way. Jennie's favorite habit is giving a real and lifelike imitation of an active fit at an opportune time and place. She dresses well and is a delicate featured rather good looking young woman whose plight quickly wins the sympathy of those nearby and a hurry call for one of those fast flying automobile ambulances especially designed for incoming hospital guests. Jennie appears to have reached the end of her rope, however, as she is now so well known to the emergency surgeons of all the city hospitals that they promptly turn her over to the police for a more leisurely and prosaic journey to the lock-up.

LONGACRE.

A circular sent out from the Insurance Department November 6th, calls the attention of the doctors in the State to the fact that it is against the law for them to make an examination for an unlicensed life insurance company.

BUILD UP YOUR SICK STOMACH

Mi-o-na Soothes the Irritated Membranes, Stimulates and Strengthens the Stomach.

Mi-o-na is one of the most effective and safe remedies for out-of-order stomachs. It quickly and surely stimulates and strengthens the stomach walls. It increases the flow of the gastric juices, soothes the irritated membrane, and benefits the entire digestive system.

Buy from any druggist a fifty cent box of Mi-o-na Tablets and begin now to build up your sick and worn out stomach. Do it now—do not delay—many serious diseases start from what was thought to be only an upset stomach.

If you lack an appetite, your tongue is coated, nerves on edge, have risings of sour and undigested food and experience after eating distress you are suffering with indigestion or sick stomach.

You should take Mi-o-na at once. Without good digestion you are improperly nourished—you are lacking in vitality and your resistance is low—a serious illness may result.

Begin now—today—the Mi-o-na treatment and enjoy good health. Always sold on money back if not benefited plan. Robt. R. Bellamy and druggists everywhere.

Lumbering the Greatest Manufacturing Industry.

Washington, November 29.—According to E. T. Allen, of Portland, Oregon, lumbering is the greatest American manufacturing industry and is exceeded only by agriculture in supplying the essentials of life. In an address before the Conservation Congress, Mr. Allen called attention to the comparative lack of the public's knowledge of the economics of subjects which touch each individual so closely as forestry and lumbering.

Mr. Allen is forester of the Western Forestry and Conservation Association, an organization of lumbermen whose principal activity is the protection of their holdings from fire. A large part of the association's efforts are directed to making the public realize the loss which each individual suffers, directly and indirectly, from forest destruction. In this connection he pointed out that forest preservation can not be conducted wholly by business managers or boards of directors. "It is a mutual co-operative enterprise," he said, "requiring daily participation by all concerned. The American forest policy must exist not because a few say it should, but because a majority of citizens understand what is needed and why it is needed and put the policy into effect."

from the other end of the line—the Tiger lair—that there may be something in the story. Let us hope so. A Michigan-Princeton game would prove one of the most attractive football events that could possibly be arranged.

The wrestling game has begun to attract attention again and in New York in particular, great interest is being shown, though this sport has drawn more charges of crooked work than any other known, with the possible exception of professional racing. Alex Aberg, of Finland, seems to be the most capable of the crop of wrestlers around New York at present, but a big Russian just arrived, Ivan Mamutoff, bears promise, it is stated. Whether Frank Gotch can be brought out of retirement is the principle topic of interest among followers of the game.

Many fight fans figure, as a result of Willie Ritchie's splendid form, as shown by the recent defeat of Leach Cross, that he will make mince meat out of Tommy Murphy in their bout on the coast on December 10th, particularly since Murphy was such an easy victim for Packey McFarland in New York a few weeks ago. But they seem to forget that Murphy always fights better in California than in his home district. The scrap is likely to prove a tough one for Ritchie, since Murphy will be facing an opportunity to get a championship he never held and accordingly will risk everything in the effort to best the title holder. Ritchie does seem a logical victor, but it's a good bet he will have to go at top speed.

If you are looking for that which is best in the men and women with whom you come in contact; if you are seeking also to give them that which is best in yourself; if you are looking for friendship which shall help you to know yourself as you are and to fulfill yourself as you ought to be; if you are looking for a love which shall not be a flattering dream and a madness of desire, but a true comradeship and mutual inspiration to all nobility of living, then you are surely on the ascending path.

Things that often seem little and insignificant, little neglects, little duties unobserved, sometimes pile up before us, and then, when it is too late, we find that the cause of Christ, as well as the influence of our own life, for good, has been hindered. He that fails to comply with the little demands of life will be unable to meet the requirements of greater ones as they present themselves.

All Blood Disorders Quickly Driven Away

Astonishing Results With the Greatest Blood Purifier Ever Discovered.

Strength, Power, Accomplishment are all Typified in S. S. S.

Some blood disorders become deeply rooted in the glands and tissues, and the mistake is made of resorting to drastic drugs. These only aggravate by causing other and worse troubles. A host of people know this to be true. They know from painful experience.

To get right down into where the blood is vitiated requires S. S. S. the greatest blood purifier ever discovered.

This remarkable remedy contains one ingredient, the active purpose of which is to stimulate the tissues to the healthy selection of its own essential nutriment and the medicinal elements of this matchless blood purifier are just as essential to well balanced-health as the nutritious elements of the meats, grains, fats and sugars of our daily food.

Not only this, but if from the presence of some disturbing poison there is a local or general interference of nutrition to cause boils, carbuncles, abscesses and kindred troubles, S. S. S. so directs the local cells that this poison is rejected and eliminated from their presence.

Then, too, S. S. S. has such specific stimulation on these local cells as to preserve their mutual welfare and a proper relative assistance to each other.

In a very brief time S. S. S. has the reconstructive process so under control that remarkable changes are observed. All eruptive places heal, mysterious pains and aches have disappeared, and from head to foot there is a conscious sensation of renewed health.

From the fact that S. S. S. is purely a botanical preparation, it is accepted by the weakest stomach and has great tonic influence. Not one drop of drugs or minerals is used in its preparation. Ask for S. S. S. and insist upon having it. And if you desire skillful advice upon any matter concerning the blood and skin write to The Swift Specific Co., 205 Swift Bldg, Atlanta, Ga. Do not allow some zealous clerk to larrup the atmosphere in eloquence over something "Just as good" as S. S. S. Beware of all counterfeits.
